Contest Still Not Settled

The hearing on the motions involved in the contest of the Nov. 8 election of Aubrey Michael as collector of Scott county resulted in nothing concrete Thursday afternoon in circuit court at Benton.

Harold Hahn who came within 345 votes of winning the election has filed a notice of the election contest which charges that 560 of the votes cast were voided and not counted for him, but were in fact counted for Michael, although a line was drawn through the printed name of Aubrey Michael and the name Harold Hahn was written immediately below such cancelled name and a cross mark (x) was placed in the square at the left of such name, all of which fraudulently deprived him of the said 560 votes cast in his favor.

Hahn and his attorney ask in the notice of contest for a recount. This motion was not handled directly in the hearing.

However, Michael's attorneys asked that the motion for a recount be quashed, and Circuit Judge Marshall Craig sustained the motion, which apparently rules out a recount for the time being.

A motion requiring Hahn to post cost bond of $350 also was sustained at the hearing.

Three other motions were taken under advisement. One of the most crucial motion taken under advisement is the motion involving the objection to the contestee's (Michael's) interrogations.

Michael's attorneys had about 18 questions to ask of Hahn's attorney. The most important questions concerned the "good faith" of the allegations made concerning fraudulent voting.

The most discussed motion at the hearing was Michael's attorneys motion to dismiss the case. It, too, was taken under advisement.

The attorneys asked that Hahn's attorney be more specific in his charges of fraud. They asked him to name persons who voted fraudulently.

They called two witnesses Lewis Jones, 303 Greer, and Carl C. Wilkinson, 112 West Wakefield who both worked as election judge during the Nov. 8 election. Each was asked if he saw any votes counted in the fraudulent manner as stated Hahn's notice of election contest.

Hahn's attorney objection to the question was sustained in each case.

He objected on the basis, that an answer from the election judges on the basis of this recall would violate the best evidence rule. The ballots contain the best evidence. He listed four other objections.

Hahn's attorney cited several legal cases involving election contests and asked the judge to read the pleadings and compare them to those in his notice.

The judge will ultimately decide whether or not a recount is in order. However, before a recount is ordered, it is likely that another hearing on the merits of the allegations would have to be held.

Man, 100, Celebrates In Bus Trip

By Leo Schade

VANDUSER -- How does a man celebrate his 100th birthday?

John Andrew Sneed, who lives alone at his farm home, four miles southwest of Vanduser, has his own way.

Late in October he left alone, boarded a bus for St. Louis to visit his only sister, Mrs. Margaret Bell, 98. He returned home on Tuesday.

From there he went to Chicago, to visit a son, and then on to Cleveland to visit a daughter, Mrs. Effie Mae Turner. He never encountered any trouble in his travels and may do it again.

"Now that I have returned home, I'll settle down for a few months, and enjoy my life on the farm that I wouldn't trade for all the places I've been," Sneed said.

He was born near Holly Springs, Miss., Jan. 17, 1867, and moved to near Crowder in 1923. In 1938 he moved to his present home southwest of Vanduser, where he lives on a 33-acre tract.

"Six years ago I took sick, and after that I had to give up working my land with a team of mules, and now rent it," he explained.

He raised cotton and beans on his land. In recent years he gave up production of cotton and beans.

He lives fairly comfortably from old age pension of $75 per month and the rent, and with the assistance of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Karnes, who live across the road. The Karnes take him to town to buy groceries.

His farm property lies adjacent to the old Little River. During a wet season water covers the road and he is forced to use an eight-foot high bridge in and out of his property. He must cross the bridge to reach the road in front of his house and his mail box.

He does his housework since the death of his second wife April 1, 1965 and cooks a good meal. He has never used glasses and is a constant reader of the newspapers.

"I've missed my Daily Standard, and since I came back to stay awhile, I want it back in my home," he said.

His small radio is on the blink but he still has a television set to provide news and entertainment.

He attributes his long life and good health to a minimum of bad habits and work.

"I've farmed over a half century as a sharecropper, and would give it up when things got bad," he recalled. "I would then take over steamboating as a roustabout, and also worked on the railroad as an extra hand. I was never without work."

He hunted until recent years, but didn't give it up because of his eyes. "My sickness made it impossible for me to keep up with the dogs on rabbit, squirrel and coon hunts," he explained.

He has two trusty dogs, Brownie and Max.

When he walks across the bridge they trot behind him and don't let him out of their sight.

The Karnes kept a pet cat for him while he was away. When he came home, it returned.

"I wouldn't trade any of this for all my visits the last three months, and I'm waiting for spring," he said. "If I get too lonesome, I may take off again, but don't count on it too much."

WHO'S AFRAID of a rickety wooden boat bridge? This 50-foot span is almost as old as John Andrew Sneed and is eight feet high. Sneed crosses the bridge in front of his home near Vanduser followed by his two dogs.

Snow, Ice Paralyze Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A record winter storm paralyzed Chicago today with 23 inches of snow and spread a sea of white drifts as deep as 15 feet.

The storm moved eastward from the central plains into the Great Lakes region and northeast. Freezing rain spread into much of western New York State.

Many communities were virtually isolated as banked highways froze vehicle movement. Planes were grounded and utilities disrupted. Strong north winds heaped the snow.

The Chicago snow bettered by eight inches the previous record 24-hour snowfall of 14.9 inches set Jan. 30, 1939. It began at 7 a.m. Thursday and still was falling today. The former snowfall record for a single storm was 19.2 inches in March 1930.

Chicago's downtown section was kept a fairly well dug-out island, but little moved other than emergency vehicles. Roads leading to the center of town were blocked. All expressways were closed by snow, except stretches of Edens Expressway north of Chicago.

All Chicago schools were closed. Police urged persons to stay home.

The city's heart and pulse were very slow. Closed were the Board of Trade, the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, and thousands of stores, offices and factories.

Cars by the thousands were stalled on streets and expressways, partly buried or concealed entirely beneath snowdrifts. Telephones and power service went on. The railroads and Chicago Transit Authority elevated and subway trains ran on slowed schedules, packed with travelers. There was token bus service over limited routes. Taxis went nowhere.

Pedestrians walked down the middle of the deserted streets. Two men tried to ski to their train station.

School's Future Talked

By Jerry Obermark

The Caucasian members of the city of Sikeston would have been proud of the way Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty handled the touchy issue of complete integration of the school system Thursday night at a meeting in Sunset addition's Masonic hall.

A majority of the more than 100 Negroes attending were not satisfied.

The issue discussed was - what will become of Lincoln school.

The meeting was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Gwinn, who managed to keep order most of the time and tried to keep the discussion centered on the issue.

At the outset, the Rev. Mr. Gwinn stated that the people of Sunset have no objections to the proposed expansion plans of the school administrators and board as stated in the citizens advisory council meeting Jan. 5, at the high school.

School officials announced at that meeting that they are considering undertaking an overall program estimated to cost $1,700,000. Proposed in the planning are: An increase in teachers' salaries, construction of a new elementary school to replace the airport facility, and expansions at the cafetorium, school library and the math and science departments of the high school.

It was mentioned that the school system also will have to effect complete integration of the schools to meet with federal requirements.

At the meeting last night the Negroes asked the administrator to be more specific.

Lincoln School is the only remaining segregated school in Sikeston. It has about 350 Negro children attending grades 1-6, and is located in Sunset Addition, an almost 100 per cent Negro section.

Before giving the floor to Twitty, the Rev. Mr. Gwinn stated that "the questions to which we must address ourselves are:

Must the children in Lincoln School be moved out to other elementary schools in town? And if so what will be expected of us to be requirements in dress, transportation, and food? Do we have to take Lincoln School out of our front yards?

"We are not against the expansion program of the school system. But we are concerned about taking the school out of our community."

He urged the audience not to be wishy - washy. Be for it or be against it but take a stand.

Twitty introduced the president of the school board, Dr.

The club members will stop cars at the intersection of Malone and Highway 61 between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Plead Guilty To Attempted Robbery in Fisk

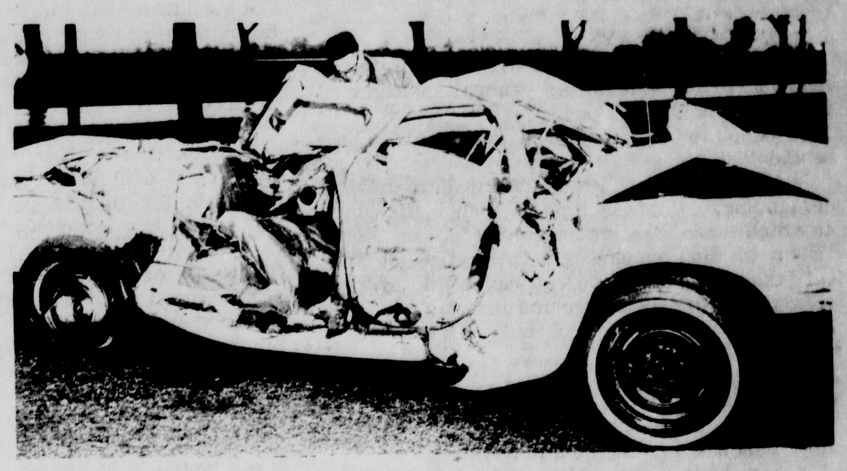

ST. LOUIS AP -- Two St. Louis truck drivers pleaded guilty to U. S. District Court today to the attempted robbery Sept. 12 of the State Bank of Fisk, near Poplar Bluff.

Judge James H. Meredith sentenced George C. Ford, 38, to 15 years in prison. Sentencing for Arlington Green, 20, was deferred until next Friday pending a pre - sentence investigation.

Two men, one armed with a shotgun and the other with a pistol, entered the bank last September. The institution's executive vice president, M. G. Schain, came out of his office with a revolver and fired at the bandits.

Then a shotgun blast hit Schain in the leg and the two robbers fled. Schain recovered from the wound after a long hospitalization.

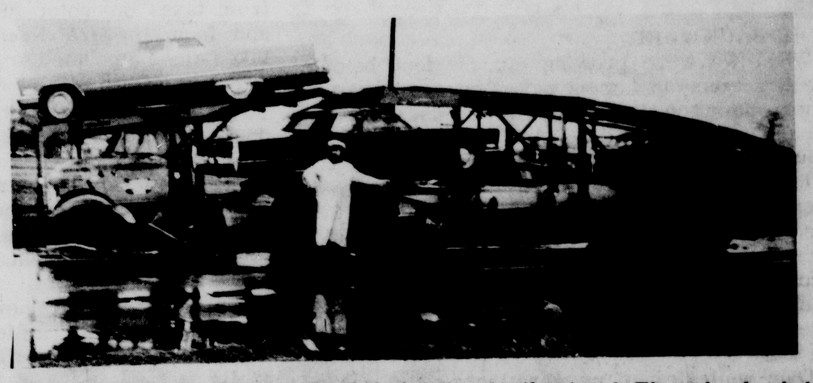

Highway patrolmen arrested Ford and Green a short while later near Malden.

HENRY HAWKINS JR. was killed when his car was demolished in a three-vehicle accident on Highway 61 Thursday afternoon.

THIS CAR, driven by Ale Cato of Dexter, went into a ditch following a three-vehicle collision on highway 61 Thursday afternoon.

The car of Henry Hawkins Jr., hit a tractor-trailer truck Thursday loaded with new cars. Police Chief Arthur Bruce directs traffic around the vehicle.

Sikeston Man Killed in Crash

Henry Clifton Hawkins Jr., 44, of 617 Hart, was killed in a three- vehicle collision on highway 61 between the Sikeston IGA store and Burger - Chef at 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

Hawkins was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Delta Community hospital.

He was a construction worker.

The highway patrol said Hawkins' car skidded sideways into the path of an oncoming car driven by Ale Cato, 42, Dexter, bounced off the Cato car and hit a tractor-trailer truck driven by James Sawer, 51, Lincoln Park, Mich.

In another fatal accident Thursday at Galesburg, Ill., a man was killed in a two - car crash on highway 61, seven miles south of Hayti at 10:45 a.m.

Troopers said the victim, Darnell Walker, 58, was a passenger in a car driven by Cassell Page, 35, Galesburg, which skidded on wet pavement into the path of an oncoming car driven by George Story, 28, Steele.

Injured were Corene Walker, 50, Galesburg, cuts and bruises; Ann Walker, 33, Galesburg, fractured pelvis; Page, right thigh cut and head injury; Story, fractured right kneecap; Mildred Story, 43, Steele, serious head injury; Millard Story, 5, fractured left leg and possible head injury, and Johnny Richetts, 15, Steele, bruises.

They were taken to Pemiscot Memorial hospital at Hayti.

Hawkins body was taken to the Nunnelee Funeral Home.

Born July 2, 1922, in New Madrid county, Hawkins was married Oct. 19, 1953, to Miss Betty Long, who survives.

Also surviving are two sons, Lenny and Denny Hawkins; one daughter, Jackie Hawkins; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hawkins Sr.; two brothers, Jackie Hawkins, in Illinois, and Shirley Hawkins, Brownwood, and five sisters, Mrs. Margaret Yount, Cottage Hill, Ill.; Mrs. Doris Snider, Middlebrook, Ill.; Mrs. Louise Smith, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Lorene Burkett, St. Louis, and Mrs. Mary Gibbons, Chaffee.

Youth Charged With Forgery

CHAFFEE -- Donal Ray Moyers, 17, has been charged with forgery after he reportedly cashed a Chaffee high school check for $158.54 Thursday.

Sheriff John Dennis charged that Moyers took three blank checks from the high school made one out and cashed it at the Bank of Chaffee.

The youth, who posted a $500 cash bond, will appear in magistrate court at Benton Wednesday morning.

Seven Injured

Seven persons were given emergency treatment Thursday at the Missouri Delta Community hospital:

Judy Daniels, injured finger at school; William McLelland III, Coushatta, La., involved in car accident; Carry Carter, Fayetteville, Ark., car accident; Debra Lee Evans, mashed left thumb in door at home; Luthell Brewer, cut end of finger on meat slicer; Ricky Litchford, Charleston, injured right shoulder while wrestling at school; Jane Michael, twisted right ankle while skating.

Peace in Space Treaty Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surrounded by ambassadors representing nations around the world, President Johnson presides today at a special White House ceremonial signing of a treaty aimed at preserving outer space for peaceful purposes.

By early today, more than 40 envoys had signified their intent to commit their countries to the 2,000 word, five-language treaty at the late afternoon ceremony in the East Room of the executive mansion. Still more were expected to join the roster during the day.

The treaty was signed early today in Moscow at ceremonies attended by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson and British Ambassador Sir Geoffrey Harrison signed it at Spiridonov Palace, site of the signing of the 1963 limited nuclear test ban treaty.

A signing was also scheduled for London.

More than 100 nations are expected to sign up eventually.

The treaty was worked out mainly in negotiations between the two great space powers — the United States and the Soviet Union — and is rated by diplomats as another sign that Washington and Moscow can reach new agreements despite their differences over Vietnam.

In the continuing search for disarmament agreements, the space treaty follows the 1963 limited nuclear test ban accord. Still in the negotiation stage are proposals to curb the spread of atomic weapons and to snuff out a potential antiballistic missile race.

The space treaty is open for signing at the three capitals to allow any nation to join despite international political differences. For instance Red China, North Vietnam, North Korea, East Germany and Cuba can sign with equal legality at Moscow since they have no diplomatic relations with the United States.

Peking has publicly indicated it wants no part of the treaty, however. It spurned the test ban pact too.

Senate ratification is required for U.S. participation.

The treaty would ban nuclear and other mass destruction weapons from orbit in space, forbid the establishment of military bases on the moon or other celestial bodies, rule out territorial claims to celestial bodies and calls for peaceful and cooperative exploration in space.

It would not prohibit atomic-tipped rockets like intercontinental ballistic missiles which may soar into space briefly on their way back to earth targets. These are not mass destruction weapons "in orbit."

Nor would it ban unarmed but militarily important space vehicles like spy satellites, U.S. officials said.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

For Stan Musial all Missourians will wish at least a little success as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

It's a job that many Missourians would rather he didn't take.

Managing a major league baseball team is a demanding, heartless type of man killing task at which more try than succeed.

Even winning managers occasionally get fired but those who don't win haven't a chance.

Musial enters as a hero and if history repeats itself he may either go out as a bum or a bumbler.

It's not the kind of fate that Missourians would wish for one of the good guys.

Stan the Man is a storied character in Cardinal baseball history as a player.

He has been every Missouri boy's idol and that includes many men, who never achieved maturity as far as baseball is concerned.

Musial's fan club is worldwide.

He has had a national stake in the health and well being of young men as chairman of the president's council on physical fitness.

The Cardinal pilot's job couldn't have gone to a more capable person or to a nicer guy.

May success crown his efforts at least long enough to give him some feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction before he gives up or gets dislodged from the fickle driver's seat.

As a player he was great but great players don't always make great managers.

THE BACK YARD

When we were growing up, and long before that, a common lament was "how can you keep them down on the farm" when things are so much better in the city. And they really were-much better pay for much less work.

The American farm had been in an almost permanent depression since the turn of the century. Prices were so low no one could make a decent living out of cows or cotton, food or fibre. By the end of World War II our farms were living on Federal subsidy and the resulting surpluses were a national disgrace.

Then while few of us were looking, the worm turned. Mountainous surpluses drained away to stem famine abroad. The U.S. found itself on a hand-to-mouth basis for the first time in the memory of anyone alive. The July wheat carryover ran 100 million bushels below the "safe" minimum. Despite a record 1965 crop, the soybean carryover was near a ten-year low. Government estimates put the total feedstuff supply at an eight-year low. The population here and abroad had quietly caught up with the food available.

The figures showed it. Farm land values jumped 8 percent from spring '65 to spring '66. Down South the gain was 14.7 percent. Even Appalachia gained 6.3 percent. Dollar value of farms sold was up 14 percent, despite the tightest money and toughest financing conditions in 40 years. Exports in fiscal '66 doubled the '56 experience - and most were commercial sales rather than Federal aid.

There's more than population pressure behind these figures. Some four million acres go out of production each year as our cities and towns and highway networks spread out over the land. Obviously, the time has come to watch out what we cover with asphalt - the meal we lose may eventually be our own.

Meantime, there's a new boom down on the farm.

Going skiing for the first time? It isn't necessary to have the latest style and shade of pants, sweaters and parkas to learn to ski. At most ski areas you'll see everything from blue jeans to stretchpants, and from army surplus gear to everyday slacks and pants.

The National Safety Council advises that clothing should be comfortable, suitable for strenuous activity (not too loose or too tight), warm, windproof and waterproof.

In addition, the Council reminds skiers not to forget the little things, such as:

Shatterproof sun glasses or ski goggles to protect your eyes from the wind and sun.

Leather mittens or gloves that cover the wrists.

Something to cover your ears and keep them warm.

Sun tan lotion and chapstick.

A couple of safety pins - just in case.

Thousands of people are serious collectors of license plates, according to Keith Marvin, a New York state newspaperman and author of a book titled "License Plates of the World."

"It's a hobby that has a lot of the fascination of stamp collecting - the objects collected are colorful and interesting, there's satisfaction in building a complete collection, and you learn something about other states and nations in the process," says Marvin.

His own collection grew so large he finally stopped acquiring license plates and concentrated on classifying license-plate data.

Going after such information can be a stimulating arm-chair adventure, Marvin has learned. For example, when he wrote for information on license plates in the remote Himalayan nation of Sikkim, he received in return a letter from the nation's ruling prince.

Communist officials proved far less cooperative. Of 15 officials in the Soviet Union to whom he wrote for license plate data, only one replied, and his letter was delayed and censored by a senior official.

In spite of this lack of cooperation, Marvin has learned that the Soviets issue a variety of license plates, some white on black, some black on white, and that special tags are issued to certain classes of people, such as foreign newspapermen.

Here at home, Marvin is hopeful that more states will issue reflective "safety tag" plates, now adopted in 25 states.

"Studies show that these safety tags, after dark, cut down rear-end collisions and accidents involving parked cars," Marvin says. He explains that reflective plates are visible at 2,000 feet in the headlights of a car.

Marvin also favors the use of front license plates by the 16 states which now issue only one license plate. He points out that the use of front tags greatly increases the number of cars that law-enforcement officers can check as they cruise down the highway. They can check the front plates of on-coming cars as well as the rear plate of the car ahead.

Motor fuel taxes alone amounted to $4.3 billion.

Nearly every community has home-grown industries which are important to the local economy.

Yet, many local industries operate un-noticed and unappreciated by the public. Public indifference can affect production, morale of personnel, and governmental action which relates to the company.

On the other hand, a new industry often comes into the community amid a splurge of publicity which draws the unqualified support of the whole public.

Of course, this kind of reaction seems unfair to the established, home-grown industry. But neither the public nor the local newspaper can be blamed for the situation. The established industry which takes its position for granted may expect a complacent attitude from the public. The new industry which uses advertising and other means of publicity to build its personality deserves the attention it has earned.

Every community newspaper encourages industry, both old and new, to the full extent of its means. But the newspaper, which is an industry itself, has certain limitations imposed on it. It cannot provide free advertising to one industry in preference to another. The result would be a bankrupt newspaper.

Bonafide news originating from any industry, from saw-mill to clothing factory, will be published in the community newspaper. But institutional advertising which keeps the status of industry fresh in the public mind, requires consistent use of newspaper advertising space.

THE INESCAPABLE NEED

The news that the Administration is requesting a huge additional sum, in the $13 billion range, to meet vastly increased military costs brought on by the war in Viet Nam should surprise no one. That war, so far as we are concerned, has moved with appalling swiftness from the minor to the major stage and is approaching Korean War dimensions. All efforts, by this and other nations, to persuade Hanoi to enter into negotiatons on fair terms have been contemptuously refused, and there is small doubt that this will continue to be the enemy's attitude in the foreseeable future.

Thus the already large budget deficit, along with that projected for the coming fiscal year, soars into the economic stratosphere. The inevitable result is to feed the fires of inflation-unless. The "unless" amounts to this: Those fires can be kept under some kind of effective control only if there are sharp cuts in domestic spending in order to offset the war spending. The inescapable need, as Rep. Ford put it, " . . .is a reduction in nonessential domestic spending in order to avoid added taxes or a skyrocketing cost of living." Congress has no greater duty than to see this accomplished.

GOOD NEWS FOR BAD HABITS

A researcher has discovered evidence that dosing cigarettes with vitamin A nullifies the effects of suspected cancer-producing agents in tobacco smoke.

Tobacco companies are keeping their fingers crossed. Not only could it make cigarettes safe, it could make them positively healthy, because the vitamin A in the smoke might also help counteract the polluted air that is breathed in by everybody, puffers and non-puffers alike.

If science can make cigarettes healthy, it should be easy to do the same with alcohol. In fact, one wonders why the minimum daily vitamin requirement for adults has not been added to liquor long before this. Or imagine a protein-rich cocktail.

NEW PLANS FOR TRADING WITH OUR ENEMIES

In the midst of the Vietnam war, the Soviet government still hopes and expects to gain American aid for the building of an automobile factory in Russia. The factory would be of Italy with the help of $50 million credit from the U.S. Export-Import Bank for the purchase of American machinery for the plant.

Four U.S. Congressmen from the House Banking and Currency Committee who recently toured Russia and communist Eastern Europe came back bubbling with enthusiasm for the Fiat deal. They seemed convinced that the Kremlin would use the plant to increase production of cars for Russia consumers.

Sometimes it seems almost impossible for Americans to understand the nature of the communist enemy. This reaction of the Congressmen is a case in point. The Kremlin is not interested in producing consumer goods, beyond the bare minimum needed to keep the enslaved Russian people from utter despair. Certainly there is not going to be a mass automobile market in Russia in the near future, nor do Russians have the money or the roads to create it.

The Fiat plant, if built, will be used for just one purpose: to expand Soviet production facilities for military purposes. If the plant is not itself used to turn out military hardware for Vietnam, it will be used to free other factories to do so.

It is incredible that we should even consider granting money for this deal while our soldiers are being killed by the communists in Vietnam. Credit dollars for Moscow come back as bullets from Hanoi. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- In Georgetown, people still walk along "N" street and pick ivy from the slope in front of the house where Jackie Kennedy used to live. A lot of famous people live on that street. Across the way is the house of Abraham Lincoln's son Todd, who founded the Pullman Car Company. Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen lives in the Lincoln house today.

Next door is the home of Stanley Woodward, who used to be Ambassador to Canada and Chief Protocol Officer for the White House. A few doors away is the home of Ambassador Averell Harriman, former Governor of New York and former Secretary of Commerce.

The house in front of which the people pull the ivy used to be the home of Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson cabinet. Michael Straight, author and editor, lives there now. But the people who walk by are not interested in the famous men who once lived in the house or who lives there now. They are interested only in the fact that Jackie Kennedy lived there.

And, for most of them, Queen Jacqueline still sits on her throne, the nearest to American royalty this county has ever seen, and perhaps ever will see.

When they read the book "The Death of a President," they ask a lot of questions. One question is, why did Jackie let herself pour her heart out for ten hours to William Manchester and his tape recorder -- to a man she did not really know well? Why didn't she get advice from a friend?

One answer is that Jackie has had almost no women friends. Her closest friend, her half sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, doesn't understand politics and was in no position to advice her. Her mother, who does understand, hasn't had much influence with Jackie in recent years.

Jackie's closest friend and adviser is her brother - in - law, Bobby Kennedy, with whom she has taken many skiing and yachting trips. But they both figured they had signed a contract with a man they could control. As Jackie wrote to Jim Bishop when he wanted to write a book on the assassination, "I hired Manchester." And having "hired" him, she expected to control him.

POSITION OF POWER

This reveals another interesting answer: namely, that the Kennedys have always played from a position of power.

Their father was able to buy a New York Supreme Court appointment through Tammany Hall for Fred Pecora when the latter was in line to become head of the new securities and exchange commission. Thus Joe Kennedy, instead of Pecora, got the SEC chairmanship.

Later old Joe was able to buy the ambassadorship to England by contributing heavily to the Democratic party. And, having determined to put his son in the White House, old Joe spent the money, corraled the politicians, inspired his sons and got the job done.

It's no secret that today the family is determined to put another Kennedy in the White House; and one reason for the tough censorship of the Manchester book was so nothing would be recorded for history which might mar that ambition. Having been in the habit of playing from a position of power, Jackie and Bobby cracked the censor's whip.

Another question asked by readers of the book is why Manchester spends so much time reporting how the late President discussed with his wife the details of what dress she should wear, what the weather would be like and which kind of dress would go with what weather.

This almost makes the late President effeminate, which he definitely was not. It is true that he was proud of Jackie, and I recall several times his expressing pleasure over complimentary stories I had written about her. But it's doubtful that he devoted more time to Jackie's wearing apparel than to affairs of state -- as would appear from the book.

EX-CAMERA GIRL

The explanation is that Jackie recounted to Manchester the picture of her husband as she wanted to remember him. Being human, she wanted to forget the unpleasant memories, the marital difficulties. So the picture she gave Manchester was not necessarily the way her husband was. Definitely he was not effeminate.

Nor is the wide- eyed, beautiful lady whom so many have placed on an American throne, as demure as the people who pluck ivy from her onetime lawn think she is. She has a temper as explosive as the first Queen Elizabeth of England and a vituperative vocabulary inherited from the days when she was a photographer for the Washington Times Herald and held her own with any cameraman.

In the last week, however, Jackie has been advised to improve her image. This was the real reason why she belatedly cancelled the $30,000 which President Johnson had alloted her for public relations.

The money - $50,000 up until the 1967 budget - was to answer mail and pay Miss Pamela Turnure who had long handled Mrs. Kennedy's PR work. Actually the mail has been greater in the past months due to the Manchester book controversy. However, Jackie's brother-in-law advised her that her public image was going sour and she had better give up the White House money.

No other President's widow has ever received a budget allowance other than a $10,000 annual pension. Nor has any other President's widow received secret service protection.

Note -- Some other widows have been desperately hard up. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge inherited almost no property. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Truman had her house in Independence, Mo., but no income other than his writings, until congress voted HST and Eisenhower a $25,000 office expense allowance. The late JFK left around $10,000,000 in trust to his children and widow.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK AP -- A lot of people are in the dumps because they already have failed to live up to the noble New Year's resolves they made to change their lives for the better.

The trouble with most of them probably is that they set themselves impossible goals.

Instant reformation may be possible for saints but it is uncharacteristic of ordinary human beings. The first wise measure toward reformation isn't to make yourself any better — it's to keep yourself from getting any worse.

Set yourself achievable goals. Instead of resolving what you will do, decide what you won't do. Be positive in a negative way.

For example, I decided it would be a better world for me in 1967 if I firmly made up my mind not to do the following things:

Stuff a whale and exhibit it on a cross-country tour.

Learn any modern dance step.

Bet against the Green Bay Packers football team — even if

Buy a race horse, an astrakhan hat, or a solid gold ear cleaner.

Drink dry martinis through a damp straw.

Attend any marijuana orgies.

Read any magazine articles on how one's sex life can be made more interesting, or how one can get rich by investing in the stock market or raising chinchillas in the basement.

Take up the study of Yoga or Zen Buddhism in order to discover the wisdom of the mysterious Eas.

Acquire any new diseases. The only sure way to stay healthy is to take care of the diseases you already have.

Run for congress — or a bus.

Write any article saying dogs are superior to cats, or cats superior to dogs as pets.

So far, with the help of a firm will and a lot of inherited character, I've kept every one of my good resolutions for 1967.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Adam Powell's "Unknown Sucessor' Gives Vast New Influence to Labor on the 'Hill'.

Washington, D. C.: -- Almost faceless and image - less in the public spotlight -- but not for long -- is Carl Perkins, the man who has walked, not stalked, in the shadow of Adam Clayton Powell for five tumultuous years.

More and more now the citizenry will learn his name, his policies and his alliances -- all of which will change the law on the traumatic labor front. For he now, as Rev. Powell's successor to the chairmansip of the House Committee on Education and Labor, becomes one of the land's most influential men.

Though it is known only to the handful of those who work with him and who bother with the inner, turgid operations on the Hill, Congressman Carl Perkins, 54, of Southeastern Kentucky, is one of the closest and most cooperative friends the labor leaders have had in the Congress.

All this has been obscured by the shuttling and chuckling of the gentleman from Bimini.

But mark well the worshipper of anonymity, the contrasting Carl Perkins who speeds home to his Pikeville district whenever possible to speak at rallies run by the United Mine Workers and the rest of labor in a district which basically is rural -- what with small farms loaded with hogs and tobacco. These are some railroad shops, some steel plants, much coal, natural gas and oil. But the people are poor and hunger is no museum piece.

And so for over 17 years Carl Perkins, who went into the House the year Texas' Lyndon Johnson left it for the Senate, has voted more consistently with labor than any other Congressman. That's the opinion of such men as AFL-CIO president George Meany and his perpetual man on the Hill, Andy Biemiller.

In fact, the record shows that in the 17 years since the 81st Congress began, Carl Perkins voted "wrong" -- according to labor's specifications -- only twice.

Thus, in effect, Perkins, the Southerner, worked more intimately with the labor establishment than did Adam Powell, who hates its guts and never hesitated to say so.

There still is doubt that Rep. Powell will regain his seat -- for in the final analysis the decision will be made by GOP House leader Gerald Ford.

There is, however, no doubt that Powell, even if he is seated and is back on the Committee, never will retrieve the chairmanship. Never is a long time, but in a conversation with Congressman Emanuel Celler he told me that "Adam would have to live another lifetime before he got up enough seniority for another chairmanship."

And there is no doubt that as long as the House Committee on Education and Labor is a single body, Perkins will run it -- and run it as one of the most pro - labor committees the Congress has ever seen.

Labor will get from him what it never could have won from the embattled Powell.

Under the "Kentuckian," the House Labor Committee, whenever possible, will run interference for the labor movement in the renewed fight for repeal of Taft - Hartley's Section 14 (b), the passage of laws liberalizing mass picketing at major construction projects, and the easing of the restrictions of the 1959 Labor - Management Reporting and Disclosure Act.

Perkins himself now really is the repeal of Powell.

The Harlem Congressman was the one - man roadblock who could not be hurdled by what the technicians call "common situs picketing."

Today this is forbidden, but for years the powerful building and construction unions have fought for it because it would give them a chance to picket projects on which operate 40 or 50 contractors -- even though the unions had a quarrel with but one corporation. Such a law would give the unions tremendous strength in organizing multimillion dollar heavy construction sites.

Perkins has fought for it as strongly as he bucked the passing of the Landrum - Griffin Act in '59.

And when Perkins fights he is truly formidable -- his attendance record is perfect. He has voted on every roll call -- and of course, pro - labor.

He stands with the unions on other legislation. He actually developed the model for the 1965 Appalachian Regional Development Act and the job and neighborhood youth corps of the poverty program.

Small wonder, then, there is joy in labor circles over the disappearance of Adam Clayton Powell's large shadow.

Sew-With-Cotton Deadline Set

PORTAGEVILLE -- Wednesday has been set as the deadline for enrollment in the Sew-With-Cotton contest. Each enrollee must belong to either 4H, the Future Homemakers of America or be a home economics student. She must sew the garment, herself, of 100 per cent cotton and must be supervised by a teacher or 4-H leader.

The county judging will be held prior to, or on April 15. The district judging event is scheduled April 22.

The selection of county and district winners will be made by a committee of qualified judges outside the county. Contestants are judged by number and the judges will not be given the name of the contestant or the name of the contestant's school.

At the district judging, the district winners are awarded the following cash prizes: Girls Class, aged 10 to 12 years making skirt and blouse, $25 bond and $15 and $10 cash awards; Junior Miss Class, ages 13 to 15, sewing for first time and making skirt and blouse or school dress, $25 bond and $15 and $10 cash awards.

Junior Miss Class, ages 13 to 15 years making better dresses, $50 bond, $25 bond and $15 cash.

Misses Class, ages 16 and up making formals, suits or better dresses without coat (suits must have blouses and lined jackets), $50 bond awards for each: First place, better dress, second place, suit and third place, formal.

Sportswear Class, ages 13 to 18 years making beach wear, shorts, slacks-shirt, blazer or jacket and skirt, $50 bond, $25 bond and $15 cash.

The Sew-With-Cotton club is sponsored by the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, in cooperation with the University of Missouri Extension Home Economists, 4-H leaders and home economics instructors, with the purpose of encouraging the young future homemakers of tomorrow to sew quality garments from quality cotton fabrics.

Enrollment blanks are available from home economic teachers, University Extension Centers or from the office of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association.

REAL RELIGION

Real religion is not just a set of theological or moral propositions in which we believe. Real religion is a strem of grace and power flowing out from God to us, and then through us. There is not only a duty to be fulfilled there is a strength to be received. Worship pre-eminently is where we open ourselves to that source of vitality and life. We will be worshipping at TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH at 110 E. Center Street this Sunday at 10:30 A.M. We should be happy to have you worship with us.

Charleston Takes on Kennett in Finals

POPLAR BLUFF - Kennett and Charleston, the only two seeded teams to survive first round play, will meet tonight at 8:30 p.m. for the championship of the Poplar Bluff invitational basketball tournament.

Semi-final action ended last night. The upset minded Sikeston Bulldogs fell to the fourth seeded Charleston Bluejays in the 7 p.m. game 55-51.

The second seeded Kennett Indians defeated Malden 57-51.

Tonight's action will see the Bulldogs of Sikeston battling Malden for the consolation prize.

Getting off to a slow start, the Bulldogs let the Jays get out to a quick six-point lead before Fred Townes started the Sikeston scoring with a layup. Charleston led with four minutes remaining in the quarter 6-2. The first period ended in a tie 10-10. Dominating the boards the second period, Charleston hit on fast breaks and accurate field shooting to outscore the fighting Dogs 18-10 in the second quarter and posted a 28-20 lead at the intermission. Recuperated and ready to play, Sikeston fought back viciously to tie the score going into the final period of play 36-36. Swamping free throws and a field goal apiece, the score was once again tied 39-39, with 5:38 left to play.

Charleston edged out a lead with 3:51 44-43. Joe Jones added two free tosses for the Jays and Charles Lambert two for the Dogs to again give Charleston a one-point margin 46-45. With one minute and 46 seconds left the Dogs big man Gary Wiss fouled out of the game. This hurt Sikeston's rebounding strength and Charleston pulled out to a five-point lead with a little more than a minute remaining.

Wiss's replacement Carl Barnett came down the court to sink a 20-foot jumper from out front to put the Dogs back there, 54-51. Fighting desperately for the ball with 29 seconds to go, Sikeston's Limbaugh fouled Babb. Hitting one of his two charity tosses, Charleston held its winning four-point margin 55-51.

Lester Carter and Fred Townes paced the Bulldogs with 15 and 12 points respectively. Briggs netted 22 for Charleston.

Matmen Take Win Over Cape

Sikeston high school wrestlers continued to win Wednesday night as they defeated the Cape Girardeau Central Tigers 38-14, for their fourth win of the season. This was the Dogs third straight victory.

The Bulldogs have beaten Charleston, Jackson, Cape Central and Jackson twice.

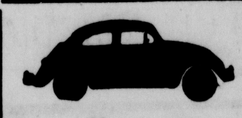

Three of the Dogs four losses have come from two Illinois teams, one from Murphysboro and two from Carbondale.

Winning on pins for the Dogs were Bowden wrestling 102 pounds, Whiteaker 120 pounds, Davis 127 pounds, Warren 145 pounds and Groves 165 pounds. Vaught won on a forfeit.

The Bulldogs will end their 66-67 wrestling campaign next Friday night as they travel to Charleston for a dual match with two Kentucky teams.

Ron Jaynes SPORTS CORNER

We knew something was going to happen last night when we predicted all upsets... but we didn't think we would come out a blank.

Yes. . . that's just what happened as Sikeston, Richland and Malden fell to favored teams as they were trying to make their way into the finals of area basketball tournaments.

We sure didn't think. . . and we know better now. . . that those BlueJays have improved so much. . . but you better know they have and if they keep going the way they played last night. . . they are going to be hard to beat.

Dexter has fully recovered from its loss to Caruthersville and made their way past Richland last night into the finals of the Stoddard county conference tournament.

Kennett, another team we misjudged, almost had its feathers trimmed by the surging Malden Green Waves.

How do we see tonight's action. . . Well first of all if the sun would get a little brighter and the weather a little warmer. . . we think we could see them just fine. . . but the old weatherman says it will stay the way it is for a few days and we will have our troubles tonight. . . as our little light bulb is frosted over. . .

Here we go. . . into another night of round ball action!!

Holcomb at Hayti North -- If the game was to be played at Holcomb the Hornets might have a chance. . . but since it's not, we will go with the Indians to get back in the winning column. Hayti North 71, Holcomb 66.

St. Henry at Delta -- Those Trojans would be surprising . . . and so can those Bobcats. . . We see Delta clawing up the Trojans. . .Delta 59, St. Henry 43.

Illmo - Scott City at Notre Dame -- It seems as though the Bulldogs have been out of action awhile and if they have they might be a little rusty. . . But not that rusty. . . Notre Dame 74, Illmo - Scott City 69.

Vienna, Ill. at Oran -- We hear that Vienna has a good team. . . We know Oran has. . . so this game we see as a toss up. . . Oran 67, Vienna, Ill. 62.

Scott Central at Chaffee -- Those Braves have their ups and downs. . . Maybe if they could see a little better. . . they might hit the bucket and rebound a little better. . . What do you think?. . . I think the Beatles have some competition. Scott Central 106, Chaffee 67.

Portageville at Clarkton -- Those Reindeer have regained their winning ways and will be hard for anyone to beat until regional time. . . Portageville has the chance but will not take it. . . Clarkton 79, Portageville 68.

Matthews at Lilbourn -- The Pirates will sharpen up for their meeting with. . . . perhaps Lilbourn next week in the semi -- finals of the New Madrid county tournament. . . at least the Pirates will not run up any big score. . . at least we think not. . . Would you believe Matthews 26, Lilbourn 23. . . We do.

Poplar Bluff Invitational Tournament
Poplar Bluff

Sikeston vs. Malden -- What the Bulldogs need is a good start and they could defeat anyone . . .The Green Waves defeated the Dogs earlier and we think they will do it again. Malden 59, Sikeston 56.

Charleston vs. Kennett -- The BlueJays had great defense last night. . . and that's all they need to defeat the Indians tonight. . . We know the Jays will get all the rebounds. . . Boy what jumpers. . . Charleston 73, Kennett 64.

Stoddard County Tournament
Bloomfield

Advance vs. Richland -- This should be what you would . . . or I and maybe Johnny Morris and Buzz Carr would call a real head knocker. . . We see the Rebs emerging with the consolation trophy in an overtime. Richland 72, Advance 71.

Consolation Finals Tonight at Bloomfield

Bloomfield and Dexter to Meet in Finals Saturday

BLOOMFIELD - Richland and Bernie in the B bracket and Bloomfield and Dexter in the in the A bracket will meet Saturday night for their respective championships. Bernie edged Puxico 51-47. Dexter raced past Richland for a 56-49 victory in last night's semi-final action.

Tonight's action will be the battle in each bracket for the consolation championship. Dexter and Puxico square off at 7 p.m.

In B bracket play will be followed by an 8:30 p.m. clash between Advance and Richland in the A bracket.

Bernie's junior varsity Mules jumped out a 21-16 first quarter lead but slacked the next two quarters and allowed Puxico to outscore them in each of the periods and found themselves tied going into the final quarter, 39-39. Bernie outscored their opponents 12-8 in the final period to take their four-point victory.

Although Puxico closed to a tie with the Mules they never held the lead throughout the contest. Wilson and Botsch hit 15 and 13 points respectively in leading the Mules into the finals in which they will meet Richland, a team they defeated for the Richland invitational tournament title two weeks ago. D. Holloway topped the Puxico's quintets scoring with 13 points.

Richland's mighty Rebels, biding for a berth in the finals of the Stoddard county tournament, led the first half of the game but went down to defeat in the second half, as Coach Jim Hall's Bearcats forced the Rebs into costly floor mistakes and capitalized on them.

The Rebels pulled out 14-7 in the first quarter, but allowed the Dexter quintet to outscore them in the second quarter and held only a slim 23-19 lead at the half.

Dexter again outscored the Rebs in the third quarter and took over the lead midway in the third period and went into the final period holding a 33-31 lead and outscored the Rebs 23-18 to take the victory.

Richland advanced ahead with a little better than three minutes to play but quickly handed the ball over to the Bearcats twice in a row. It was all over as the Cats raced down floor for a quick three-point lead and never let up.

Richland is pursuing the ball late in the period kept the action on the Cats end of the floor, as they were forced into a fouling situation trying to get the ball.

A six-man scoring attack set up by the Dexter quintet, was led by the Guethle brothers, Harlen and David, who each netted 17 points.

Tommy Davis was high man for the Rebels. He netted 15 points.

Lilbourn and Morehouse Meet in Volleyball Final

Matthews Puts Unbeaten Record On Line In County Finals Tonight

PORTAGEVILLE -- Howardville and Matthews will meet for the championship of the New Madrid county high shool basketball B team tournament Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. after winning semi-final round games last night.

Matthews swept past New Madrid 42-30, and Howardville beat out Portageville 47-40.

Morehouse clubbed Matthews 43-15 to take the semi-final round game and move into the finals Saturday at 6:15 p.m. to play the rough and ready Lilbourn Panthers.

The consolation championship will be played at 7 p.m. tonight as Portageville and New Madrid square off.

Landers with 18 points and Hensley with 10 led the Morehouse Tigers to a volleyball victory. Sexter topped the Matthews scoring with four points.

A well balanced scoring attack led by McElya's 11 points led the Matthews Pirates to their 17 basketball victory of the season against no losses.

New Madrid's Johnson hit 13 points to take high game scoring honors.

The Pirates junior varsity raced into a 12-4 first quarter lead and seemed to be on their way to a route, but a good New Madrid defense and offense prevented it from becoming a romp.

Howardville opened up an 11-7 first quarter lead and outscored their opponents in each quarter except the last to take the victory.

Marsh led an eight-man scoring attack with 17 points for the Hawks and took high game honors in the scoring department.

Williams' 13-point effort was high for the Bulldogs.

Soils Conference In Dexter Friday

DEXTER -- New developments in soils and crops will be discussed at the Stoddard county soils and crops conference Friday at the Dexter civic center beginning with registration at 9:30 a.m.

The conference program will include talks on new crop varieties, chemical weed control, new developments in the use for fertilizer and lime, the use of narrow-row spacings in corn production, corn stunt disease, the southwestern corn borer problem and new changes in governmental farm programs affecting crop production.

Farmers, who have had experience with new soybean varieties, narrow row spacings in corn production, and the southwestern corn borer, will discuss their experiences.

Other speakers will be Joe Scott, extension field crops specialist, John Garrett, area extension soils agent, Flernoy Jones, area extension entomology agent, all of the Delta Center in Portageville, and Edwin Pulliam, County agricultural stabilization and conservation service office manager.

Plans for this conference were made by the county soils and crops conference committee of which Hubert Swinger of Essex is chairman.

#67 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area.

THIS WEEK SALUTING

Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church

Morehouse, Mo.

James L. Estep, Minister

The present Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist church was constructed in 1960, and named after the honored families of the church, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Rauch and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Spence Sr.

The Methodist church has been serving the community of Morehouse since the 1880's; but did not have a church building until 1903. Several denominational groups met in the W.C.T.U. Temple until the Methodist built their building.

In 1963 the Methodist people built a new modern brick parsonage for the minister and his family.

These buildings are only a symbol of the love the people have for their Lord, and their way of giving thanks and glory to the Lord for their blessings.

The church is dedicated toward sharing the good news of Christ's gospel and everyone is welcome to study and worship here.

Services each week are at the following times:
Sunday: Church School 10:00 A.M.
Morning Worship 11:00 A.M.
Evening Worship 7:00 P.M.
Wednesday: MYF and Youth Church 6:30 P.M.
Family Night Singing 7:00 P.M.

BULLDOG BARKER

SIKESTON HIGH SCHOOL, SIKESTON, MISSOURI

Public Apathy May Lead Nation To Destruction

PUBLIC APATHY toward Civil Defense is alarming to persons who have substantial amount or training education in this field.

Survival of the United States of America will depend more and more on the present attitude of those persons in power today.

Some people do not realize they have a responsibility to preserve the nation and mankind in case of a nuclear catastrophe.

Number of persons seem to think that death will come quickly for them if an attack is launched on the United States.

Millions may die as a result of the blast and fire if this should happen, but the residents in small towns (such as Sikeston) can survive if the necessary protection in shelters is available.

If no protection is available at the critical time, the majority of people living in Sikeston would die a slow and agonizing death which probably would take days or weeks.

Up rooted persons would probably have horrible deaths with extreme pain and suffering.

Men may kill their children and wives to relieve them of the horrible pain that would accompany radiation sickness before taking their own lives.

Some persons would live because they had their own private shelters,but they may have to fight for their private shelters because there would be half-crazed people left in the open with no protection.

Citizens of every community should ask themselves these questions --

What is Civil Defense?

Does your city have well-stocked shelters for every person?

Are well-trained shelter managers ready to take charge in case of an emergency?

Are Civil Defense protection measures built into the public schools?

These questions can only be answered by the American citizens of today who are aware of Civil Defense and what it can do for them, their country, and their friends.

Communities should provide shelters so that if they are needed they would be available.

Council Needs Students' Cooperation To Succeed

STUDENT COUNCIL is an organization designed to give the students more representation in the administration of the school government. It is composed of students from each class who are elected at the beginning of the school year. The students are chosen from their various homerooms.

The duties of the council are varied. They include keeping the bulletin board accurate, preparing all assemblies held during the course of the year, operating the refreshment stand at the home football games, planning the elections for class officers, for outstanding class members, and for the student body president.

Committees are formed to oversee these responsibilities. They function under their appointed chairmen.

The most important duty of the student council is to act as the bridge between the administration and the student body.

The council gives the students a chance to voice their opinions and to complain or congratulate various persons or groups on campus. If the council does not function properly, it is up to the students to demand a change.

We are indeed fortunate to have the same type of government in our school system as does our city, state, and nation. The council cannot function properly without the students' cooperation. So respect the council's decisions and do your part to make its efforts successful.

GAA's Highlight Student Display In SHS Lounge

Girls' Athletic Association designed the display case in the student lounge this last week.

A basketball and a volleyball hig light the showcase. These signify the major activities of the GAA's. Girls compete frequently in games with surrounding towns, making volleyball the major sport.

Centered in the showcase is a scrapbook displaying pictures of the GAA annual picnic in 1966. This picture shows the fun and the antics of all the members on this fun-filled day.

Completing the true image of the GAA's is the traditional black sweatshirt with the GAA emblem. Also the two GAA pins are displayed, designating the girl's membership.

Students Get More Points For Speech

14 Earn Membership In Forensic League; 65 Degrees Awarded

Fourteen Sikeston high school students completed the requirements for membership in the National Forensic League recently.

These students will receive a certificate validating their membership and are qualified for the basic National Forensic League pin. Qualification for the various degrees is determined by accumulation of points in the organization.

Degree of Merit is awarded to those who compile a total of 25 points.

An emerald set for the pin is awarded to students with 75 points (Degree of Honor.)

Degree of Excellence (150 points) is denoted by a sapphire set in the pin.

Mike Buchannon, Jim Bucher, Philip Butler, Brad Crumpecker, Sally Faulkner, Gena Nunnelee, Allen Sebaugh, Richard Sherrod, Phonda Snow, Charles Stamp, and Toni Zaricor earned this degree.

Jim Hux, Judy Murchison, Connie Nowell, Tom Phillips, Vicki Schindler, Steve Spear, and Brian Underwood have a total of 250 points and have reached the Degree of Distinction, denoted with a ruby set.

Students accumulate points through participation in debates, congresses, discussions, impromptus, and service speaking.

Next scheduled debate is Wednesday, Feb. 8, in East Prairie.

SHS Students Give Opinions About UFO's

When Barker reporters interviewed students on the subject of Unidentified Flying objects, many interesting answers were received.

Roger Ruebush -- "I believe that there might really be flying saucers or whatever you wish to call them. It would be pretty conceited to think that we have the only life supporting planet."

Roseann DesChamp-- "I think there is a possibility that UFO's do exist, but until I see one, I won't believe it!"

Steve Spear -- "I try to keep an open mind on the subject, but I like to believe man isn't the owner of the universe. At lease until we prove we deserve it."

Judy Murchison -- "I simply don't think about them. They don't bother me and I'm certainly not going to bother them."

Danny Cannon -- "They are real but the Air Force thinks they are illusions instead of from outer space."

Tom Phillips -- "Who knows, they might very well be real. Why not?"

Nancy Turner -- "I'd like to see one and I don't think that they are just illusions."

David Moyers -- "I think they are conrolled intelligent beings, and come from the North Polar cap."

Greg Bailey -- "I believe the U. S. Air Force has a hand in this, and does not wish to reveal the true identify of these objects. The UFO's are probably being used for test purposes."

Connie Nowell -- "I do think that there are people who live on other planets but I don't know if all the information is true."

Three Food Classes Plan Tea In Faculty's Honor

Three food classes of the high school home economics department, directed by Mrs. Hemba Young and Mrs. Larry April, gave a reception for the faculty yesterday afternoon immediately following the dismissal of school.

Each class was divided into families who had certain responsibilities to meet in preparation of the tea. Some of the duties were serving as hostess or assistant hostess, replenishing the tea trays, changing the music, decorating the table, and cleaning up after the reception.

Experience was gained in learning the correct way to make a variety of dainty sandwiches, colored mints, punch, coffee, and freezing the cakes. Placing the food attractively on the trays, setting up a tea table, and arranging a center piece.

Connie Allmeroth, Barba Cantrell, Margaret Carlock, Linda Crenshaw, Rita Douglas, Sharon Edwards, Brenda Freed, Betty Hartlein, Hilda Jones, Janie Long, Cheryl Perry.

Gloria Powell, Gaile Purdy, LaVerne Riggins, Mary Lee Smith, Pearlie Grant, Brenda Mitchell, Brenda Sullivan, and Shirlev Yarber.

With the cooperation of each student and the guidance of Mrs. Young and Mrs. April, the reception was considered a success.

Class Features Careers; Board Is Weekly Project

LINDA BENNETT and BECKY ZIEGENHORN designed and constructed the bulletin board.

******

Bulletin board in the main hall of "A" building is to be the weekly project of the career explorations class, instructed by Gerald Hancock.

Students enrolled in the class will erect a board each week featuring different careers. This week's bulletin board explores career opportunities in radio.

Sky blue paper is background for Schultz's "Snoopy," World War I flying ace, and his "Sopwith Camel."

Pamphlets explaining diversified occupations in radio are also displayed.

Theme of the construction is "Twentieth Century Radio."

Students designing and erecting the board were Linda Bennett and Becky Ziegenhorn.

Next week's bulleti board will be the project of Marcia Mays, Janet Trucks, and Johnny Johnson.

Career explorations is being offered for the first time this semester, and it is devised for seniors and their futures.

Goal of each student is to evaluate himself by comparing ability, aptitude, and interest with the career he plans to enter.

Class meets fifth hour each day.

Forty - three students currently compose the career explorations class.

Five Student Instructors Will Assist In Classrooms

Five seniors from the Southeast Missouri State College arrived today to begin their student teaching in Sikeston high school for the next nine weeks.

Graduating seniors from the Southeast Missouri State College enter the high school and observe and instruct classes in the various departments for college credit before they receive their degrees in secondary education.

After an observation period of three weeks, the novice teachers assume the full classroom duties.

Program gives them a chance to apply the knowledge that they have acquired throughout their education.

Sikeston high school faculty cooperates in the program by supervising the student teachers during the nine-week session.

These students will assume the role of college seniors for the last nine weeks of the term at SEMO State.

Edward Roth will instruct the English classes, directed by Mrs. Tony E. Statler, and assist the journalism students with the Bulldog Barker and the Growler.

Miss Mary Alice Fortner will work with the English and reading classes, directed by Mrs. Tom Wilkins.

In the art department Miss Mary McCrorey will be supervised by Miss Harriet Jones, chairman of the department. She will assist Miss Jones with the art supervision in the Sikeston school system.

Gene Rehn will assist N. P. McDaniel with the physical education classes.

Terry Glenzy will teach physical education classes, directed by Norman Lambert.

10 New Students Enroll In Sikeston High School

Ten new students entered Sikeston high school during the past several months and began the second semester this past week.

These students came to Sikeston from various parts of Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana.

From Scott Central high came Dale Holz and Barbara Phillips, sophomores.

Dale's subjects include geometry, English II, chorus, typing, world history, and physica. education.

Barbara's subjects are biology I, typing, geometry, English II, word history and physical education.

Sophomore Clifton Stokes' schedule includes art, speech English II, world history, chorus, and physical education.

Walter Kearby is enrolled in the vocational preparation program.

Jerry Collins, formerly of Indiana, is a junior and his classes are auto mechanics, speech, and physical education.

Armon Dunn is enrolled in refrigeration and business arithmetic.

Jerry Hartlein, from Kelly high school in Scott county, is a senior, and his courses include design drafting I, sociology, career exploration, speech, dramatics, and physical education.

Marcia Hurley, formerly of Sikeston, is a senior, and her classes are Spanish, sociology, English III, American history, algebra II, and home decorating.

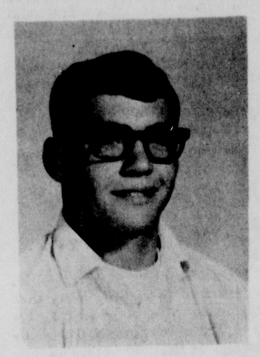

Senior Roger Ruebush from St. Charles, Ill., takes speech, sociology, contemporary history, English IV, dramatics, and physical education. Roger moved with his family to Illinois when he was a junior at the second semester in Sikeston.

Belinda Sartin is a sophomore, formerly from Zalma, Mo. Her classes include biology, funcational mathematics, world history, English II, home decorating, and physical education.

ORCHESTRA MEMBERS PRACTICE diligently for annual Quad-State String Orchestra Festival Monday.

Mike Garner Participates In Athletics

Junior Mike Garner is known for participation in football, basketball, and baseball in the high school.

He played first string right end and middle line backer on the defensive unit of the football squad.

Mike scored three touchdowns, and he also played on the defensive Bulldog line.

He was given the honor of first string offensive end All-Conference, second string middle line backer on defense All-Conference, and lettered for the second year in football.

Mike played third base on the baseball team last year, and he worked his way through subdistrict, district, sectional, and regional championships before the team lost in the state competition.

Mike participated with the Connie Mack team as a pitcher in Sikeston last summer. He was one of the team members who helped take the team to national competition in Fort Worth, Texas.

He is vice president of his home room, directed by Miss Uriel Haw.

Mike plans to attend Murray State University after graduation from high school.

SHS Strings To Perform In Festival

Orchestra Members Will Go To Paducah; Annual Quad-State

JUST HALF AN UMBRELLA ? ?

Of course not. Yet many leave their homes just half-protected by fire insurance. How does your fire insurance protection stack up beside today's higher property values? Could you rebuild, replace furniture and clothing and pay extra living expenses that pile up in the meantime? Ask your MFA Insurance agent about full-protection with an MFA Fire Insurance policy.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strauss LL.B

THE CASE OF THE FLIRTATIOUS LAWYER

During a heated trial, two opposing attorneys used every theatrical trick they could think of to win their case. In fact, the judge suspected that one of the two lawyers had even taken to making romantic eyes at several of the female jurors. Thus, as the jurors filed out of the courtroom to meditate over their verdict, the judge admonished them as follows:

"And remember," he said, "stage-play acting and flirting with jurors by the attorneys should not be allowed to influence your decision. While flirting may be flattering, it's not evidence."

After the jurors returned with their verdict, the losing attorney lost no time in racing to a higher court to demand a new trial.

"The judge accused me of being a flirt," he complained indignantly. "Since nobody likes a flirt, the judge prejudiced the jury against me so that their decision wasn't fairly arrived at."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order a new trial because of the flirtation indication?

This is how the judge ruled: No. The judge held that the complaining attorney had not been prejudiced by the trial judge's statement since he did not mention which attorney, if either, had been flirting. What's more, if the lawyer was innocent, the jury knew it and no harm was done. On the other hand, if he was guilty, he had no cause to complain.

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

A safe deposit box is a valuable thing to have, but have your own. If you keep valuable items in someone else's box, and he dies, there may be a legal bar to your getting at it as quickly as your circumstances may require.

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

If then you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above. (Colossians 3:1, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, we often speak about heaven but are living with an earthly mind. We lift our eyes to the sky and look into our own hearts, but do not see our brother and our sister in need. Open our eyes that we may see our task in this world - to be witnesses of Thy love; through Christ our Lord.. .....Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine who is normally quiet -- in fact, you might even say depressed - showed up at a party last week in very high spirits. I couldn't get over the change in her personality so I pulled her aside and asked what had come over her.

She swore me to secrecy, took a pill box out of her purse and showed me some capsules which she said had done wonders for her. I asked her what was in the capsules and she said she didn't know and didn't care. When I asked the name of the doctor who had recommended them she replied, "I got these from my cleaning woman. I wouldn't say a word to my doctor because he might not approve and I'd be down in the dumps again."

I have never been one to take medicine. In fact, I'm one of those people who has to be dying before I will take an aspirin. I admit I am tempted to try these capsules just to see what they would do to me. Do you know anything about this sort of pepper-upper? --- NEED A BOOST

Dear Need: No more than you do --- which is nothing. But this I Do know, any woman who could let her cleaning lady prescribe medication is short a few buttons.

If you need a boost, go to your doctor. Perhaps you are not getting enough rest. Maybe your blood pressure is low, or you need more sugar or a thyroid check. Only a physician should decide.

People who get pepped up with capsules pay for it later. It's like racing a motor at top speed. It could shake you apart. The magic medicine you think is going to put a tiger in your tank could cause sleeplessness, severe heart palpitations, melancholia --- or worse. Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: I read the letter from "Another Wall Street Warrior's Wife" --- only she lives in Winnetka. Her husband probably works on LaSalle Street.

I live in Winnetka, too, and the words that woman used to describe her life apply to me straight across the board. Before you say "So What, --- they probably apply to a thousand other women", I would like to make it clear that I am not a woman, - I am a husband and father. And if anyone had told me I would wind up writing to Ann Landers, and a serious letter at that, I would have said he was insane.

But here I am because I want you to know that I, too, would gladly exchange the big house, the cars in the garage and the country club membership for a wife who would attend church with me and the children and show some interest in our home. As far as sex is concerned, that went dead years ago in the dry martini. ---ALSO DISENCHANTED

Dear Also: Thanks for your letter. It is a grim reminder that disenchantment in marriage knows no gender.

Dear Ann Landers: Two weeks ago my father told my brother and me that our job was to empty the trash every day after school. He said if it wasn't done by the time he got home we'd each have to pay him a quarter.

Last night we forgot and Dad made us hand over the money. Then he said, "O.K. now go empty the trash." We told him that since he had collected the quarters he should do it.

Are we right? --- BROKE AND OVERWORKED

Dear B and O: No. Emptying the trash is YOUR job and your father was collecting his own quarters. The penalty you guys paid was a fine for failing to live up to your responsibilities.

Lee H. Del Plane

GREAT LAKES, ILL. (FHTNC) -- Seaman Recruit Lee H. Del Plane, 19, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan H. Del Plane of 605 Ruth St., Sikeston, Mo. has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center here.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other subjects.

Richard J. Hutchison

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Richard J. Hutchison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Hutchison of 946 Crescent Road, Sikeston, Mo., was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-calibre pistol are usually stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects; hygiene; first aid and sanitation; and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join Marine combat forces.

Truck Overturns Near Benton, Ill.

A tractor trailer truck driven by a Bertrand man and owned by a Sikeston firm overturned this morning on Interstate 57 about three miles north of Benton, Ill. James Warren, Bertrand, the driver apparently fell asleep at the wheel. No one was injured, but the truck and trailer were heavily damaged. The truck was loaded with oranges and enroute to the Chicago area from Florida. The truck is owned by C. W. Terrell of Terrell Lime and Produce Co., 841 Linn.

The "Full Faith And Credit" Clause of The United States Constitution

Even, however, in the case of lawsuits involving only a sum of money, certain grounds for ignoring the judgment of sister State still survive, although these are few and far between. In this respect, a few vestiges of State sovereignty in the international sense of the word still remain, which would not be present if the United States were a unitary system and not a federal system. For example, a plaintiff who has lost a case in the courts of one State on the ground that he sued too late can still recover on the same claim against the defendant in the courts of another State. Likewise, there the courts of one State give a party a judgment inconsistent with a prior judgment rendered in another State, and the law of the State where the second judgment was rendered precludes enforcement of the first judgment, the second judgment will supercede the first in all States, including the one where the first judgement was rendered. And where the courts of one State have ordered a winning party in a previous lawsuit in another State not to take advantage of his prior judgment because he obtained it by fraud, all States will be bound to give effect to this latter determination.

A losing party may also resit a judgment rendered in a sister State if the original claim was "penal." A "penal" claim is based on a State law designed, not to compensate a person for a wrong done to him, but to deter someone from acting contrary to the policy of the State. Such a law must impose a liability which not merely makes good the injury done, but goes further and mulcts the defendant all out of proportion to such injury to make certain that the offense is not repeated, primarily as a public punishment, and not a civil remedy to the injured party. In respect to international law, Chief Justice Marshall succinctly declared: "The courts of no country execute the penal laws of another." This rule still survives between the States as a vestige of sovereignty which was possessed by them as independent States before joining the union.

Claims, even when made by the States themselves, of a non - penal character are enforced by other States in their courts if first reduced to judgment. Thus tax judgments one State will be enforced elsewhere pursuant to the full faith and credit clause. The rule as to administrative assessments of unpaid tax claims is still undertain, however, and the scope of the full faith and credit clause in this area has not been finally adjudicated upon.

The POWER of FAITH

The many fine credits in Louis DiValentin's biography attest to his standing as an artist. And the many cathedrals, churches and religious institutions that have his paintings and sculpture, among them the National Cathedral and St. Matthews in Washington, D. C., attest to his own deeper spiritual impulses. He feels that painting on religious themes is a statement of faith in the midst of contemporary chaos and confusion.

Born in Venice, home of many of the masters, DiValentin has followed the great renaissance tradition of painting and sculpturing. As a boy during World War I in war torn Italy, he knew hunger and privation and learned the meaning of faith. He expresses it in his art today. Whenever he exhibits he always includes some of his religious works. His prize winning, "Neither Yet Have You Faith," sketched in the picture above, has inspired thousands.

"The instability of our mechanical and scientific age, the inability of men to live in peace, the lack of faith in anything, necessitate a restating of basic truths," says DiValentin.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Jan. 27, the 27th day of 1967. There are 338 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, American forces under Gen. George S. Patton drove the Germans in Belgium and Luxembourg to within one mile of the Siegfried Line.

On this date:

In 1850, American labor leader Samuel Gompers was born in England.

In 1880, inventor Thomas A. Edison received a patent for his incandescent lamp.

In 1906, Fred Marriot drove one mile in 28.2 seconds in a Stanley Steamer at Daytona Beach, Fla. He was the first man to drive more than two miles an hour.

In 1943, heavy bombers made the first all - American assault on Germany.

In 1945, a federal district court ruled the government's seizure of Montgomery Wards over labor troubles was illegal.

Ten years ago — Israel proceeded with plans to develop the Gaza Strip seized from Egypt, thus giving emphasis to that country's refusal to withdraw from the territory. The Israel cabinet voted to start commercial and agricultural development of the Gaza Strip.

Five years ago—The first attempt to launch an American astronaut into orbit from Cape Canaveral was postponed because of adverse weather conditions. Lt. Col. John Glenn had spent almost four hours in his Mercury capsule atop an Atlas booster rocket before the decision to postpone the launch until later in the week was made.

One year ago — President Johnson proposed a seven-point program for halting the spread of nuclear weapons.

Much of State Snow Covered

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The big snowstorm moved out of Missouri today, leaving a heavy accumulation of snow and ice and lots of troubles for employes of the highway departments and utility companies.

Skies were clear over most of the state and the weatherman said there will be a slow warming trend.

Hannibal reported 14 inches of snow.

Macon and Kirksville had 11 inches each; Trenton 10; Farmington 9; Kansas City and Edina 8; St. Joseph 6, Mexico 5 and Maryville 3.

An inch of snow was reported in the southwest at Neosho and Springfield.

In many areas there were thick layers of ice under the snow, leading to troubles in clearing streets and highways.

The ice caused extensive damage to utility lines. Kansas City had abour 4,000 families without electric service during the night. The Kansas City Power & Light Co. had a crew of 700 workmen repairing lines broken by ice and ice-laden tree limbs.

The Missouri Public Service Co. reported about 1,000 families without service in Jackson and Cass counties.

In the eastern part of the state boonville had four inches of snow and St. Louis received an inch.

Adding to the trouble were the low temperatures this morning. They ranged from 3 above at Maryville to 28 at Cape Girardeau. St. Joseph had 7, Kirksville 11 and Kansas City and Joplin 12.

Temperatures tonight will be near zero in the northwest, 10 to 15 in the northwest and in the teens in the extreme southeast.

Saturday's highs will be in the 30s in the northwest, around 30 northeast and near 40 in the southwest.

The five-day forecast says little or no precipitation is expected and adds that temperatures will average near normal in the southeast and 4 to 8 degrees above normal elsewhere.

smaller communities had comparable conditions.

Gary, Ind., the big steel-making center, reported it was paralyzed. Indiana State Police called for all outside equipment to work at opening roads in the state's northwest corner.

"Somebody is going to have to start digging from the outside to reach us," said Sgt. Edward Moody, commander of the post at Schererville, Ind. He said every state police car in Lake County was drift-mired.

In northwestern Ohio, a severe ice storm knocked out power, crippled communications and closed schools. Van Wert was cut off from the world except for radio communications. The telephones weren't working. Other towns in the area had no electric power because of ice-snapped lines.

In Michigan, Kalamazoo had 17 inches of drifted snow; Lansing, the state capital, 16 inches and Flint 15. Kalamazoo, with 90,000 persons, one resident said, "has never been so staggered."

Interstate 94, southern Michigan's main east-west highway, was blocked by three major jams, state police said. Other main roads in southern Michigan were called impassable.

The storm dumped a foot of snow across northern Missouri and Kansas before it hit the Great Lakes region. It was paralleled by a strip of freezing rain and ice across central Missouri, central Illinois, north-central Indiana and northwestern Ohio.

In this band, the major problems were glassy highway coatings of ice, and sheaths of ice which collected on power and telephone wires, many of the lines breaking when brisk winds put extra strain on them.

Many Chicago motorists were unable to drive their cars home from their jobs Thursday night, and bunked with friends. Travelers marooned by suspension of air service jammed the Chicago hotels.

Worse was the plight of the occupants of 1,000 vehicles stranded in the snow at the southern city limits. Many of them were schoolchildren marooned in several schools buses. About 1,000 persons were put up overnight in four school gymnasiums.

Forty prisoners of the snow became overnight "prisoners" in Cook County Jail when they couldn't leave the Criminal Courts building. Warden Jack Johnson sent around an evening meal of hamburgers for the "inmates," who included judges and lawyers.

Downtown hotels were filled to capacity. Traffic at O'Hare International Airport was halted. All the major taxi companies pronounced the roads too hazardous and took their cabs off the streets, except for emergency calls.

Some 2,500 city workers were salting, plowing and clearing — but winds sometimes stronger than 60 m.p.h. clogged streets almost as soon as they were cleared.

From all reports, the only reliable way of getting around the city was the elevated-subway system.

At least two persons died in auto accidents on the snowy streets. Two Chicago residents died, apparently of heart attacks, while shovelling snow. Another was struck and killed by a commuter train. Two other men, one in Chicago and the other in Elgin, suffered fatal heart attacks after pushing autos out of snowdrifts.

Snow piled up on building roofs and some collapsed. The roof of the high school athletic building in Crete, south of Chicago, came crashing down only an hour after the students had left school. There were no injuries.

Downstate, television and radio station towers tumbled to the ground before a howling wind that accompanied one of the worst ice storms on record.

Hundreds of communities were without telephones or lights.

Power and phone service was cut as the ice-brittle wires snapped in high winds.

In Warrenton, Mo., striking Missouri - Edison Co. workers voluntarily returned to their jobs after an ice storm knocked out power in three eastern Missouri counties.

The storm covered Gary, Ind., with a foot of snow. Drifts mounted to five feet. Police closed the Tri-State expressway and U.S. 12-20, major east-west routes through northern Indiana.

Many Gary area schools were closed. Police said almost every Indiana road around Lake Michigan's southern tip was impassable. They said some 2,000 persons were stranded in two counties along U. S. 41.

South of the snow belt, the ice storm shut down electric and telephone facilities from one end of Indiana to the other.

In Michigan, stranded motorists stayed in motels, gas stations, a school building and even a Western Michigan University fraternity house.

A one-story factory building's roof collapsed in St. Joseph, injuring three of the 32 persons inside.

At Benton Harbor near the Indiana line there were 12 to 14 inches of snow.

A. D. Martin. Martin said: "As far as being 100 per cent sure as to what we are going to do about Lincoln School, we do not know all the answers.

"The issue of importance here is integration. It is not for us to decide. The law is on the books. And now it is up to us as parents and taxpayers to abide by it.

"What we're going to do about Lincoln School would not come up if it were not for the integration law. Since it has we want to do what is best for our children."

Twitty explained that the reason complete integration of the schools is required is that the supreme court decision of 1954, and subsequent civil rights legislation is coming to a culmination. If the schools do not comply and effect complete integration federal funds to the school system will be stopped, he stated.

If any group is obligated to set the example and obey the law it should be the schools, Twitty said.

"It isn't important that we like it, if it's what is good for the kids," he continued.

The aim, he said, is to provide as good an education as possible, so that someday we can look at people not as black or white, but on the basis of what they can do.

Twitty stated that the proposed plans for the Lincoln School do not yet represent a final decision of the school board.

But what is being considered is this:

Busing the children now attending Lincoln school and distributing them to the five other elementary schools in Sikeston. Using the Lincoln school facility to teach vocational education classes, promoting a recreation center at the facility for the neighborhood children and continuing an after-school tutoring center there. He also expressed hopes that the city might establish a branch library at the school.

Then came the questions. They took several angles, but the heart of the matter was why?

Why do we have to separate the children from this community? Why not keep a few grades here and bus white children to this school? Why just cut this school out as far as elementary children are concerned?

Twitty, clearly, had a problem on his hands. He explained that under the federal requirements the most favorable ratio that must be met in this community is 17 per cent Negro and 83 per cent Caucasian in the schools.

If Lincoln were integrated and kept as an elementary school, only about 60 Negro pupils would be permitted to attend, he said.

"We sincerely feel that by moving the children to the others schools, all the kids-ours and yours - will benefit. Children learn from each other," Twitty said.

When the question kept coming, about busing whites to the Lincoln, Twitty said he had hoped he would not have to say this, but "to be brutally frank, we have found on the basis of standardized achievement tests administered when children enter the middle school, those Negro children who have attended the predominately white elementary schools come into the seventh grade at a higher achievement level of learning."

The children who come in directly from Lincoln school, on the average, come in anywhere from one month to one year behind the others at the seventh grade level, Twitty explained.

"Are you saying that the Lincoln School staff is not good?" one member of the audience asked.

No, the teachers are good. And they will be employed in the other schools if and when the move is made, Twitty said. The Lincoln School uses the same textbooks, it receives the same services, the same nursing and the same speech correctionists, he continued.

Twitty then mentioned that by bringing a vocational facility to the community, more money would be brought into the community. The audience wasn't too interested.

One woman said: "When you talk about our children you are talking about what we are most concerned about. You never get closer, than when you deal with our babies."

Another woman expressed fears as to what would happen to her small children in a classroom with white children and a white teacher. She said by the time the child was in seventh grade, he could fend for himself, but as a six-year-old she was concerned.

Another mother of elementary age children expressed worries about how the children would be accepted in the white school, if they would be fed.

Another was worried about the small children standing in freezing weather waiting for a bus.

But the economic aspects of the question of moving the children from Lincoln School were only incidental. The parents at the meeting last night were most concerned about the identity of the school with the community of Sunset.

One of the most vocal mothers said, "I don't care if you send all white children to the school. But it just wouldn't seem the same to come home from work and not see children around coming home from school. Please don't take our school."

The Rev. Kater Crump, an elderly Negro sat in the front row and remained silent for most of the night, said:

"The question has been asked a dozen times tonight, and you still haven't told us -- why? Why do the children have to be moved from the school."

Twitty said he thought he had answered it.

Twitty continually answered the questions with the same answers. Basically, he said, the planned more is for two reasons: The law requires it and it is what is best for the children.

One member of the audience said the law requires integration of the schools, it doesn't state that the Negroes have to be taken into the white schools, instead of bringing the white children to a Negro school.

An uproar of response from the audience was heard after one Negro stated his opinion.

He said he thought the real reason the school officials want to move the operation of the elementary school is because the 83 per cent of whites who would have to be moved into Lincoln School, if it were maintained as an elementary site, would be against sending their children here.

Twitty did a little fumbling for words and said: "I think that's about as lucid an explanation of the problem as we have heard."

Finally, the Rev. Mr. Gwinn called the meeting to a close and thanked everyone for coming. He also said just before closing that he hoped they were satisfied with the answers.

"A resounding answer was heard in a chorus of low "noes."

Contest Still Not Settled

The hearing on the motions involved in the contest of the Nov. 8 election of Aubrey Michael as collector of Scott county resulted in nothing concrete Thursday afternoon in circuit court at Benton.

Harold Hahn who came within 345 votes of winning the election has filed a notice of the election contest which charges that 560 of the votes cast were voided and not counted for him, but were in fact counted for Michael, although a line was drawn through the printed name of Aubrey Michael and the name Harold Hahn was written immediately below such cancelled name and a cross mark (x) was placed in the square at the left of such name, all of which fraudulently deprived him of the said 560 votes cast in his favor.

Hahn and his attorney ask in the notice of contest for a recount. This motion was not handled directly in the hearing.

However, Michael's attorneys asked that the motion for a recount be quashed, and Circuit Judge Marshall Craig sustained the motion, which apparently rules out a recount for the time being.

A motion requiring Hahn to post cost bond of $350 also was sustained at the hearing.

Three other motions were taken under advisement. One of the most crucial motion taken under advisement is the motion involving the objection to the contestee's (Michael's) interrogations.

Michael's attorneys had about 18 questions to ask of Hahn's attorney. The most important questions concerned the "good faith" of the allegations made concerning fraudulent voting.

The most discussed motion at the hearing was Michael's attorneys motion to dismiss the case. It, too, was taken under advisement.

The attorneys asked that Hahn's attorney be more specific in his charges of fraud. They asked him to name persons who voted fraudulently.

They called two witnesses Lewis Jones, 303 Greer, and Carl C. Wilkinson, 112 West Wakefield who both worked as election judge during the Nov. 8 election. Each was asked if he saw any votes counted in the fraudulent manner as stated Hahn's notice of election contest.

Hahn's attorney objection to the question was sustained in each case.

He objected on the basis, that an answer from the election judges on the basis of this recall would violate the best evidence rule. The ballots contain the best evidence. He listed four other objections.

Hahn's attorney cited several legal cases involving election contests and asked the judge to read the pleadings and compare them to those in his notice.

The judge will ultimately decide whether or not a recount is in order. However, before a recount is ordered, it is likely that another hearing on the merits of the allegations would have to be held.

Man, 100, Celebrates In Bus Trip

By Leo Schade

VANDUSER -- How does a man celebrate his 100th birthday?

John Andrew Sneed, who lives alone at his farm home, four miles southwest of Vanduser, has his own way.

Late in October he left alone, boarded a bus for St. Louis to visit his only sister, Mrs. Margaret Bell, 98. He returned home on Tuesday.

From there he went to Chicago, to visit a son, and then on to Cleveland to visit a daughter, Mrs. Effie Mae Turner. He never encountered any trouble in his travels and may do it again.

"Now that I have returned home, I'll settle down for a few months, and enjoy my life on the farm that I wouldn't trade for all the places I've been," Sneed said.

He was born near Holly Springs, Miss., Jan. 17, 1867, and moved to near Crowder in 1923. In 1938 he moved to his present home southwest of Vanduser, where he lives on a 33-acre tract.

"Six years ago I took sick, and after that I had to give up working my land with a team of mules, and now rent it," he explained.

He raised cotton and beans on his land. In recent years he gave up production of cotton and beans.

He lives fairly comfortably from old age pension of $75 per month and the rent, and with the assistance of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Karnes, who live across the road. The Karnes take him to town to buy groceries.

His farm property lies adjacent to the old Little River. During a wet season water covers the road and he is forced to use an eight-foot high bridge in and out of his property. He must cross the bridge to reach the road in front of his house and his mail box.

He does his housework since the death of his second wife April 1, 1965 and cooks a good meal. He has never used glasses and is a constant reader of the newspapers.

"I've missed my Daily Standard, and since I came back to stay awhile, I want it back in my home," he said.

His small radio is on the blink but he still has a television set to provide news and entertainment.

He attributes his long life and good health to a minimum of bad habits and work.

"I've farmed over a half century as a sharecropper, and would give it up when things got bad," he recalled. "I would then take over steamboating as a roustabout, and also worked on the railroad as an extra hand. I was never without work."

He hunted until recent years, but didn't give it up because of his eyes. "My sickness made it impossible for me to keep up with the dogs on rabbit, squirrel and coon hunts," he explained.

He has two trusty dogs, Brownie and Max.

When he walks across the bridge they trot behind him and don't let him out of their sight.

The Karnes kept a pet cat for him while he was away. When he came home, it returned.

"I wouldn't trade any of this for all my visits the last three months, and I'm waiting for spring," he said. "If I get too lonesome, I may take off again, but don't count on it too much."

CENTENAIRAN JOHN ANDREW SNEED, sits on the front porch of his house near Vanduser and pats his two dogs.

Snow, Ice Paralyze Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A record winter storm paralyzed Chicago today with 23 inches of snow and spreada sea of white drifts as deep as 15 feet.

The storm moved eastward from the central plains into the Great Lakes region and northeast. Freezing rain spread into much of western New York State.

Many communities were virtually isolated as banked highways froze vehicle movement. Planes were grounded and utilities disrupted. Strong north winds heaped the snow.

The Chicago snow bettered by eight inches the previous record 24-hour snowfall of 14.9 inches set Jan. 30, 1939. It began at 7 a.m. Thursday and still was falling today. The former snowfall record for a single storm was 19.2 inches in March 1930.

Chicago's downtown section was kept a fairly well dug-out island, but little moved other than emergency vehicles. Roads leading to the center of town were blocked. All expressways were closed by snow, except stretches of Edens Expressway north of Chicago.

All Chicago schools were closed. Police urged persons to stay home.

The city's heart and pulse were very slow. Closed were the Board of Trade, the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, and thousands of stores, offices and factories.

Cars by the thousands were stalled on streets and expressways, partly buried or concealed entirely beneath snowdrifts. Telephones and power service went on. The railroads and Chicago Transit Authority elevated and subway trains ran on slowed schedules, packed with travelers. There was token bus service over limited routes. Taxis went nowhere.

Pedestrians walked down the middle of the deserted streets. Two men tried to ski to their train station.

School's Future Talked

By Jerry Obermark

The Caucasian members of the city of Sikeston would have been proud of the way Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty handled the touchy issue of complete integration of the school system Thursday night at a meeting in Sunset addition's Masonic hall.

A majority of the more than 100 Negroes attending were not satisfied.

The issue discussed was - what will become of Lincoln school.

The meeting was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Gwinn, who managed to keep order most of the time and tried to keep the discussion centered on the issue.

At the outset, the Rev. Mr. Gwinn stated that the people of Sunset have no objections to the proposed expansion plans of the school administrators and board as stated in the citizens advisory council meeting Jan. 5, at the high school.

School officials announced at that meeting that they are considering undertaking an overall program estimated to cost $1,700,000. Proposed in the planning are: An increase in teachers' salaries, construction of a new elementary school to replace the airport facility, and expansions at the cafetorium, school library and the math and science departments of the high school.

It was mentioned that the school system also will have to effect complete integration of the schools to meet with federal requirements.

At the meeting last night the Negroes asked the administrator to be more specific.

Lincoln School is the only remaining segregated school in Sikeston. It has about 350 Negro children attending grades 1-6, and is located in Sunset Addition, an almost 100 per cent Negro section.

Before giving the floor to Twitty, the Rev. Mr. Gwinn stated that "the questions to which we must address ourselves are:

Must the children in Lincoln School be moved out to other elementary schools in town? And if so what will be expected of us to be requirements in dress, transportation, and food? Do we have to take Lincoln School out of our front yards?

"We are not against the expansion program of the school system. But we are concerned about taking the school out of our community."

He urged the audience not to be wishy - washy. Be for it or be against it but take a stand.

Twitty introduced the president of the school board, Dr.

The club members will stop cars at the intersection of Malone and Highway 61 between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Plead Guilty To Attempted Robbery in Fisk

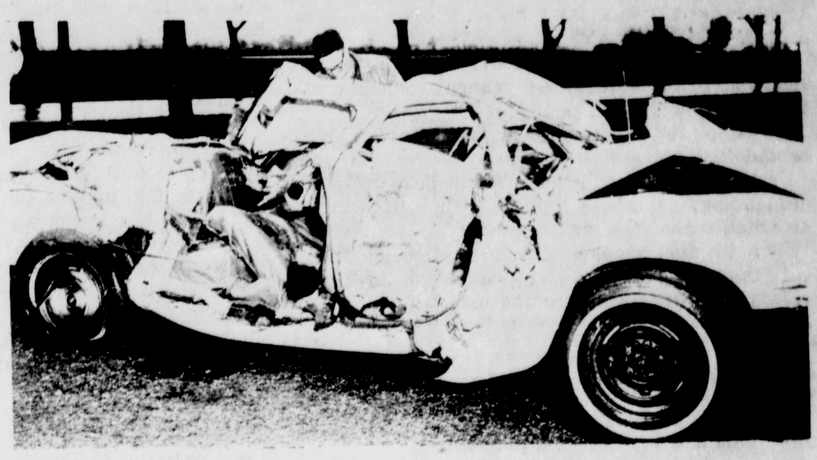

ST. LOUIS AP -- Two St. Louis truck drivers pleaded guilty to U. S. District Court today to the attempted robbery Sept. 12 of the State Bank of Fisk, near Poplar Bluff.

Judge James H. Meredith sentenced George C. Ford, 38, to 15 years in prison. Sentencing for Arlington Green, 20, was deferred until next Friday pending a pre - sentence investigation.

Two men, one armed with a shotgun and the other with a pistol, entered the bank last September. The institution's executive vice president, M. G. Schain, came out of his office with a revolver and fired at the bandits.

Then a shotgun blast hit Schain in the leg and the two robbers fled. Schain recovered from the wound after a long hospitalization.

Highway patrolmen arrested Ford and Green a short while later near Malden.

HENRY HAWKINS JR. was killed when his car was demolished in a three-vehicle accident on Highway 61 Thursday afternoon.

THIS CAR, driven by Ale Cato of Dexter, went into a ditch following a three-vehicle collision on highway 61 Thursday afternoon.

The car of Henry Hawkins Jr., hit a tractor-trailer truck Thursday loaded with new cars. Police Chief Arthur Bruce directs traffic around the vehicle.

Sikeston Man Killed in Crash

Henry Clifton Hawkins Jr., 44, of 617 Hart, was killed in a three- vehicle collision on highway 61 between the Sikeston IGA store and Burger - Chef at 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

Hawkins was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Delta Community hospital.

He was a construction worker.

The highway patrol said Hawkins' car skidded sideways into the path of an oncoming car driven by Ale Cato, 42, Dexter, bounced off the Cato car and hit a tractor-trailer truck driven by James Sawer, 51, Lincoln Park, Mich.

In another fatal accident Thursday at Galesburg, Ill., a man was killed in a two - car crash on highway 61, seven miles south of Hayti at 10:45 a.m.

Troopers said the victim, Darnell Walker, 58, was a passenger in a car driven by Cassell Page, 35, Galesburg, which skidded on wet pavement into the path of an oncoming car driven by George Story, 28, Steele.

Injured were Corene Walker, 50, Galesburg, cuts and bruises; Ann Walker, 33, Galesburg, fractured pelvis; Page, right thigh cut and head injury; Story, fractured right kneecap; Mildred Story, 43, Steele, serious head injury; Millard Story, 5, fractured left leg and possible head injury, and Johnny Richetts, 15, Steele, bruises.

They were taken to Pemiscot Memorial hospital at Hayti.

Hawkins body was taken to the Nunnelee Funeral Home.

Born July 2, 1922, in New Madrid county, Hawkins was married Oct. 19, 1953, to Miss Betty Long, who survives.

Also surviving are two sons, Lenny and Denny Hawkins; one daughter, Jackie Hawkins; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hawkins Sr.; two brothers, Jackie Hawkins, in Illinois, and Shirley Hawkins, Brownwood, and five sisters, Mrs. Margaret Yount, Cottage Hill, Ill.; Mrs. Doris Snider, Middlebrook, Ill.; Mrs. Louise Smith, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Lorene Burkett, St. Louis, and Mrs. Mary Gibbons, Chaffee.

Youth Charged With Forgery

CHAFFEE -- Donal Ray Moyers, 17, has been charged with forgery after he reportedly cashed a Chaffee high school check for $158.54 Thursday.

Sheriff John Dennis charged that Moyers took three blank checks from the high school made one out and cashed it at the Bank of Chaffee.

The youth, who posted a $500 cash bond, will appear in magistrate court at Benton Wednesday morning.

Seven Injured

Seven persons were given emergency treatment Thursday at the Missouri Delta Community hospital:

Judy Daniels, injured finger at school; William McLelland III, Coushatta, La., involved in car accident; Carry Carter, Fayetteville, Ark., car accident; Debra Lee Evans, mashed left thumb in door at home; Luthell Brewer, cut end of finger on meat slicer; Ricky Litchford, Charleston, injured right shoulder while wrestling at school; Jane Michael, twisted right ankle while skating.

Peace in Space Treaty Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surrounded by ambassadors representing nations around the world, President Johnson presides today at a special White House ceremonial signing of a treaty aimed at preserving outer space for peaceful purposes.

By early today, more than 40 envoys had signified their intent to commit their countries to the 2,000 word, five-language treaty at the late afternoon ceremony in the East Room of the executive mansion. Still more were expected to join the roster during the day.

The treaty was signed early today in Moscow at ceremonies attended by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson and British Ambassador Sir Geoffrey Harrison signed it at Spiridonov Palace, site of the signing of the 1963 limited nuclear test ban treaty.

A signing was also scheduled for London.

More than 100 nations are expected to sign up eventually.

The treaty was worked out mainly in negotiations between the two great space powers — the United States and the Soviet Union — and is rated by diplomats as another sign that Washington and Moscow can reach new agreements despite their differences over Vietnam.

In the continuing search for disarmament agreements, the space treaty follows the 1963 limited nuclear test ban accord. Still in the negotiation stage are proposals to curb the spread of atomic weapons and to snuff out a potential antiballistic missile race.

The space treaty is open for signing at the three capitals to allow any nation to join despite international political differences. For instance Red China, North Vietnam, North Korea, East Germany and Cuba can sign with equal legality at Moscow since they have no diplomatic relations with the United States.

Peking has publicly indicated it wants no part of the treaty, however. It spurned the test ban pact too.

Senate ratification is required for U.S. participation.

The treaty would ban nuclear and other mass destruction weapons from orbit in space, forbid the establishment of military bases on the moon or other celestial bodies, rule out territorial claims to celestial bodies and calls for peaceful and cooperative exploration in space.

It would not prohibit atomic-tipped rockets like intercontinental ballistic missiles which may soar into space briefly on their way back to earth targets. These are not mass destruction weapons "in orbit."

Nor would it ban unarmed but militarily important space vehicles like spy satellites, U.S. officials said.

Contest Still Not Settled

The hearing on the motions involved in the contest of the Nov. 8 election of Aubrey Michael as collector of Scott county resulted in nothing concrete Thursday afternoon in circuit court at Benton.

Harold Hahn who came within 345 votes of winning the election has filed a notice of the election contest which charges that 560 of the votes cast were voided and not counted for him, but were in fact counted for Michael, although a line was drawn through the printed name of Aubrey Michael and the name Harold Hahn was written immediately below such cancelled name and a cross mark (x) was placed in the square at the left of such name, all of which fraudulently deprived him of the said 560 votes cast in his favor.

Hahn and his attorney ask in the notice of contest for a recount. This motion was not handled directly in the hearing.

However, Michael's attorneys asked that the motion for a recount be quashed, and Circuit Judge Marshall Craig sustained the motion, which apparently rules out a recount for the time being.

A motion requiring Hahn to post cost bond of $350 also was sustained at the hearing.

Three other motions were taken under advisement. One of the most crucial motion taken under advisement is the motion involving the objection to the contestee's (Michael's) interrogations.

Michael's attorneys had about 18 questions to ask of Hahn's attorney. The most important questions concerned the "good faith" of the allegations made concerning fraudulent voting.

The most discussed motion at the hearing was Michael's attorneys motion to dismiss the case. It, too, was taken under advisement.

The attorneys asked that Hahn's attorney be more specific in his charges of fraud. They asked him to name persons who voted fraudulently.

They called two witnesses Lewis Jones, 303 Greer, and Carl C. Wilkinson, 112 West Wakefield who both worked as election judge during the Nov. 8 election. Each was asked if he saw any votes counted in the fraudulent manner as stated Hahn's notice of election contest.

Hahn's attorney objection to the question was sustained in each case.

He objected on the basis, that an answer from the election judges on the basis of this recall would violate the best evidence rule. The ballots contain the best evidence. He listed four other objections.

Hahn's attorney cited several legal cases involving election contests and asked the judge to read the pleadings and compare them to those in his notice.

The judge will ultimately decide whether or not a recount is in order. However, before a recount is ordered, it is likely that another hearing on the merits of the allegations would have to be held.

Man, 100, Celebrates In Bus Trip

By Leo Schade

VANDUSER -- How does a man celebrate his 100th birthday?

John Andrew Sneed, who lives alone at his farm home, four miles southwest of Vanduser, has his own way.

Late in October he left alone, boarded a bus for St. Louis to visit his only sister, Mrs. Margaret Bell, 98. He returned home on Tuesday.

From there he went to Chicago, to visit a son, and then on to Cleveland to visit a daughter, Mrs. Effie Mae Turner. He never encountered any trouble in his travels and may do it again.

"Now that I have returned home, I'll settle down for a few months, and enjoy my life on the farm that I wouldn't trade for all the places I've been," Sneed said.

He was born near Holly Springs, Miss., Jan. 17, 1867, and moved to near Crowder in 1923. In 1938 he moved to his present home southwest of Vanduser, where he lives on a 33-acre tract.

"Six years ago I took sick, and after that I had to give up working my land with a team of mules, and now rent it," he explained.

He raised cotton and beans on his land. In recent years he gave up production of cotton and beans.

He lives fairly comfortably from old age pension of $75 per month and the rent, and with the assistance of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Karnes, who live across the road. The Karnes take him to town to buy groceries.

His farm property lies adjacent to the old Little River. During a wet season water covers the road and he is forced to use an eight-foot high bridge in and out of his property. He must cross the bridge to reach the road in front of his house and his mail box.

He does his housework since the death of his second wife April 1, 1965 and cooks a good meal. He has never used glasses and is a constant reader of the newspapers.

"I've missed my Daily Standard, and since I came back to stay awhile, I want it back in my home," he said.

His small radio is on the blink but he still has a television set to provide news and entertainment.

He attributes his long life and good health to a minimum of bad habits and work.

"I've farmed over a half century as a sharecropper, and would give it up when things got bad," he recalled. "I would then take over steamboating as a roustabout, and also worked on the railroad as an extra hand. I was never without work."

He hunted until recent years, but didn't give it up because of his eyes. "My sickness made it impossible for me to keep up with the dogs on rabbit, squirrel and coon hunts," he explained.

He has two trusty dogs, Brownie and Max.

When he walks across the bridge they trot behind him and don't let him out of their sight.

The Karnes kept a pet cat for him while he was away. When he came home, it returned.

"I wouldn't trade any of this for all my visits the last three months, and I'm waiting for spring," he said. "If I get too lonesome, I may take off again, but don't count on it too much."

Snow, Ice Paralyze Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A record winter storm paralyzed Chicago today with 23 inches of snow and spreada sea of white drifts as deep as 15 feet.

The storm moved eastward from the central plains into the Great Lakes region and northeast. Freezing rain spread into much of western New York State.

Many communities were virtually isolated as banked highways froze vehicle movement. Planes were grounded and utilities disrupted. Strong north winds heaped the snow.

The Chicago snow bettered by eight inches the previous record 24-hour snowfall of 14.9 inches set Jan. 30, 1939. It began at 7 a.m. Thursday and still was falling today. The former snowfall record for a single storm was 19.2 inches in March 1930.

Chicago's downtown section was kept a fairly well dug-out island, but little moved other than emergency vehicles. Roads leading to the center of town were blocked. All expressways were closed by snow, except stretches of Edens Expressway north of Chicago.

All Chicago schools were closed. Police urged persons to stay home.

The city's heart and pulse were very slow. Closed were the Board of Trade, the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, and thousands of stores, offices and factories.

Cars by the thousands were stalled on streets and expressways, partly buried or concealed entirely beneath snowdrifts. Telephones and power service went on. The railroads and Chicago Transit Authority elevated and subway trains ran on slowed schedules, packed with travelers. There was token bus service over limited routes. Taxis went nowhere.

Pedestrians walked down the middle of the deserted streets. Two men tried to ski to their train station.

School's Future Talked

By Jerry Obermark

The Caucasian members of the city of Sikeston would have been proud of the way Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty handled the touchy issue of complete integration of the school system Thursday night at a meeting in Sunset addition's Masonic hall.

A majority of the more than 100 Negroes attending were not satisfied.

The issue discussed was - what will become of Lincoln school.

The meeting was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Gwinn, who managed to keep order most of the time and tried to keep the discussion centered on the issue.

At the outset, the Rev. Mr. Gwinn stated that the people of Sunset have no objections to the proposed expansion plans of the school administrators and board as stated in the citizens advisory council meeting Jan. 5, at the high school.

School officials announced at that meeting that they are considering undertaking an overall program estimated to cost $1,700,000. Proposed in the planning are: An increase in teachers' salaries, construction of a new elementary school to replace the airport facility, and expansions at the cafetorium, school library and the math and science departments of the high school.

It was mentioned that the school system also will have to effect complete integration of the schools to meet with federal requirements.

At the meeting last night the Negroes asked the administrator to be more specific.

Lincoln School is the only remaining segregated school in Sikeston. It has about 350 Negro children attending grades 1-6, and is located in Sunset Addition, an almost 100 per cent Negro section.

Before giving the floor to Twitty, the Rev. Mr. Gwinn stated that "the questions to which we must address ourselves are:

Must the children in Lincoln School be moved out to other elementary schools in town? And if so what will be expected of us to be requirements in dress, transportation, and food? Do we have to take Lincoln School out of our front yards?

"We are not against the expansion program of the school system. But we are concerned about taking the school out of our community."

He urged the audience not to be wishy - washy. Be for it or be against it but take a stand.

Twitty introduced the president of the school board, Dr.

The club members will stop cars at the intersection of Malone and Highway 61 between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Plead Guilty To Attempted Robbery in Fisk

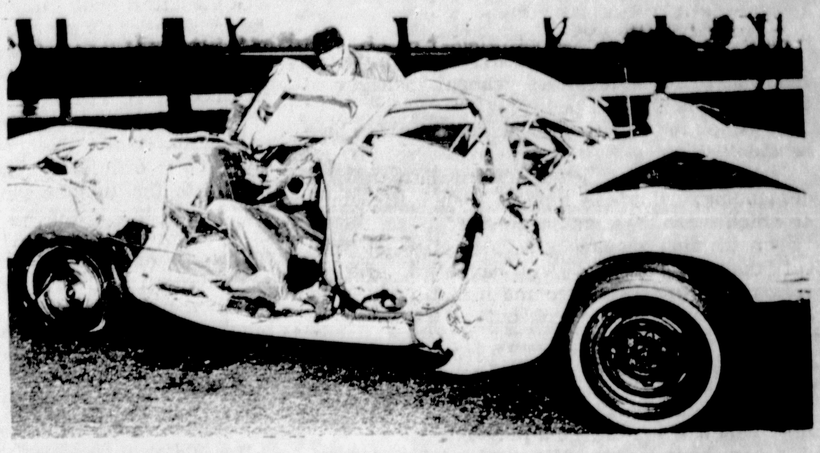

ST. LOUIS AP -- Two St. Louis truck drivers pleaded guilty to U. S. District Court today to the attempted robbery Sept. 12 of the State Bank of Fisk, near Poplar Bluff.

Judge James H. Meredith sentenced George C. Ford, 38, to 15 years in prison. Sentencing for Arlington Green, 20, was deferred until next Friday pending a pre - sentence investigation.

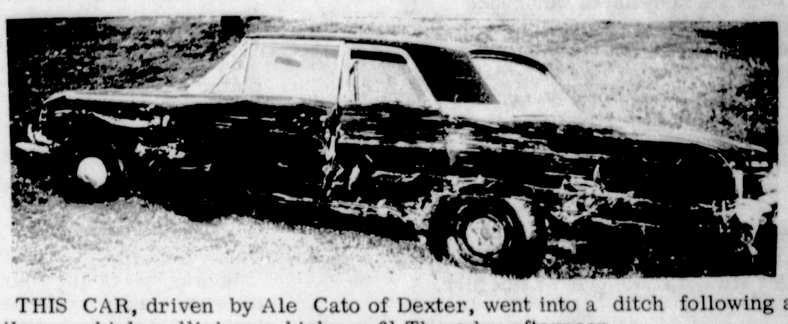

Two men, one armed with a shotgun and the other with a pistol, entered the bank last September. The institution's executive vice president, M. G. Schain, came out of his office with a revolver and fired at the bandits.

Then a shotgun blast hit Schain in the leg and the two robbers fled. Schain recovered from the wound after a long hospitalization.

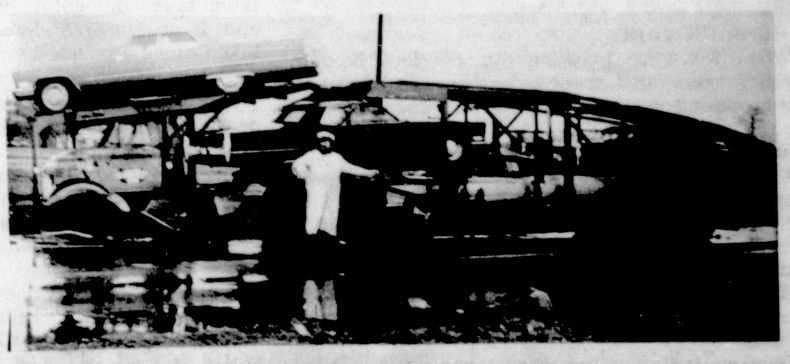

Highway patrolmen arrested Ford and Green a short while later near Malden.

HENRY HAWKINS JR. was killed when his car was demolished in a three-vehicle accident on Highway 61 Thursday afternoon.

THIS CAR, driven by Ale Cato of Dexter, went into a ditch following a three-vehicle collision on highway 61 Thursday afternoon.

The car of Henry Hawkins Jr., hit a tractor-trailer truck Thursday loaded with new cars. Police Chief Arthur Bruce directs traffic around the vehicle.

Sikeston Man Killed in Crash

Henry Clifton Hawkins Jr., 44, of 617 Hart, was killed in a three-vehicle collision on highway 61 between the Sikeston IGA store and Burger - Chef at 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

Hawkins was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Delta Community hospital.

He was a construction worker.

The highway patrol said Hawkins' car skidded sideways into the path of an oncoming car driven by Ale Cato, 42, Dexter, bounced off the Cato car and hit a tractor-trailer truck driven by James Sawer, 51, Lincoln Park, Mich.

In another fatal accident Thursday at Galesburg, Ill., a man was killed in a two - car crash on highway 61, seven miles south of Hayti at 10:45 a.m.

Troopers said the victim, Darnell Walker, 58, was a passenger in a car driven by Cassell Page, 35, Galesburg, which skidded on wet pavement into the path of an oncoming car driven by George Story, 28, Steele.

Injured were Corene Walker, 50, Galesburg, cuts and bruises; Ann Walker, 33, Galesburg, fractured pelvis; Page, right thigh cut and head injury; Story, fractured right kneecap; Mildred Story, 43, Steele, serious head injury; Millard Story, 5, fractured left leg and possible head injury, and Johnny Richetts, 15, Steele, bruises.

They were taken to Pemiscot Memorial hospital at Hayti.

Hawkins body was taken to the Nunnelee Funeral Home.

Born July 2, 1922, in New Madrid county, Hawkins was married Oct. 19, 1953, to Miss Betty Long, who survives.

Also surviving are two sons, Lenny and Denny Hawkins; one daughter, Jackie Hawkins; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hawkins Sr.; two brothers, Jackie Hawkins, in Illinois, and Shirley Hawkins, Brownwood, and five sisters, Mrs. Margaret Yount, Cottage Hill, Ill.; Mrs. Doris Snider, Middlebrook, Ill.; Mrs. Louise Smith, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Lorene Burkett, St. Louis, and Mrs. Mary Gibbons, Chaffee.

Youth Charged With Forgery

CHAFFEE -- Donal Ray Moyers, 17, has been charged with forgery after he reportedly cashed a Chaffee high school check for $158.54 Thursday.

Sheriff John Dennis charged that Moyers took three blank checks from the high school made one out and cashed it at the Bank of Chaffee.

The youth, who posted a $500 cash bond, will appear in magistrate court at Benton Wednesday morning.

Seven Injured

Seven persons were given emergency treatment Thursday at the Missouri Delta Community hospital:

Judy Daniels, injured finger at school; William McLelland III, Coushatta, La., involved in car accident; Carry Carter, Fayetteville, Ark., car accident; Debra Lee Evans, mashed left thumb in door at home; Luthell Brewer, cut end of finger on meat slicer; Ricky Litchford, Charleston, injured right shoulder while wrestling at school; Jane Michael, twisted right ankle while skating.

Peace in Space Treaty Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surrounded by ambassadors representing nations around the world, President Johnson presides today at a special White House ceremonial signing of a treaty aimed at preserving outer space for peaceful purposes.

By early today, more than 40 envoys had signified their intent to commit their countries to the 2,000 word, five-language treaty at the late afternoon ceremony in the East Room of the executive mansion. Still more were expected to join the roster during the day.

The treaty was signed early today in Moscow at ceremonies attended by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson and British Ambassador Sir Geoffrey Harrison signed it at Spiridonov Palace, site of the signing of the 1963 limited nuclear test ban treaty.

A signing was also scheduled for London.

More than 100 nations are expected to sign up eventually.

The treaty was worked out mainly in negotiations between the two great space powers — the United States and the Soviet Union — and is rated by diplomats as another sign that Washington and Moscow can reach new agreements despite their differences over Vietnam.

In the continuing search for disarmament agreements, the space treaty follows the 1963 limited nuclear test ban accord. Still in the negotiation stage are proposals to curb the spread of atomic weapons and to snuff out a potential antiballistic missile race.

The space treaty is open for signing at the three capitals to allow any nation to join despite international political differences. POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

For Stan Musial all Missourians will wish at least a little success as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

It's a job that many Missourians would rather he didn't take.

Managing a major league baseball team is a demanding, heartless type of man killing task at which more try than succeed.

Even winning managers occasionally get fired but those who don't win haven't a chance.

Musial enters as a hero and if history repeats itself he may either go out as a bum or a bumbler.

It's not the kind of fate that Missourians would wish for one of the good guys.

Stan the Man is a storied character in Cardinal baseball history as a player.

He has been every Missouri boy's idol and that includes many men, who never achieved maturity as far as baseball is concerned.

Musial's fan club is worldwide.

He has had a national stake in the health and well being of young men as chairman of the president's council on physical fitness.

The Cardinal pilot's job couldn't have gone to a more capable person or to a nicer guy.

May success crown his efforts at least long enough to give him some feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction before he gives up or gets dislodged from the fickle driver's seat.

As a player he was great but great players don't always make great managers.

THE BACK YARD

When we were growing up, and long before that, a common lament was "how can you keep them down on the farm" when things are so much better in the city. And they really were-much better pay for much less work.

The American farm had been in an almost permanent depression since the turn of the century. Prices were so low no one could make a decent living out of cows or cotton, food or fibre. By the end of World War II our farms were living on Federal subsidy and the resulting surpluses were a national disgrace.

Then while few of us were looking, the worm turned. Mountainous surpluses drained away to stem famine abroad. The U.S. found itself on a hand-to-mouth basis for the first time in the memory of anyone alive. The July wheat carryover ran 100 million bushels below the "safe" minimum. Despite a record 1965 crop, the soybean carryover was near a ten-year low. Government estimates put the total feedstuff supply at an eight-year low. The population here and abroad had quietly caught up with the food available.

The figures showed it. Farm land values jumped 8 percent from spring '65 to spring '66. Down South the gain was 14.7 percent. Even Appalachia gained 6.3 percent. Dollar value of farms sold was up 14 percent, despite the tightest money and toughest financing conditions in 40 years. Exports in fiscal '66 doubled the '56 experience - and most were commercial sales rather than Federal aid.

There's more than population pressure behind these figures. Some four million acres go out of production each year as our cities and towns and highway networks spread out over the land. Obviously, the time has come to watch out what we cover with asphalt - the meal we lose may eventually be our own.

Meantime, there's a new boom down on the farm.

Going skiing for the first time? It isn't necessary to have the latest style and shade of pants, sweaters and parkas to learn to ski. At most ski areas you'll see everything from blue jeans to stretchpants, and from army surplus gear to everyday slacks and pants.

The National Safety Council advises that clothing should be comfortable, suitable for strenuous activity (not too loose or too tight), warm, windproof and waterproof.

In addition, the Council reminds skiers not to forget the little things, such as:

Shatterproof sun glasses or ski goggles to protect your eyes from the wind and sun.

Leather mittens or gloves that cover the wrists.

Something to cover your ears and keep them warm.

Sun tan lotion and chapstick.

A couple of safety pins - just in case.

Thousands of people are serious collectors of license plates, according to Keith Marvin, a New York state newspaperman and author of a book titled "License Plates of the World."

"It's a hobby that has a lot of the fascination of stamp collecting - the objects collected are colorful and interesting, there's satisfaction in building a complete collection, and you learn something about other states and nations in the process," says Marvin.

His own collection grew so large he finally stopped acquiring license plates and concentrated on classifying license-plate data.

Going after such information can be a stimulating arm-chair adventure, Marvin has learned. For example, when he wrote for information on license plates in the remote Himalayan nation of Sikkim, he received in return a letter from the nation's ruling prince.

Communist officials proved far less cooperative. Of 15 officials in the Soviet Union to whom he wrote for license plate data, only one replied, and his letter was delayed and censored by a senior official.

In spite of this lack of cooperation, Marvin has learned that the Soviets issue a variety of license plates, some white on black, some black on white, and that special tags are issued to certain classes of people, such as foreign newspapermen.

Here at home, Marvin is hopeful that more states will issue reflective "safety tag" plates, now adopted in 25 states.

"Studies show that these safety tags, after dark, cut down rear-end collisions and accidents involving parked cars," Marvin says. He explains that reflective plates are visible at 2,000 feet in the headlights of a car.

Marvin also favors the use of front license plates by the 16 states which now issue only one license plate. He points out that the use of front tags greatly increases the number of cars that law-enforcement officers can check as they cruise down the highway. They can check the front plates of on-coming cars as well as the rear plate of the car ahead.

Highway users pay more than 24 per cent of all state taxes collected in this country, reports Oil Facts. Motor fuel taxes alone amounted to $4.3 billion.

Nearly every community has home-grown industries which are important to the local economy.

Yet, many local industries operate un-noticed and unappreciated by the public. Public indifference can affect production, morale of personnel, and governmental action which relates to the company.

On the other hand, a new industry often comes into the community amid a splurge of publicity which draws the unqualified support of the whole public.

Of course, this kind of reaction seems unfair to the established, home-grown industry. But neither the public nor the local newspaper can be blamed for the situation. The established industry which takes its position for granted may expect a complacent attitude from the public. The new industry which uses advertising and other means of publicity to build its personality deserves the attention it has earned.

Every community newspaper encourages industry, both old and new, to the full extent of its means. But the newspaper, which is an industry itself, has certain limitations imposed on it. It cannot provide free advertising to one industry in preference to another. The result would be a bankrupt newspaper.

Bonafide news originating from any industry, from saw-mill to clothing factory, will be published in the community newspaper. But institutional advertising which keeps the status of industry fresh in the public mind, requires consistent use of newspaper advertising space.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK AP -- A lot of people are in the dumps because they already have failed to live up to the noble New Year's resolves they made to change their lives for the better.

The trouble with most of them probably is that they set themselves impossible goals.

Instant reformation may be possible for saints but it is uncharacteristic of ordinary human beings. The first wise measure toward reformation isn't to make yourself any better — it's to keep yourself from getting any worse.

Set yourself achievable goals. Instead of resolving what you will do, decide what you won't do. Be positive in a negative way.

For example, I decided it would be a better world for me in 1967 if I firmly made up my mind not to do the following things:

Stuff a whale and exhibit it on a cross-country tour.

Learn any modern dance step.

Bet against the Green Bay Packers football team — even if

Buy a race horse, an astrakhan hat, or a solid gold ear cleaner.

Drink dry martinis through a damp straw.

Attend any marijuana orgies.

Read any magazine articles on how one's sex life can be made more interesting, or how one can get rich by investing in the stock market or raising chinchillas in the basement.

Take up the study of Yoga or Zen Buddhism in order to discover the wisdom of the mysterious Eas.

Acquire any new diseases. The only sure way to stay healthy is to take care of the diseases you already have.

Run for congress — or a bus.

Write any article saying dogs are superior to cats, or cats superior to dogs as pets.

So far, with the help of a firm will and a lot of inherited character, I've kept every one of my good resolutions for 1967.

THE INESCAPABLE NEED

The news that the Administration is requesting a huge additional sum, in the $13 billion range, to meet vastly increased military costs brought on by the war in Viet Nam should surprise no one. That war, so far as we are concerned, has moved with appalling swiftness from the minor to the major stage and is approaching Korean War dimensions. All efforts, by this and other nations, to persuade Hanoi to enter into negotiatons on fair terms have been contemptuously refused, and there is small doubt that this will continue to be the enemy's attitude in the foreseeable future.

Thus the already large budget deficit, along with that projected for the coming fiscal year, soars into the economic stratosphere. The inevitable result is to feed the fires of inflation-unless. The "unless" amounts to this: Those fires can be kept under some kind of effective control only if there are sharp cuts in domestic spending in order to offset the war spending. The inescapable need, as Rep. Ford put it, " . . .is a reduction in nonessential domestic spending in order to avoid added taxes or a skyrocketing cost of living." Congress has no greater duty than to see this accomplished.

A researcher has discovered evidence that dosing cigarettes with vitamin A nullifies the effects of suspected cancer-producing agents in tobacco smoke.

Tobacco companies are keeping their fingers crossed. Not only could it make cigarettes safe, it could make them positively healthy, because the vitamin A in the smoke might also help counteract the polluted air that is breathed in by everybody, puffers and non-puffers alike.

If science can make cigarettes healthy, it should be easy to do the same with alcohol. In fact, one wonders why the minimum daily vitamin requirement for adults has not been added to liquor long before this. Or imagine a protein-rich cocktail.

NEW PLANS FOR TRADING WITH OUR ENEMIES

In the midst of the Vietnam war, the Soviet government still hopes and expects to gain American aid for the building of an automobile factory in Russia. The factory would be of Italy with the help of $50 million credit from the U.S. Export-Import Bank for the purchase of American machinery for the plant.

Four U.S. Congressmen from the House Banking and Currency Committee who recently toured Russia and communist Eastern Europe came back bubbling with enthusiasm for the Fiat deal. They seemed convinced that the Kremlin would use the plant to increase production of cars for Russia consumers.

Sometimes it seems almost impossible for Americans to understand the nature of the communist enemy. This reaction of the Congressmen is a case in point. The Kremlin is not interested in producing consumer goods, beyond the bare minimum needed to keep the enslaved Russian people from utter despair. Certainly there is not going to be a mass automobile market in Russia in the near future, nor do Russians have the money or the roads to create it.

The Fiat plant, if built, will be used for just one purpose: to expand Soviet production facilities for military purposes. If the plant is not itself used to turn out military hardware for Vietnam, it will be used to free other factories to do so.

It is incredible that we should even consider granting money for this deal while our soldiers are being killed by the communists in Vietnam. Credit dollars for Moscow come back as bullets from Hanoi. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- In Georgetown, people still walk along "N" street and pick ivy from the slope in front of the house where Jackie Kennedy used to live. A lot of famous people live on that street. Across the way is the house of Abraham Lincoln's son Todd, who founded the Pullman Car Company. Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen lives in the Lincoln house today.

Next door is the home of Stanley Woodward, who used to be Ambassador to Canada and Chief Protocol Officer for the White House. A few doors away is the home of Ambassador Averell Harriman, former Governor of New York and former Secretary of Commerce.

The house in front of which the people pull the ivy used to be the home of Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson cabinet. Michael Straight, author and editor, lives there now. But the people who walk by are not interested in the famous men who once lived in the house or who lives there now. They are interested only in the fact that Jackie Kennedy lived there.

And, for most of them, Queen Jacqueline still sits on her throne, the nearest to American royalty this county has ever seen, and perhaps ever will see.

When they read the book "The Death of a President," they ask a lot of questions. One question is, why did Jackie let herself pour her heart out for ten hours to William Manchester and his tape recorder -- to a man she did not really know well? Why didn't she get advice from a friend?

One answer is that Jackie has had almost no women friends. Her closest friend, her half sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, doesn't understand politics and was in no position to advice her. Her mother, who does understand, hasn't had much influence with Jackie in recent years.

Jackie's closest friend and adviser is her brother - in - law, Bobby Kennedy, with whom she has taken many skiing and yachting trips. But they both figured they had signed a contract with a man they could control. As Jackie wrote to Jim Bishop when he wanted to write a book on the assassination, "I hired Manchester." And having "hired" him, she expected to control him.

POSITION OF POWER

This reveals another interesting answer: namely, that the Kennedys have always played from a position of power.

Their father was able to buy a New York Supreme Court appointment through Tammany Hall for Fred Pecora when the latter was in line to become head of the new securities and exchange commission. Thus Joe Kennedy, instead of Pecora, got the SEC chairmanship.

Later old Joe was able to buy the ambassadorship to England by contributing heavily to the Democratic party. And, having determined to put his son in the White House, old Joe spent the money, corraled the politicians, inspired his sons and got the job done.

It's no secret that today the family is determined to put another Kennedy in the White House; and one reason for the tough censorship of the Manchester book was so nothing would be recorded for history which might mar that ambition. Having been in the habit of playing from a position of power, Jackie and Bobby cracked the censor's whip.

Another question asked by readers of the book is why Manchester spends so much time reporting how the late President discussed with his wife the details of what dress she should wear, what the weather would be like and which kind of dress would go with what weather.

This almost makes the late President effeminate, which he definitely was not. It is true that he was proud of Jackie, and I recall several times his expressing pleasure over complimentary stories I had written about her. But it's doubtful that he devoted more time to Jackie's wearing apparel than to affairs of state -- as would appear from the book.

EX-CAMERA GIRL

The explanation is that Jackie recounted to Manchester the picture of her husband as she wanted to remember him. Being human, she wanted to forget the unpleasant memories, the marital difficulties. So the picture she gave Manchester was not necessarily the way her husband was. Definitely he was not effeminate.

Nor is the wide- eyed, beautiful lady whom so many have placed on an American throne, as demure as the people who pluck ivy from her onetime lawn think she is. She has a temper as explosive as the first Queen Elizabeth of England and a vituperative vocabulary inherited from the days when she was a photographer for the Washington Times Herald and held her own with any cameraman.

In the last week, however, Jackie has been advised to improve her image. This was the real reason why she belatedly cancelled the $30,000 which President Johnson had alloted her for public relations.

The money - $50,000 up until the 1967 budget - was to answer mail and pay Miss Pamela Turnure who had long handled Mrs. Kennedy's PR work. Actually the mail has been greater in the past months due to the Manchester book controversy. However, Jackie's brother-in-law advised her that her public image was going sour and she had better give up the White House money.

No other President's widow has ever received a budget allowance other than a $10,000 annual pension. Nor has any other President's widow received secret service protection.

Note -- Some other widows have been desperately hard up. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge inherited almost no property. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Truman had her house in Independence, Mo., but no income other than his writings, until congress voted HST and Eisenhower a $25,000 office expense allowance. The late JFK left around $10,000,000 in trust to his children and widow.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Adam Powell's "Unknown Sucessor' Gives Vast New Influence to Labor on the 'Hill'.

Washington, D. C.: -- Almost faceless and image - less in the public spotlight -- but not for long -- is Carl Perkins, the man who has walked, not stalked, in the shadow of Adam Clayton Powell for five tumultuous years.

More and more now the citizenry will learn his name, his policies and his alliances -- all of which will change the law on the traumatic labor front. For he now, as Rev. Powell's successor to the chairmansip of the House Committee on Education and Labor, becomes one of the land's most influential men.

Though it is known only to the handful of those who work with him and who bother with the inner, turgid operations on the Hill, Congressman Carl Perkins, 54, of Southeastern Kentucky, is one of the closest and most cooperative friends the labor leaders have had in the Congress.

All this has been obscured by the shuttling and chuckling of the gentleman from Bimini.

But mark well the worshipper of anonymity, the contrasting Carl Perkins who speeds home to his Pikeville district whenever possible to speak at rallies run by the United Mine Workers and the rest of labor in a district which basically is rural -- what with small farms loaded with hogs and tobacco. These are some railroad shops, some steel plants, much coal, natural gas and oil. But the people are poor and hunger is no museum piece.

And so for over 17 years Carl Perkins, who went into the House the year Texas' Lyndon Johnson left it for the Senate, has voted more consistently with labor than any other Congressman. That's the opinion of such men as AFL-CIO president George Meany and his perpetual man on the Hill, Andy Biemiller.

In fact, the record shows that in the 17 years since the 81st Congress began, Carl Perkins voted "wrong" -- according to labor's specifications -- only twice.

Thus, in effect, Perkins, the Southerner, worked more intimately with the labor establishment than did Adam Powell, who hates its guts and never hesitated to say so.

There still is doubt that Rep. Powell will regain his seat -- for in the final analysis the decision will be made by GOP House leader Gerald Ford.

There is, however, no doubt that Powell, even if he is seated and is back on the Committee, never will retrieve the chairmanship. Never is a long time, but in a conversation with Congressman Emanuel Celler he told me that "Adam would have to live another lifetime before he got up enough seniority for another chairmanship."

And there is no doubt that as long as the House Committee on Education and Labor is a single body, Perkins will run it -- and run it as one of the most pro - labor committees the Congress has ever seen.

Labor will get from him what it never could have won from the embattled Powell.

Under the "Kentuckian," the House Labor Committee, whenever possible, will run interference for the labor movement in the renewed fight for repeal of Taft - Hartley's Section 14 (b), the passage of laws liberalizing mass picketing at major construction projects, and the easing of the restrictions of the 1959 Labor - Management Reporting and Disclosure Act.

Perkins himself now really is the repeal of Powell.

The Harlem Congressman was the one - man roadblock who could not be hurdled by what the technicians call "common situs picketing."

Today this is forbidden, but for years the powerful building and construction unions have fought for it because it would give them a chance to picket projects on which operate 40 or 50 contractors -- even though the unions had a quarrel with but one corporation. Such a law would give the unions tremendous strength in organizing multimillion dollar heavy construction sites.

Perkins has fought for it as strongly as he bucked the passing of the Landrum - Griffin Act in '59.

And when Perkins fights he is truly formidable -- his attendance record is perfect. He has voted on every roll call -- and of course, pro - labor.

He stands with the unions on other legislation. He actually developed the model for the 1965 Appalachian Regional Development Act and the job and neighborhood youth corps of the poverty program.

Small wonder, then, there is joy in labor circles over the disappearance of Adam Clayton Powell's large shadow.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

For Stan Musial all Missourians will wish at least a little success as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

It's a job that many Missourians would rather he didn't take.

Managing a major league baseball team is a demanding, heartless type of man killing task at which more try than succeed.

Even winning managers occasionally get fired but those who don't win haven't a chance.

Musial enters as a hero and if history repeats itself he may either go out as a bum or a bumbler.

It's not the kind of fate that Missourians would wish for one of the good guys.

Stan the Man is a storied character in Cardinal baseball history as a player.

He has been every Missouri boy's idol and that includes many men, who never achieved maturity as far as baseball is concerned.

Musial's fan club is worldwide.

He has had a national stake in the health and well being of young men as chairman of the president's council on physical fitness.

The Cardinal pilot's job couldn't have gone to a more capable person or to a nicer guy.

May success crown his efforts at least long enough to give him some feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction before he gives up or gets dislodged from the fickle driver's seat.

As a player he was great but great players don't always make great managers.

THE BACK YARD

When we were growing up, and long before that, a common lament was "how can you keep them down on the farm" when things are so much better in the city. And they really were-much better pay for much less work.

The American farm had been in an almost permanent depression since the turn of the century. Prices were so low no one could make a decent living out of cows or cotton, food or fibre. By the end of World War II our farms were living on Federal subsidy and the resulting surpluses were a national disgrace.

Then while few of us were looking, the worm turned. Mountainous surpluses drained away to stem famine abroad. The U.S. found itself on a hand-to-mouth basis for the first time in the memory of anyone alive. The July wheat carryover ran 100 million bushels below the "safe" minimum. Despite a record 1965 crop, the soybean carryover was near a ten-year low. Government estimates put the total feedstuff supply at an eight-year low. The population here and abroad had quietly caught up with the food available.

The figures showed it. Farm land values jumped 8 percent from spring '65 to spring '66. Down South the gain was 14.7 percent. Even Appalachia gained 6.3 percent. Dollar value of farms sold was up 14 percent, despite the tightest money and toughest financing conditions in 40 years. Exports in fiscal '66 doubled the '56 experience - and most were commercial sales rather than Federal aid.

There's more than population pressure behind these figures. Some four million acres go out of production each year as our cities and towns and highway networks spread out over the land. Obviously, the time has come to watch out what we cover with asphalt - the meal we lose may eventually be our own.

Meantime, there's a new boom down on the farm.

Going skiing for the first time? It isn't necessary to have the latest style and shade of pants, sweaters and parkas to learn to ski. At most ski areas you'll see everything from blue jeans to stretchpants, and from army surplus gear to everyday slacks and pants.

The National Safety Council advises that clothing should be comfortable, suitable for strenuous activity (not too loose or too tight), warm, windproof and waterproof.

In addition, the Council reminds skiers not to forget the little things, such as:

Shatterproof sun glasses or ski goggles to protect your eyes from the wind and sun.

Leather mittens or gloves that cover the wrists.

Something to cover your ears and keep them warm.

Sun tan lotion and chapstick.

A couple of safety pins - just in case.

Thousands of people are serious collectors of license plates, according to Keith Marvin, a New York state newspaperman and author of a book titled "License Plates of the World."

"It's a hobby that has a lot of the fascination of stamp collecting - the objects collected are colorful and interesting, there's satisfaction in building a complete collection, and you learn something about other states and nations in the process," says Marvin.

His own collection grew so large he finally stopped acquiring license plates and concentrated on classifying license-plate data.

Going after such information can be a stimulating arm-chair adventure, Marvin has learned. For example, when he wrote for information on license plates in the remote Himalayan nation of Sikkim, he received in return a letter from the nation's ruling prince.

Communist officials proved far less cooperative. Of 15 officials in the Soviet Union to whom he wrote for license plate data, only one replied, and his letter was delayed and censored by a senior official.

In spite of this lack of cooperation, Marvin has learned that the Soviets issue a variety of license plates, some white on black, some black on white, and that special tags are issued to certain classes of people, such as foreign newspapermen.

Here at home, Marvin is hopeful that more states will issue reflective "safety tag" plates, now adopted in 25 states.

"Studies show that these safety tags, after dark, cut down rear-end collisions and accidents involving parked cars," Marvin says. He explains that reflective plates are visible at 2,000 feet in the headlights of a car.

Marvin also favors the use of front license plates by the 16 states which now issue only one license plate. He points out that the use of front tags greatly increases the number of cars that law-enforcement officers can check as they cruise down the highway. They can check the front plates of on-coming cars as well as the rear plate of the car ahead.

Highway users pay more than 24 per cent of all state taxes collected in this country, reports Oil Facts. In fiscal 1965, the states collected $26 billion, of which $6.3 billion came from taxes on motor fuels and motor vehicles and from drivers' license fees. Motor fuel taxes alone amounted to $4.3 billion.

Nearly every community has home-grown industries which are important to the local economy.

Yet, many local industries operate un-noticed and unappreciated by the public. Public indifference can affect production, morale of personnel, and governmental action which relates to the company.

On the other hand, a new industry often comes into the community amid a splurge of publicity which draws the unqualified support of the whole public.

Of course, this kind of reaction seems unfair to the established, home-grown industry. But neither the public nor the local newspaper can be blamed for the situation. The established industry which takes its position for granted may expect a complacent attitude from the public. The new industry which uses advertising and other means of publicity to build its personality deserves the attention it has earned.

Every community newspaper encourages industry, both old and new, to the full extent of its means. But the newspaper, which is an industry itself, has certain limitations imposed on it. It cannot provide free advertising to one industry in preference to another. The result would be a bankrupt newspaper.

Bonafide news originating from any industry, from saw-mill to clothing factory, will be published in the community newspaper. But institutional advertising which keeps the status of industry fresh in the public mind, requires consistent use of newspaper advertising space.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK AP -- A lot of people are in the dumps because they already have failed to live up to the noble New Year's resolves they made to change their lives for the better.

The trouble with most of them probably is that they set themselves impossible goals.

Instant reformation may be possible for saints but it is uncharacteristic of ordinary human beings. The first wise measure toward reformation isn't to make yourself any better — it's to keep yourself from getting any worse.

Set yourself achievable goals. Instead of resolving what you will do, decide what you won't do. Be positive in a negative way.

For example, I decided it would be a better world for me in 1967 if I firmly made up my mind not to do the following things:

Stuff a whale and exhibit it on a cross-country tour.

Learn any modern dance step.

Bet against the Green Bay Packers football team — even if

Buy a race horse, an astrakhan hat, or a solid gold ear cleaner.

Drink dry martinis through a damp straw.

Attend any marijuana orgies.

Read any magazine articles on how one's sex life can be made more interesting, or how one can get rich by investing in the stock market or raising chinchillas in the basement.

Take up the study of Yoga or Zen Buddhism in order to discover the wisdom of the mysterious Eas.

Acquire any new diseases. The only sure way to stay healthy is to take care of the diseases you already have.

Run for congress — or a bus.

Write any article saying dogs are superior to cats, or cats superior to dogs as pets.

So far, with the help of a firm will and a lot of inherited character, I've kept every one of my good resolutions for 1967.

THE INESCAPABLE NEED

The news that the Administration is requesting a huge additional sum, in the $13 billion range, to meet vastly increased military costs brought on by the war in Viet Nam should surprise no one. That war, so far as we are concerned, has moved with appalling swiftness from the minor to the major stage and is approaching Korean War dimensions. All efforts, by this and other nations, to persuade Hanoi to enter into negotiatons on fair terms have been contemptuously refused, and there is small doubt that this will continue to be the enemy's attitude in the foreseeable future.

Thus the already large budget deficit, along with that projected for the coming fiscal year, soars into the economic stratosphere. The inevitable result is to feed the fires of inflation-unless. The "unless" amounts to this: Those fires can be kept under some kind of effective control only if there are sharp cuts in domestic spending in order to offset the war spending. The inescapable need, as Rep. Ford put it, " . . .is a reduction in nonessential domestic spending in order to avoid added taxes or a skyrocketing cost of living." Congress has no greater duty than to see this accomplished.

Tobacco companies are keeping their fingers crossed. Not only could it make cigarettes safe, it could make them positively healthy, because the vitamin A in the smoke might also help counteract the polluted air that is breathed in by everybody, puffers and non-puffers alike.

If science can make cigarettes healthy, it should be easy to do the same with alcohol. In fact, one wonders why the minimum daily vitamin requirement for adults has not been added to liquor long before this. Or imagine a protein-rich cocktail.

So the picture she gave Manchester was not necessarily the way her husband was. Definitely he was not effeminate.

Nor is the wide- eyed, beautiful lady whom so many have placed on an American throne, as demure as the people who pluck ivy from her onetime lawn think she is. She has a temper as explosive as the first Queen Elizabeth of England and a vituperative vocabulary inherited from the days when she was a photographer for the Washington Times Herald and held her own with any cameraman.

In the last week, however, Jackie has been advised to improve her image. This was the real reason why she belatedly cancelled the $30,000 which President Johnson had alloted her for public relations.

The money - $50,000 up until the 1967 budget - was to answer mail and pay Miss Pamela Turnure who had long handled Mrs. Kennedy's PR work. Actually the mail has been greater in the past months due to the Manchester book controversy. However, Jackie's brother-in-law advised her that her public image was going sour and she had better give up the White House money.

No other President's widow has ever received a budget allowance other than a $10,000 annual pension. Nor has any other President's widow received secret service protection.

Note -- Some other widows have been desperately hard up. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge inherited almost no property. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Truman had her house in Independence, Mo., but no income other than his writings, until congress voted HST and Eisenhower a $25,000 office expense allowance. The late JFK left around $10,000,000 in trust to his children and widow.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Adam Powell's "Unknown Sucessor' Gives Vast New Influence to Labor on the 'Hill'.

Washington, D. C.: -- Almost faceless and image - less in the public spotlight -- but not for long -- is Carl Perkins, the man who has walked, not stalked, in the shadow of Adam Clayton Powell for five tumultuous years.

More and more now the citizenry will learn his name, his policies and his alliances -- all of which will change the law on the traumatic labor front. For he now, as Rev. Powell's successor to the chairmansip of the House Committee on Education and Labor, becomes one of the land's most influential men.

Though it is known only to the handful of those who work with him and who bother with the inner, turgid operations on the Hill, Congressman Carl Perkins, 54, of Southeastern Kentucky, is one of the closest and most cooperative friends the labor leaders have had in the Congress.

All this has been obscured by the shuttling and chuckling of the gentleman from Bimini.

But mark well the worshipper of anonymity, the contrasting Carl Perkins who speeds home to his Pikeville district whenever possible to speak at rallies run by the United Mine Workers and the rest of labor in a district which basically is rural -- what with small farms loaded with hogs and tobacco. These are some railroad shops, some steel plants, much coal, natural gas and oil. But the people are poor and hunger is no museum piece.

And so for over 17 years Carl Perkins, who went into the House the year Texas' Lyndon Johnson left it for the Senate, has voted more consistently with labor than any other Congressman. That's the opinion of such men as AFL-CIO president George Meany and his perpetual man on the Hill, Andy Biemiller.

In fact, the record shows that in the 17 years since the 81st Congress began, Carl Perkins voted "wrong" -- according to labor's specifications -- only twice.

Thus, in effect, Perkins, the Southerner, worked more intimately with the labor establishment than did Adam Powell, who hates its guts and never hesitated to say so.

There still is doubt that Rep. Powell will regain his seat -- for in the final analysis the decision will be made by GOP House leader Gerald Ford.

There is, however, no doubt that Powell, even if he is seated and is back on the Committee, never will retrieve the chairmanship. Never is a long time, but in a conversation with Congressman Emanuel Celler he told me that "Adam would have to live another lifetime before he got up enough seniority for another chairmanship."

And there is no doubt that as long as the House Committee on Education and Labor is a single body, Perkins will run it -- and run it as one of the most pro - labor committees the Congress has ever seen.

Labor will get from him what it never could have won from the embattled Powell.

Under the "Kentuckian," the House Labor Committee, whenever possible, will run interference for the labor movement in the renewed fight for repeal of Taft - Hartley's Section 14 (b), the passage of laws liberalizing mass picketing at major construction projects, and the easing of the restrictions of the 1959 Labor - Management Reporting and Disclosure Act.

Perkins himself now really is the repeal of Powell.

The Harlem Congressman was the one - man roadblock who could not be hurdled by what the technicians call "common situs picketing."

Today this is forbidden, but for years the powerful building and construction unions have fought for it because it would give them a chance to picket projects on which operate 40 or 50 contractors -- even though the unions had a quarrel with but one corporation. Such a law would give the unions tremendous strength in organizing multimillion dollar heavy construction sites.

Perkins has fought for it as strongly as he bucked the passing of the Landrum - Griffin Act in '59.

And when Perkins fights he is truly formidable -- his attendance record is perfect. He has voted on every roll call -- and of course, pro - labor.

He stands with the unions on other legislation. He actually developed the model for the 1965 Appalachian Regional Development Act and the job and neighborhood youth corps of the poverty program.

Small wonder, then, there is joy in labor circles over the disappearance of Adam Clayton Powell's large shadow.

REAL RELIGION

Real religion is not just a set of theological or moral propositions in which we believe. Real religion is a strem of grace and power flowing out from God to us, and then through us. There is not only a duty to be fulfilled there is a strength to be received. Worship pre-eminently is where we open ourselves to that source of vitality and life. We will be worshipping at TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH at 110 E. Center Street this Sunday at 10:30 A.M. We should be happy to have you worship with us.

W. D. Carney Speaks to Jr. Women

W. D. Carney, district 10 engineer of the state highway department, spoke on highway beautification to the Junior Woman's club at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Rustic Rock Inn.

Carney pointed out that the trees and bushes planted by the highway department serve two purposes: They beautify and give the motorist something to look at, preventing the motorist from falling into a state of hypnosis while traveling on a straight road at a steady speed.

He told the club that $100 million was spent last year to pick up litter on the nation's highways.

Vice President Janet Meadows presided in the absence of President Ann Elliott.

Shirley Dyer read the club collect. After roll call, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report was given.

The club voted to nominate a woman for the woman of the year award, sponsored by the Business and Professional Woman's club. The president will appoint a committee of three to select the candidate.

Committees for the second annual talent and variety show April 14 in the junior high school auditorium were appointed. Mrs. Linda Norton is chairman.

The club will have a Valentine dinner and dance Feb. 11 at the Holiday Inn for members and their husbands or dates. Miss Pat Smith is chairman.

Brenda Newton, Sara Sadler, Sandy Lane and Melinda Foster won prizes during the social hour.

Vanduser Extension Club Has Meeting

VANDUSER -- The extension club met Jan. 19, in the community building at 7:30 p.m.

Eight members were present. Martha Sue Foster read the club collect. Roll call was answered with "One New Year's resolution I made."

The year books were filled were filled out and Mrs. Evelyn Hill, reviewed the cooking demonstration, "Cooking Can Be Fun," with Eddie Doucette, internationally known chef. The demonstration was Jan. 18 at the armory in Sikeston. Some members copied the krazy kake recipe.

Present were Mrs. Evelyn Hill, Mrs. Hazel Hill, Mrs. Dee Pearson, Mrs. Philip Newman, Mrs. Carl Tubbs, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Virginia Yandell and Mrs. Dode Johnson, a new member.

Mrs. Newman served lemonade and cookies

Winifred Fiebig To Marry Stephen Rolwing

ST. LOUIS - Mr. and Mrs. A. Fiebig announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Winifred, to Stephen Rolwing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Rolwing, route two, Charleston.

Miss Fiebig attended the University of Missouri and is studying X-ray technology at Texarkana, Tex.

Rolwing is a graduate of the University of Missouri. He is now working on his master's degree and for the army in Detroit.

The wedding will be April 1 at the Basilica of St. Louis, King of France, (Old Cathedral).

Nine Members Attend Meeting

The Martha Hall circle three of the Woman's Missionary Union of the First Baptist church met with Mrs. Martha Edwards. Nine members were present.

Mrs. A. P. Burrow, chairman, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Arta Johnson read the prayer calendar and gave the devotional.

Mrs. Ruth Turner was in charge of the program, "Study of Literacy Missions in Alaska." Mrs. Lenzie Beck spoke.

The secretary read the minutes.

Mrs. Edwards served refreshments. Mrs. Beck led the closing prayer.

The next meeting will be Feb. 16 at the church. Members are to bring a sack lunch.

Policewoman To Speak

VANDUSER -- Mrs. J. E. Ledbetter, policewoman and juvenile officer for Charleston, will speak at 6 p.m. Sunday at the Church of God.

Mrs. Ledbetter will show a film, "Every House, Every Day," about police work.

The public is invited.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Mrs. Bennett Is Hostess Tuesday

The Dorcas class of Trinity Baptist church met Tuesday with Mrs. Bennett with 14 members present.

Mrs. A. J. Day led the opening prayer. Mrs. Marshall McGill, president, was in charge of the business session.

Mrs. Howard McGill, secretary, read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report.

Group captains reported that there were nine 100 per cent members in December. Names of newcomers were read and assigned for visitation. It was announced that Mrs. Roy Mackley, a member, was in a hospital. Mrs. A. J. Heuiser gave the devotional, "Reaching Out in the New Year." Mrs. Rudy Chittenden led the closing prayer. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Chittenden, served cake and punch. The next meeting will be Feb. 28 with Mrs. Horace Coates.

C. M. Ward to Speak at Rally

REAL RELIGION

Real religion is not just a set of theological or moral propositions in which we believe. Real religion is a strem of grace and power flowing out from God to us, and then through us. There is not only a duty to be fulfilled there is a strength to be received. Worship pre-eminently is where we open ourselves to that source of vitality and life. We will be worshipping at TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH at 110 E. Center Street this Sunday at 10:30 A.M. We should be happy to have you worship with us.

Charleston Takes on Kennett in Finals

POPLAR BLUFF - Kennett and Charleston, the only two seeded teams to survive first round play, will meet tonight at 8:30 p.m. for the championship of the Poplar Bluff invitational basketball tournament.

Semi-final action ended last night. The upset minded Sikeston Bulldogs fell to the fourth seeded Charleston Bluejays in the 7 p.m. game 55-51.

The second seeded Kennett Indians defeated Malden 57-51.

Tonight's action will see the Bulldogs of Sikeston battling Malden for the consolation prize.

Getting off to a slow start, the Bulldogs let the Jays get out to a quick six-point lead before Fred Townes started the Sikeston scoring with a layup. Charleston led with four minutes remaining in the quarter 6-2. The first period ended in a tie 10-10. Dominating the boards the second period, Charleston hit on fast breaks and accurate field shooting to outscore the fighting Dogs 18-10 in the second quarter and posted a 28-20 lead at the intermission. Recuperated and ready to play, Sikeston fought back viciously to tie the score going into the final period of play 36-36. Swamping free throws and a field goal apiece, the score was once again tied 39-39, with 5:38 left to play.

Charleston edged out a lead with 3:51 44-43. Joe Jones added two free tosses for the Jays and Charles Lambert two for the Dogs to again give Charleston a one-point margin 46-45. With one minute and 46 seconds left the Dogs big man Gary Wiss fouled out of the game. This hurt Sikeston's rebounding strength and Charleston pulled out to a five-point lead with a little more than a minute remaining.

Wiss's replacement Carl Barnett came down the court to sink a 20-foot jumper from out front to put the Dogs back there, 54-51. Fighting desperately for the ball with 29 seconds to go, Sikeston's Limbaugh fouled Babb. Hitting one of his two charity tosses, Charleston held its winning four-point margin 55-51.

Lester Carter and Fred Townes paced the Bulldogs with 15 and 12 points respectively. Briggs netted 22 for Charleston.

Matmen Take Win Over Cape

Sikeston high school wrestlers continued to win Wednesday night as they defeated the Cape Girardeau Central Tigers 38-14, for their fourth win of the season. This was the Dogs third straight victory.

The Bulldogs have beaten Charleston, Jackson, Cape Central and Jackson twice.

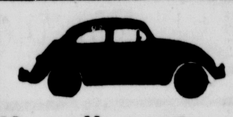

Three of the Dogs four losses have come from two Illinois teams, one from Murphysboro and two from Carbondale.

Winning on pins for the Dogs were Bowden wrestling 102 pounds, Whiteaker 120 pounds, Davis 127 pounds, Warren 145 pounds and Groves 165 pounds. Vaught won on a forfeit.

The Bulldogs will end their 66-67 wrestling campaign next Friday night as they travel to Charleston for a dual match with two Kentucky teams.

SPORTS CORNER

We knew something was going to happen last night when we predicted all upsets... but we didn't think we would come out a blank.

Yes. . . that's just what happened as Sikeston, Richland and Malden fell to favored teams as they were trying to make their way into the finals of area basketball tournaments.

We sure didn't think. . . and we know better now. . . that those BlueJays have improved so much. . . but you better know they have and if they keep going the way they played last night. . . they are going to be hard to beat.

Dexter has fully recovered from its loss to Caruthersville and made their way past Richland last night into the finals of the Stoddard county conference tournament.

Kennett, another team we misjudged, almost had its feathers trimmed by the surging Malden Green Waves.

How do we see tonight's action. . . Well first of all if the sun would get a little brighter and the weather a little warmer. . . we think we could see them just fine. . . but the old weatherman says it will stay the way it is for a few days and we will have our troubles tonight. . . as our little light bulb is frosted over. . .

Here we go. . . into another night of round ball action!!

Holcomb at Hayti North -- If the game was to be played at Holcomb the Hornets might have a chance. . . but since it's not, we will go with the Indians to get back in the winning column. Hayti North 71, Holcomb 66.

St. Henry at Delta -- Those Trojans would be surprising . . . and so can those Bobcats. . . We see Delta clawing up the Trojans. . .Delta 59, St. Henry 43.

Illmo - Scott City at Notre Dame -- It seems as though the Bulldogs have been out of action awhile and if they have they might be a little rusty. . . But not that rusty. . . Notre Dame 74, Illmo - Scott City 69.

Vienna, Ill. at Oran -- We hear that Vienna has a good team. . . We know Oran has. . . so this game we see as a toss up. . . Oran 67, Vienna, Ill. 62.

Scott Central at Chaffee -- Those Braves have their ups and downs. . . Maybe if they could see a little better. . . they might hit the bucket and rebound a little better. . . What do you think?. . . I think the Beatles have some competition. Scott Central 106, Chaffee 67.

Portageville at Clarkton -- Those Reindeer have regained their winning ways and will be hard for anyone to beat until regional time. . . Portageville has the chance but will not take it. . . Clarkton 79, Portageville 68.

Matthews at Lilbourn -- The Pirates will sharpen up for their meeting with. . . . perhaps Lilbourn next week in the semi -- finals of the New Madrid county tournament. . . at least the Pirates will not run up any big score. . . at least we think not. . . Would you believe Matthews 26, Lilbourn 23. . . We do.

Poplar Bluff Invitational Tournament
Poplar Bluff

Sikeston vs. Malden -- What the Bulldogs need is a good start and they could defeat anyone . . .The Green Waves defeated the Dogs earlier and we think they will do it again. Malden 59, Sikeston 56.

Charleston vs. Kennett -- The BlueJays had great defense last night. . . and that's all they need to defeat the Indians tonight. . . We know the Jays will get all the rebounds. . . Boy what jumpers. . . Charleston 73, Kennett 64.

Bloomfield and Dexter to Meet in Finals Saturday

BLOOMFIELD - Richland and Bernie in the B bracket and Bloomfield and Dexter in the in the A bracket will meet Saturday night for their respective championships. Bernie edged Puxico 51-47. Dexter raced past Richland for a 56-49 victory in last night's semi-final action.

Tonight's action will be the battle in each bracket for the consolation championship. Dexter and Puxico square off at 7 p.m.

In B bracket play will be followed by an 8:30 p.m. clash between Advance and Richland in the A bracket.

Bernie's junior varsity Mules jumped out a 21-16 first quarter lead but slacked the next two quarters and allowed Puxico to outscore them in each of the periods and found themselves tied going into the final quarter, 39-39. Bernie outscored their opponents 12-8 in the final period to take their four-point victory.

Although Puxico closed to a tie with the Mules they never held the lead throughout the contest. Wilson and Botsch hit 15 and 13 points respectively in leading the Mules into the finals in which they will meet Richland, a team they defeated for the Richland invitational tournament title two weeks ago. D. Holloway topped the Puxico's quintets scoring with 13 points.

Richland's mighty Rebels, biding for a berth in the finals of the Stoddard county tournament, led the first half of the game but went down to defeat in the second half, as Coach Jim Hall's Bearcats forced the Rebs into costly floor mistakes and capitalized on them.

The Rebels pulled out 14-7 in the first quarter, but allowed the Dexter quintet to outscore them in the second quarter and held only a slim 23-19 lead at the half.

Dexter again outscored the Rebs in the third quarter and took over the lead midway in the third period and went into the final period holding a 33-31 lead and outscored the Rebs 23-18 to take the victory.

Richland advanced ahead with a little better than three minutes to play but quickly handed the ball over to the Bearcats twice in a row. It was all over as the Cats raced down floor for a quick three-point lead and never let up.

Richland is pursuing the ball late in the period kept the action on the Cats end of the floor, as they were forced into a fouling situation trying to get the ball.

A six-man scoring attack set up by the Dexter quintet, was led by the Guethle brothers, Harlen and David, who each netted 17 points.

Tommy Davis was high man for the Rebels. He netted 15 points.

Lilbourn and Morehouse Meet in Volleyball Final

Matthews Puts Unbeaten Record On Line In County Finals Tonight

PORTAGEVILLE -- Howardville and Matthews will meet for the championship of the New Madrid county high shool basketball B team tournament Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. after winning semi-final round games last night.

Matthews swept past New Madrid 42-30, and Howardville beat out Portageville 47-40.

Morehouse clubbed Matthews 43-15 to take the semi-final round game and move into the finals Saturday at 6:15 p.m. to play the rough and ready Lilbourn Panthers.

The consolation championship will be played at 7 p.m. tonight as Portageville and New Madrid square off.

Landers with 18 points and Hensley with 10 led the Morehouse Tigers to a volleyball victory. Sexter topped the Matthews scoring with four points.

A well balanced scoring attack led by McElya's 11 points led the Matthews Pirates to their 17 basketball victory of the season against no losses.

New Madrid's Johnson hit 13 points to take high game scoring honors.

The Pirates junior varsity raced into a 12-4 first quarter lead and seemed to be on their way to a route, but a good New Madrid defense and offense prevented it from becoming a romp.

Howardville opened up an 11-7 first quarter lead and outscored their opponents in each quarter except the last to take the victory.

Marsh led an eight-man scoring attack with 17 points for the Hawks and took high game honors in the scoring department.

Williams' 13-point effort was high for the Bulldogs.

Matmen Take Win Over Cape

Sikeston high school wrestlers continued to win Wednesday night as they defeated the Cape Girardeau Central Tigers 38-14, for their fourth win of the season. This was the Dogs third straight victory.

The Bulldogs have beaten Charleston, Jackson, Cape Central and Jackson twice.

Three of the Dogs four losses have come from two Illinois teams, one from Murphysboro and two from Carbondale.

Winning on pins for the Dogs were Bowden wrestling 102 pounds, Whiteaker 120 pounds, Davis 127 pounds, Warren 145 pounds and Groves 165 pounds. Vaught won on a forfeit.

The Bulldogs will end their 66-67 wrestling campaign next Friday night as they travel to Charleston for a dual match with two Kentucky teams.

SPORTS CORNER

We knew something was going to happen last night when we predicted all upsets... but we didn't think we would come out a blank.

Yes. . . that's just what happened as Sikeston, Richland and Malden fell to favored teams as they were trying to make their way into the finals of area basketball tournaments.

We sure didn't think. . . and we know better now. . . that those BlueJays have improved so much. . . but you better know they have and if they keep going the way they played last night. . . they are going to be hard to beat.

Dexter has fully recovered from its loss to Caruthersville and made their way past Richland last night into the finals of the Stoddard county conference tournament.

Kennett, another team we misjudged, almost had its feathers trimmed by the surging Malden Green Waves.

How do we see tonight's action. . . Well first of all if the sun would get a little brighter and the weather a little warmer. . . we think we could see them just fine. . . but the old weatherman says it will stay the way it is for a few days and we will have our troubles tonight. . . as our little light bulb is frosted over. . .

Here we go. . . into another night of round ball action!!

Holcomb at Hayti North -- If the game was to be played at Holcomb the Hornets might have a chance. . . but since it's not, we will go with the Indians to get back in the winning column. Hayti North 71, Holcomb 66.

St. Henry at Delta -- Those Trojans would be surprising . . . and so can those Bobcats. . . We see Delta clawing up the Trojans. . .Delta 59, St. Henry 43.

Illmo - Scott City at Notre Dame -- It seems as though the Bulldogs have been out of action awhile and if they have they might be a little rusty. . . But not that rusty. . . Notre Dame 74, Illmo - Scott City 69.

Vienna, Ill. at Oran -- We hear that Vienna has a good team. . . We know Oran has. . . so this game we see as a toss up. . . Oran 67, Vienna, Ill. 62.

Scott Central at Chaffee -- Those Braves have their ups and downs. . . Maybe if they could see a little better. . . they might hit the bucket and rebound a little better. . . What do you think?. . . I think the Beatles have some competition. Scott Central 106, Chaffee 67.

Portageville at Clarkton -- Those Reindeer have regained their winning ways and will be hard for anyone to beat until regional time. . . Portageville has the chance but will not take it. . . Clarkton 79, Portageville 68.

Matthews at Lilbourn -- The Pirates will sharpen up for their meeting with. . . . perhaps Lilbourn next week in the semi -- finals of the New Madrid county tournament. . . at least the Pirates will not run up any big score. . . at least we think not. . . Would you believe Matthews 26, Lilbourn 23. . . We do.

Poplar Bluff Invitational Tournament
Poplar Bluff

Sikeston vs. Malden -- What the Bulldogs need is a good start and they could defeat anyone . . . The Green Waves defeated the Dogs earlier and we think they will do it again. Malden 59, Sikeston 56.

Charleston vs. Kennett -- The BlueJays had great defense last night. . . and that's all they need to defeat the Indians tonight. . . We know the Jays will get all the rebounds. . . Boy what jumpers. . . Charleston 73, Kennett 64.

Stoddard County Tournament
Bloomfield

Advance vs. Richland -- This should be what you would . . . or I and maybe Johnny Morris and Buzz Carr would call a real head knocker. . . We see the Rebs emerging with the consolation trophy in an overtime. Richland 72, Advance 71.

Consolation Finals Tonight at Bloomfield

Bloomfield and Dexter to Meet in Finals Saturday

BLOOMFIELD - Richland and Bernie in the B bracket and Bloomfield and Dexter in the in the A bracket will meet Saturday night for their respective championships. Bernie edged Puxico 51-47. Dexter raced past Richland for a 56-49 victory in last night's semi-final action.

Tonight's action will be the battle in each bracket for the consolation championship. Dexter and Puxico square off at 7 p.m.

In B bracket play will be followed by an 8:30 p.m. clash between Advance and Richland in the A bracket.

Bernie's junior varsity Mules jumped out a 21-16 first quarter lead but slacked the next two quarters and allowed Puxico to outscore them in each of the periods and found themselves tied going into the final quarter, 39-39. Bernie outscored their opponents 12-8 in the final period to take their four-point victory.

Although Puxico closed to a tie with the Mules they never held the lead throughout the contest. Wilson and Botsch hit 15 and 13 points respectively in leading the Mules into the finals in which they will meet Richland, a team they defeated for the Richland invitational tournament title two weeks ago. D. Holloway topped the Puxico's quintets scoring with 13 points.

Richland's mighty Rebels, biding for a berth in the finals of the Stoddard county tournament, led the first half of the game but went down to defeat in the second half, as Coach Jim Hall's Bearcats forced the Rebs into costly floor mistakes and capitalized on them.

The Rebels pulled out 14-7 in the first quarter, but allowed the Dexter quintet to outscore them in the second quarter and held only a slim 23-19 lead at the half.

Dexter again outscored the Rebs in the third quarter and took over the lead midway in the third period and went into the final period holding a 33-31 lead and outscored the Rebs 23-18 to take the victory.

Richland advanced ahead with a little better than three minutes to play but quickly handed the ball over to the Bearcats twice in a row. It was all over as the Cats raced down floor for a quick three-point lead and never let up.

Richland is pursuing the ball late in the period kept the action on the Cats end of the floor, as they were forced into a fouling situation trying to get the ball.

A six-man scoring attack set up by the Dexter quintet, was led by the Guethle brothers, Harlen and David, who each netted 17 points.

Tommy Davis was high man for the Rebels. He netted 15 points.

Lilbourn and Morehouse Meet in Volleyball Final

Matthews Puts Unbeaten Record On Line In County Finals Tonight

PORTAGEVILLE -- Howardville and Matthews will meet for the championship of the New Madrid county high shool basketball B team tournament Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. after winning semi-final round games last night.

Matthews swept past New Madrid 42-30, and Howardville beat out Portageville 47-40.

Morehouse clubbed Matthews 43-15 to take the semi-final round game and move into the finals Saturday at 6:15 p.m. to play the rough and ready Lilbourn Panthers.

The consolation championship will be played at 7 p.m. tonight as Portageville and New Madrid square off.

Landers with 18 points and Hensley with 10 led the Morehouse Tigers to a volleyball victory. Sexter topped the Matthews scoring with four points.

A well balanced scoring attack led by McElya's 11 points led the Matthews Pirates to their 17 basketball victory of the season against no losses.

New Madrid's Johnson hit 13 points to take high game scoring honors.

The Pirates junior varsity raced into a 12-4 first quarter lead and seemed to be on their way to a route, but a good New Madrid defense and offense prevented it from becoming a romp.

Howardville opened up an 11-7 first quarter lead and outscored their opponents in each quarter except the last to take the victory.

Marsh led an eight-man scoring attack with 17 points for the Hawks and took high game honors in the scoring department.

Williams' 13-point effort was high for the Bulldogs.

Soils Conference In Dexter Friday

DEXTER -- New developments in soils and crops will be discussed at the Stoddard county soils and crops conference Friday at the Dexter civic center beginning with registration at 9:30 a.m.

The conference program will include talks on new crop varieties, chemical weed control, new developments in the use for fertilizer and lime, the use of narrow-row spacings in corn production, corn stunt disease, the southwestern corn borer problem and new changes in governmental farm programs affecting crop production.

Farmers, who have had experience with new soybean varieties, narrow row spacings in corn production, and the southwestern corn borer, will discuss their experiences.

Other speakers will be Joe Scott, extension field crops specialist, John Garrett, area extension soils agent, Flernoy Jones, area extension entomology agent, all of the Delta Center in Portageville, and Edwin Pulliam, County agricultural stabilization and conservation service office manager.

Plans for this conference were made by the county soils and crops conference committee of which Hubert Swinger of Essex is chairman.

#67 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area.

THIS WEEK SALUTING

Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church

Morehouse, Mo.

James L. Estep, Minister

The present Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist church was constructed in 1960, and named after the honored families of the church, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Rauch and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Spence Sr.

The Methodist church has been serving the community of Morehouse since the 1880's; but did not have a church building until 1903. Several denominational groups met in the W.C.T.U. Temple until the Methodist built their building.

In 1963 the Methodist people built a new modern brick parsonage for the minister and his family.

These buildings are only a symbol of the love the people have for their Lord, and their way of giving thanks and glory to the Lord for their blessings.

The church is dedicated toward sharing the good news of Christ's gospel and everyone is welcome to study and worship here.

Services each week are at the following times:
Sunday: Church School 10:00 A.M.
Morning Worship 11:00 A.M.
Evening Worship 7:00 P.M.
Wednesday: MYF and Youth Church 6:30 P.M.

Soils Conference In Dexter Friday

DEXTER -- New developments in soils and crops will be discussed at the Stoddard county soils and crops conference Friday at the Dexter civic center beginning with registration at 9:30 a.m.

The conference program will include talks on new crop varieties, chemical weed control, new developments in the use for fertilizer and lime, the use of narrow-row spacings in corn production, corn stunt disease, the southwestern corn borer problem and new changes in governmental farm programs affecting crop production.

Farmers, who have had experience with new soybean varieties, narrow row spacings in corn production, and the southwestern corn borer, will discuss their experiences.

Other speakers will be Joe Scott, extension field crops specialist, John Garrett, area extension soils agent, Flernoy Jones, area extension entomology agent, all of the Delta Center in Portageville, and Edwin Pulliam, County agricultural stabilization and conservation service office manager.

Plans for this conference were made by the county soils and crops conference committee of which Hubert Swinger of Essex is chairman.

The hyena's front legs are longer than the rear ones.

Bell City CAA Will Organize

BELL CITY -- The Bell City Community Action Association will have an organizational meeting Friday night at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

A CAA board will be organized and board members elected.

For transportation, call REpublic 3-4213.

The public is invited.

Refreshments will be served.

#67 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area.

THIS WEEK SALUTING

Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church

Morehouse, Mo.

James L. Estep, Minister

The present Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist church was constructed in 1960, and named after the honored families of the church, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Rauch and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Spence Sr.

The Methodist church has been serving the community of Morehouse since the 1880's; but did not have a church building until 1903. Several denominational groups met in the W.C.T.U. Temple until the Methodist built their building.

In 1963 the Methodist people built a new modern brick parsonage for the minister and his family.

These buildings are only a symbol of the love the people have for their Lord, and their way of giving thanks and glory to the Lord for their blessings.

The church is dedicated toward sharing the good news of Christ's gospel and everyone is welcome to study and worship here.

Services each week are at the following times:
Sunday: Church School 10:00 A.M.
Morning Worship 11:00 A.M.
Evening Worship 7:00 P.M.
Wednesday: MYF and Youth Church 6:30 P.M.

Public Apathy May Lead Nation To Destruction

PUBLIC APATHY toward Civil Defense is alarming to persons who have substantial amount or training education in this field.

Survival of the United States of America will depend more and more on the present attitude of those persons in power today.

Some people do not realize they have a responsibility to preserve the nation and mankind in case of a nuclear catastrophe.

Number of persons seem to think that death will come quickly for them if an attack is launched on the United States.

Millions may die as a result of the blast and fire if this should happen, but the residents in small towns (such as Sikeston) can survive if the necessary protection in shelters is available.

If no protection is available at the critical time, the majority of people living in Sikeston would die a slow and agonizing death which probably would take days or weeks.

Up rooted persons would probably have horrible deaths with extreme pain and suffering.

Men may kill their children and wives to relieve them of the horrible pain that would accompany radiation sickness before taking their own lives.

Some persons would live because they had their own private shelters,but they may have to fight for their private shelters because there would be half-crazed people left in the open with no protection.

Citizens of every community should ask themselves these questions --

What is Civil Defense?

Does your city have well-stocked shelters for every person?

Are well-trained shelter managers ready to take charge in case of an emergency?

Are Civil Defense protection measures built into the public schools?

These questions can only be answered by the American citizens of today who are aware of Civil Defense and what it can do for them, their country, and their friends.

Communities should provide shelters so that if they are needed they would be available.

Council Needs Students' Cooperation To Succeed

STUDENT COUNCIL is an organization designed to give the students more representation in the administration of the school government. It is composed of students from each class who are elected at the beginning of the school year. The students are chosen from their various homerooms.

The duties of the council are varied. They include keeping the bulletin board accurate, preparing all assemblies held during the course of the year, operating the refreshment stand at the home football games, planning the elections for class officers, for outstanding class members, and for the student body president.

Committees are formed to oversee these responsibilities. They function under their appointed chairmen.

The most important duty of the student council is to act as the bridge between the administration and the student body.

The council gives the students a chance to voice their opinions and to complain or congratulate various persons or groups on campus. If the council does not function properly, it is up to the students to demand a change.

We are indeed fortunate to have the same type of government in our school system as does our city, state, and nation. The council cannot function properly without the students' cooperation. So respect the council's decisions and do your part to make its efforts successful.

SHS Students Give Opinions About UFO's

When Barker reporters interviewed students on the subject of Unidentified Flying objects, many interesting answers were received.

Roger Ruebush -- "I believe that there might really be flying saucers or whatever you wish to call them. It would be pretty conceited to think that we have the only life supporting planet."

Roseann DesChamp-- "I think there is a possibility that UFO's do exist, but until I see one, I won't believe it!"

Steve Spear -- "I try to keep an open mind on the subject, but I like to believe man isn't the owner of the universe. At lease until we prove we deserve it."

Judy Murchison -- "I simply don't think about them. They don't bother me and I'm certainly not going to bother them."

Danny Cannon -- "They are real but the Air Force thinks they are illusions instead of from outer space."

Tom Phillips -- "Who knows, they might very well be real. Why not?"

Nancy Turner -- "I'd like to see one and I don't think that they are just illusions."

David Moyers -- "I think they are conrolled intelligent beings, and come from the North Polar cap."

Greg Bailey -- "I believe the U. S. Air Force has a hand in this, and does not wish to reveal the true identifv of these objects. The UFO's are probably being used for test purposes."

Connie Nowell -- "I do think that there are people who live on other planets but I don't know if all the information is true."

Fifty-five per cent of the approximately 130 million telephones in the world are in the United States, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The Turkish port of Smyrna was a Greek colony for many hundreds of years before Christ.

We're With You, Team!

Three Food Classes Plan Tea In Faculty's Honor

Three food classes of the high school home economics department, directed by Mrs. Hemba Young and Mrs. Larry April, gave a reception for the faculty yesterday afternoon immediately following the dismissal of school.

Each class was divided into families who had certain responsibilities to meet in preparation of the tea. Some of the duties were serving as hostess or assistant hostess, replenishing the tea trays, changing the music, decorating the table, and cleaning up after the reception.

Experience was gained in learning the correct way to make a variety of dainty sandwiches, colored mints, punch, coffee, and freezing the cakes. Placing the food attractively on the trays, setting up a tea table, and arranging a center piece.

Connie Allmeroth, Barba Cantrell, Margaret Carlock, Linda Crenshaw, Rita Douglas, Sharon Edwards, Brenda Freed, Betty Hartlein, Hilda Jones, Janie Long, Cheryl Perry.

With the cooperation of each student and the guidance of Mrs. Young and Mrs. April, the reception was considered a success.

Class Features Careers; Board Is Weekly Project

LINDA BENNETT and BECKY ZIEGENHORN designed and constructed the bulletin board.

******

Bulletin board in the main hall of "A" building is to be the weekly project of the career explorations class, instructed by Gerald Hancock.

Students enrolled in the class will erect a board each week featuring different careers.

This week's bulletin board explores career opportunities in radio.

Sky blue paper is background for Schultz's "Snoopy," World War I flying ace, and his "Sopwith Camel."

Pamphlets explaining diversified occupations in radio are also displayed.

Theme of the construction is "Twentieth Century Radio."

Students designing and erecting the board were Linda Bennett and Becky Ziegenhorn.

Next week's bulleti board will be the project of Marcia Mays, Janet Trucks, and Johnny Johnson.

Career explorations is being offered for the first time this semester, and it is devised for seniors and their futures.

Goal of each student is to evaluate himself by comparing ability, aptitude, and interest with the career he plans to enter.

Class meets fifth hour each day.

Forty - three students currently compose the career explorations class.

Five Student Instructors Will Assist In Classrooms

Five seniors from the Southeast Missouri State College arrived today to begin their student teaching in Sikeston high school for the next nine weeks.

Graduating seniors from the Southeast Missouri State College enter the high school and observe and instruct classes in the various departments for college credit before they receive their degrees in secondary education.

After an observation period of three weeks, the novice teachers assume the full classroom duties.

Program gives them a chance to apply the knowledge that they have acquired throughout their education.

Sikeston high school faculty cooperates in the program by supervising the student teachers during the nine-week session.

These students will assume the role of college seniors for the last nine weeks of the term at SEMO State.

Edward Roth will instruct the English classes, directed by Mrs. Tony E. Statler, and assist the journalism students with the Bulldog Barker and the Growler.

Miss Mary Alice Fortner will work with the English and reading classes, directed by Mrs. Tom Wilkins.

In the art department Miss Mary McCrorey will be supervised by Miss Harriet Jones, chairman of the department. She will assist Miss Jones with the art supervision in the Sikeston school system.

Gene Rehn will assist N. P. McDaniel with the physical education classes.

Terry Glenzy will teach physical education classes, directed by Norman Lambert.

10 New Students Enroll In Sikeston High School

Ten new students entered Sikeston high school during the past several months and began the second semester this past week.

These students came to Sikeston from various parts of Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana.

From Scott Central high came Dale Holz and Barbara Phillips, sophomores.

Dale's subjects include geometry, English II, chorus, typing, world history, and physica education.

Barbara's subjects are biology I, typing, geometry, English II, word history and physical education.

Sophomore Clifton Stokes' schedule includes art, speech English II, world history, chorus, and physical education.

Walter Kearby is enrolled in the vocational preparation program.

Jerry Collins, formerly of Indiana, is a junior and his classes are auto mechanics, speech, and physical education.

Belinda Sartin is a sophomore, formerly from Zalma, Mo. Her classes include biology, funcational mathematics, world history, English II, home decorating, and physical education.

ORCHESTRA MEMBERS PRACTICE diligently for annual Quad-State String Orchestra Festival Monday.

Mike Garner Participates In Athletics

Junior Mike Garner is known for participation in football, basketball, and baseball in the high school.

He played first string right end and middle line backer on the defensive unit of the football squad.

Mike scored three touchdowns, and he also played on the defensive Bulldog line.

He was given the honor of first string offensive end All-Conference, second string middle line backer on defense All-Conference, and lettered for the second year in football.

Mike played third base on the baseball team last year, and he worked his way through subdistrict, district, sectional, and regional championships before the team lost in the state competition.

Mike participated with the Connie Mack team as a pitcher in Sikeston last summer. He was one of the team members who helped take the team to national competition in Fort Worth, Texas.

He is vice president of his home room, directed by Miss Uriel Haw.

Mike plans to attend Murray State University after graduation from high school.

SHS Strings To Perform In Festival

SHS Students Give Opinions About UFO's

When Barker reporters interviewed students on the subject of Unidentified Flying objects, many interesting answers were received.

Roger Ruebush -- "I believe that there might really be flying saucers or whatever you wish to call them. It would be pretty conceited to think that we have the only life supporting planet."

Roseann DesChamp-- "I think there is a possibility that UFO's do exist, but until I see one, I won't believe it!"

Steve Spear -- "I try to keep an open mind on the subject, but I like to believe man isn't the owner of the universe. At lease until we prove we deserve it."

Judy Murchison -- "I simply don't think about them. They don't bother me and I'm certainly not going to bother them."

Danny Cannon -- "They are real but the Air Force thinks they are illusions instead of from outer space."

Tom Phillips -- "Who knows, they might very well be real. Why not?"

Nancy Turner -- "I'd like to see one and I don't think that they are just illusions."

David Moyers -- "I think they are conrolled intelligent beings, and come from the North Polar cap."

Greg Bailey -- "I believe the U. S. Air Force has a hand in this, and does not wish to reveal the true identify of these objects. The UFO's are probably being used for test purposes."

Connie Nowell -- "I do think that there are people who live on other planets but I don't know if all the information is true."

We're With You, Team!

Three Food Classes Plan Tea In Faculty's Honor

Three food classes of the high school home economics department, directed by Mrs. Hemba Young and Mrs. Larry April, gave a reception for the faculty yesterday afternoon immediately following the dismissal of school.

Each class was divided into families who had certain responsibilities to meet in preparation of the tea. Some of the duties were serving as hostess or assistant hostess, replenishing the tea trays, changing the music, decorating the table, and cleaning up after the reception.

Experience was gained in learning the correct way to make a variety of dainty sandwiches, colored mints, punch, coffee, and freezing the cakes. Placing the food attractively on the trays, setting up a tea table, and arranging a center piece.

Connie Allmeroth, Barba Cantrell, Margaret Carlock, Linda Crenshaw, Rita Douglas, Sharon Edwards, Brenda Freed, Betty Hartlein, Hilda Jones, Janie Long, Cheryl Perry.

Gloria Powell, Gaile Purdy, LaVerne Riggins, Mary Lee Smith, Pearlie Grant, Brenda Mitchell, Brenda Sullivan, and Shirley Yarber.

With the cooperation of each student and the guidance of Mrs. Young and Mrs. April, the reception was considered a success.

Class Features Careers; Board Is Weekly Project

LINDA BENNETT and BECKY ZIEGENHORN designed and constructed the bulletin board.

******

Bulletin board in the main hall of "A" building is to be the weekly project of the career explorations class, instructed by Gerald Hancock.

Students enrolled in the class will erect a board each week featuring different careers.

This week's bulletin board explores career opportunities in radio.

Sky blue paper is background for Schultz's "Snoopy," World War I flying ace, and his "Sopwith Camel."

Pamphlets explaining diversified occupations in radio are also displayed.

Theme of the construction is "Twentieth Century Radio."

Students designing and erecting the board were Linda Bennett and Becky Ziegenhorn.

Next week's bulleti board will be the project of Marcia Mays, Janet Trucks, and Johnny Johnson.

Career explorations is being offered for the first time this semester, and it is devised for seniors and their futures.

Goal of each student is to evaluate himself by comparing ability, aptitude, and interest with the career he plans to enter.

Class meets fifth hour each day.

Forty - three students currently compose the career explorations class.

Five Student Instructors Will Assist In Classrooms

Five seniors from the Southeast Missouri State College arrived today to begin their student teaching in Sikeston high school for the next nine weeks.

Graduating seniors from the Southeast Missouri State College enter the high school and observe and instruct classes in the various departments for college credit before they receive their degrees in secondary education.

After an observation period of three weeks, the novice teachers assume the full classroom duties.

Program gives them a chance to apply the knowledge that they have acquired throughout their education.

Sikeston high school faculty cooperates in the program by supervising the student teachers during the nine-week session.

These students will assume the role of college seniors for the last nine weeks of the term at SEMO State.

Edward Roth will instruct the English classes, directed by Mrs. Tony E. Statler, and assist the journalism students with the Bulldog Barker and the Growler.

Miss Mary Alice Fortner will work with the English and reading classes, directed by Mrs. Tom Wilkins.

In the art department Miss Mary McCrorey will be supervised by Miss Harriet Jones, chairman of the department. She will assist Miss Jones with the art supervision in the Sikeston school system.

Gene Rehn will assist N. P. McDaniel with the physical education classes.

Terry Glenzy will teach physical education classes, directed by Norman Lambert.

10 New Students Enroll In Sikeston High School

Ten new students entered Sikeston high school during the past several months and began the second semester this past week.

These students came to Sikeston from various parts of Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana.

From Scott Central high came Dale Holz and Barbara Phillips, sophomores.

Dale's subjects include geometry, English II, chorus, typing, world history, and physica. education.

Barbara's subjects are biology I, typing, geometry, English II, word history and physical education.

Sophomore Clifton Stokes' schedule includes art, speech English II, world history, chorus, and physical education.

Walter Kearby is enrolled in the vocational preparation program.

Jerry Collins, formerly of Indiana, is a junior and his classes are auto mechanics, speech, and physical education.

Armon Dunn is enrolled in refrigeration and business arithmetic.

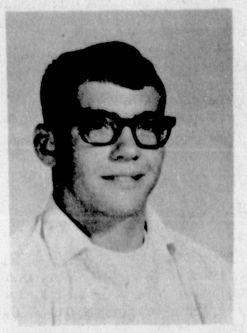

Jerry Hartlein, from Kelly high school in Scott county, is a senior, and his courses include design drafting I, sociology, career exploration, speech, dramatics, and physical education.

Marcia Hurley, formerly of Sikeston, is a senior, and her classes are Spanish, sociology, English III, American history, algebra II, and home decorating.

Senior Roger Ruebush from St. Charles, Ill., takes speech, sociology, contemporary history, English IV, dramatics, and physical education. Roger moved with his family to Illinois when he was a junior at the second semester in Sikeston.

Belinda Sartin is a sophomore, formerly from Zalma, Mo. Her classes include biology, funcational mathematics, world history, English II, home decorating, and physical education.

Mike Garner Participates In Athletics

Junior Mike Garner is known for participation in football, basketball, and baseball in the high school.

He played first string right end and middle line backer on the defensive unit of the football squad.

Mike scored three touchdowns, and he also played on the defensive Bulldog line.

He was given the honor of first string offensive end All-Conference, second string middle line backer on defense All-Conference, and lettered for the second year in football.

Mike played third base on the baseball team last year, and he worked his way through subdistrict, district, sectional, and regional championships before the team lost in the state competition.

Mike participated with the Connie Mack team as a pitcher in Sikeston last summer. He was one of the team members who helped take the team to national competition in Fort Worth, Texas.

He is vice president of his home room, directed by Miss Uriel Haw.

Mike plans to attend Murray State University after graduation from high school.

SHS Strings To Perform In Festival

Orchestra Members Will Go To Paducah; Annual Quad-State

Sikeston high school orchestra, directed by Richard Powell, will participate in the 16th annual Quad - State String Orchestra Festival Monday.

Students from high school attending will be Gary Wiss, Charlene Hammock, Gay Goehri, Carolyn Lucy. Randy Atwell, Linda Condict, Terry Shauer, Allen Sebaugh, and Robert Hazel.

Selections to be presented by the orchestra include "To A Wild Rose," "Overture to 'Atys'," "Tango Trocadero," and "Four Early American Tunes," consisting of "Chester", "Yankee Doodle," "Down Derry Down," and "The Riflemen's Song At Bennington."

String Orchestra Festival is the third in an annual series of Quad - State Music Festivals.

Orchestras from Kentucky, Tennessee, Illinois, and Missouri will assemble at Tilghman high school in Paducah for the day's activities.

Rehearsal is to begin at 9 a.m. The group will climax their day with a 2:30 p.m. demonstration concert before visitors and the student body of Paducah Tilghman High School.

Professor Neale Mason of Murray State Universis is this year's Quad - State String Orchestra enductor.

ORCHESTRA MEMBERS PRACTICE diligently for annual Quad-State String Orchestra Festival Monday.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strauss LL.B

THE CASE OF THE FLIRTATIOUS LAWYER

During a heated trial, two opposing attorneys used every theatrical trick they could think of to win their case. In fact, the judge suspected that one of the two lawyers had even taken to making romantic eyes at several of the female jurors. Thus, as the jurors filed out of the courtroom to meditate over their verdict, the judge admonished them as follows:

"And remember," he said, "stage-play acting and flirting with jurors by the attorneys should not be allowed to influence your decision. While flirting may be flattering, it's not evidence."

After the jurors returned with their verdict, the losing attorney lost no time in racing to a higher court to demand a new trial.

"The judge accused me of being a flirt," he complained indignantly. "Since nobody likes a flirt, the judge prejudiced the jury against me so that their decision wasn't fairly arrived at."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order a new trial because of the flirtation indication?

This is how the judge ruled: No. The judge held that the complaining attorney had not been prejudiced by the trial judge's statement since he did not mention which attorney, if either, had been flirting. What's more, if the lawyer was innocent, the jury knew it and no harm was done. On the other hand, if he was guilty, he had no cause to complain.

(Based upon a 1949 U.S. Court of Appeals Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

A safe deposit box is a valuable thing to have, but have your own. If you keep valuable items in someone else's box, and he dies, there may be a legal bar to your getting at it as quickly as your circumstances may require.

(For personal guidance, see your local attorney.)

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

If then you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above. (Colossians 3:1, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, we often speak about heaven but are living with an earthly mind. We lift our eyes to the sky and look into our own hearts, but do not see our brother and our sister in need. Open our eyes that we may see our task in this world - to be witnesses of Thy love; through Christ our Lord.. .....Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine who is normally quiet -- in fact, you might even say depressed - showed up at a party last week in very high spirits. I couldn't get over the change in her personality so I pulled her aside and asked what had come over her.

She swore me to secrecy, took a pill box out of her purse and showed me some capsules which she said had done wonders for her. I asked her what was in the capsules and she said she didn't know and didn't care. When I asked the name of the doctor who had recommended them she replied, "I got these from my cleaning woman. I wouldn't say a word to my doctor because he might not approve and I'd be down in the dumps again."

I have never been one to take medicine. In fact, I'm one of those people who has to be dying before I will take an aspirin. I admit I am tempted to try these capsules just to see what they would do to me. Do you know anything about this sort of pepper-upper? --- NEED A BOOST

Dear Need: No more than you do --- which is nothing. But this I Do know, any woman who could let her cleaning lady prescribe medication is short a few buttons.

If you need a boost, go to your doctor. Perhaps you are not getting enough rest. Maybe your blood pressure is low, or you need more sugar or a thyroid check. Only a physician should decide.

People who get pepped up with capsules pay for it later. It's like racing a motor at top speed. It could shake you apart. The magic medicine you think is going to put a tiger in your tank could cause sleeplessness, severe heart palpitations, melancholia --- or worse. Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: I read the letter from "Another Wall Street Warrior's Wife" --- only she lives in Winnetka. Her husband probably works on La-Salle Street.

I live in Winnetka, too, and the words that woman used to describe her life apply to me straight across the board. Before you say "So What, --- they probably apply to a thousand other women", I would like to make it clear that I am not a woman, - I am a husband and father. And if anyone had told me I would wind up writing to Ann Landers, and a serious letter at that, I would have said he was insane.

But here I am because I want you to know that I, too, would gladly exchange the big house, the cars in the garage and the country club membership for a wife who would attend church with me and the children and show some interest in our home. As far as sex is concerned, that went dead years ago in the dry martini. ---ALSO DISENCHANTED

Dear Also: Thanks for your letter. It is a grim reminder that disenchantment in marriage knows no gender.

Dear Ann Landers: Two weeks ago my father told my brother and me that our job was to empty the trash every day after school. He said if it wasn't done by the time he got home we'd each have to pay him a quarter.

Last night we forgot and Dad made us hand over the money. Then he said, "O.K. now go empty the trash." We told him that since he had collected the quarters he should do it.

Are we right? --- BROKE AND OVERWORKED

Dear B and O: No. Emptying the trash is YOUR job and your father was collecting his own quarters. The penalty you guys paid was a fine for failing to live up to your responsibilities.

Lee H. Del Plane

GREAT LAKES, ILL. (FHTNC) -- Seaman Recruit Lee H. Del Plane, 19, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan H. Del Plane of 605 Ruth St., Sikeston, Mo. has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center here.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other subjects.

Richard J. Hutchison

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Richard J. Hutchison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Hutchison of 946 Crescent Road, Sikeston, Mo., was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-calibre pistol are usually stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects; hygiene; first aid and sanitation; and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join Marine combat forces.

Truck Overturns Near Benton, Ill.

A tractor trailer truck driven by a Bertrand man and owned by a Sikeston firm overturned this morning on Interstate 57 about three miles north of Benton, Ill.

James Warren, Bertrand, the driver apparently fell asleep at the wheel. No one was injured, but the truck and trailer were heavily damaged.

The truck was loaded with oranges and enroute to the Chicago area from Florida.

The truck is owned by C. W. Terrell of Terrell Lime and Produce Co., 841 Linn.

The "Full Faith And Credit" Clause of The United States Constitution

Even, however, in the case of lawsuits involving only a sum of money, certain grounds for ignoring the judgment of sister State still survive, although these are few and far between. In this respect, a few vestiges of State sovereignty in the international sense of the word still remain, which would not be present if the United States were a unitary system and not a federal system. For example, a plaintiff who has lost a case in the courts of one State on the ground that he sued too late can still recover on the same claim against the defendant in the courts of another State. Likewise, there the courts of one State give a party a judgment inconsistent with a prior judgment rendered in another State, and the law of the State where the second judgment was rendered precludes enforcement of the first judgment, the second judgment will supercede the first in all States, including the one where the first judgement was rendered. And where the courts of one State have ordered a winning party in a previous lawsuit in another State not to take advantage of his prior judgment because he obtained it by fraud, all States will be bound to give effect to this latter determination.

A losing party may also resit a judgment rendered in a sister State if the original claim was "penal." A "penal" claim is based on a State law designed, not to compensate a person for a wrong done to him, but to deter someone from acting contrary to the policy of the State. Such a law must impose a liability which not merely makes good the injury done, but goes further and mulcts the defendant all out of proportion to such injury to make certain that the offense is not repeated, primarily as a public punishment, and not a civil remedy to the injured party. In respect to international law, Chief Justice Marshall succinctly declared: "The courts of no country execute the penal laws of another." This rule still survives between the States as a vestige of sovereignty which was possessed by them as independent States before joining the union.

Claims, even when made by the States themselves, of a non - penal character are enforced by other States in their courts if first reduced to judgment. Thus tax judgments one State will be enforced elsewhere pursuant to the full faith and credit clause. The rule as to administrative assessments of unpaid tax claims is still undertain, however, and the scope of the full faith and credit clause in this area has not been finally adjudicated upon.

The POWER of FAITH

The many fine credits in Louis DiValentin's biography attest to his standing as an artist. And the many cathedrals, churches and religious institutions that have his paintings and sculpture, among them the National Cathedral and St. Matthews in Washington, D. C., attest to his own deeper spiritual impulses. He feels that painting on religious themes is a statement of faith in the midst of contemporary chaos and confusion.

Born in Venice, home of many of the masters, DiValentin has followed the great renaissance tradition of painting and sculpturing. As a boy during World War I in war torn Italy, he knew hunger and privation and learned the meaning of faith. He expresses it in his art today. Whenever he exhibits he always includes some of his religious works. His prize winning, "Neither Yet Have You Faith," sketched in the picture above, has inspired thousands.

"The instability of our mechanical and scientific age, the inability of men to live in peace, the lack of faith in anything, necessitate a restating of basic truths," says DiValentin.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strauss LL.B

THE CASE OF THE FLIRTATIOUS LAWYER

During a heated trial, two opposing attorneys used every theatrical trick they could think of to win their case. In fact, the judge suspected that one of the two lawyers had even taken to making romantic eyes at several of the female jurors. Thus, as the jurors filed out of the courtroom to meditate over their verdict, the judge admonished them as follows:

"And remember," he said, "stage-play acting and flirting with jurors by the attorneys should not be allowed to influence your decision. While flirting may be flattering, it's not evidence."

After the jurors returned with their verdict, the losing attorney lost no time in racing to a higher court to demand a new trial.

"The judge accused me of being a flirt," he complained indignantly. "Since nobody likes a flirt, the judge prejudiced the jury against me so that their decision wasn't fairly arrived at."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order a new trial because of the flirtation indication?

This is how the judge ruled: No. The judge held that the complaining attorney had not been prejudiced by the trial judge's statement since he did not mention which attorney, if either, had been flirting. What's more, if the lawyer was innocent, the jury knew it and no harm was done. On the other hand, if he was guilty, he had no cause to complain.

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

A safe deposit box is a valuable thing to have, but have your own. If you keep valuable items in someone else's box, and he dies, there may be a legal bar to your getting at it as quickly as your circumstances may require.

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

If then you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above. (Colossians 3:1, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, we often speak about heaven but are living with an earthly mind. We lift our eyes to the sky and look into our own hearts, but do not see our brother and our sister in need. Open our eyes that we may see our task in this world - to be witnesses of Thy love; through Christ our Lord.. .....Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine who is normally quiet -- in fact, you might even say depressed - showed up at a party last week in very high spirits. I couldn't get over the change in her personality so I pulled her aside and asked what had come over her.

She swore me to secrecy, took a pill box out of her purse and showed me some capsules which she said had done wonders for her. I asked her what was in the capsules and she said she didn't know and didn't care. When I asked the name of the doctor who had recommended them she replied, "I got these from my cleaning woman. I wouldn't say a word to my doctor because he might not approve and I'd be down in the dumps again."

I have never been one to take medicine. In fact, I'm one of those people who has to be dying before I will take an aspirin. I admit I am tempted to try these capsules just to see what they would do to me. Do you know anything about this sort of pepper-upper? --- NEED A BOOST

Dear Need: No more than you do --- which is nothing. But this I Do know, any woman who could let her cleaning lady prescribe medication is short a few buttons.

If you need a boost, go to your doctor. Perhaps you are not getting enough rest. Maybe your blood pressure is low, or you need more sugar or a thyroid check. Only a physician should decide.

People who get pepped up with capsules pay for it later. It's like racing a motor at top speed. It could shake you apart. The magic medicine you think is going to put a tiger in your tank could cause sleeplessness, severe heart palpitations, melancholia --- or worse. Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: I read the letter from "Another Wall Street Warrior's Wife" --- only she lives in Winnetka. Her husband probably works on LaSalle Street.

I live in Winnetka, too, and the words that woman used to describe her life apply to me straight across the board. Before you say "So What, --- they probably apply to a thousand other women", I would like to make it clear that I am not a woman, - I am a husband and father. And if anyone had told me I would wind up writing to Ann Landers, and a serious letter at that, I would have said he was insane.

But here I am because I want you to know that I, too, would gladly exchange the big house, the cars in the garage and the country club membership for a wife who would attend church with me and the children and show some interest in our home. As far as sex is concerned, that went dead years ago in the dry martini. ---ALSO DISENCHANTED

Dear Also: Thanks for your letter. It is a grim reminder that disenchantment in marriage knows no gender.

Dear Ann Landers: Two weeks ago my father told my brother and me that our job was to empty the trash every day after school. He said if it wasn't done by the time he got home we'd each have to pay him a quarter.

Last night we forgot and Dad made us hand over the money. Then he said, "O.K. now go empty the trash." We told him that since he had collected the quarters he should do it.

Are we right? --- BROKE AND OVERWORKED

Dear B and O: No. Emptying the trash is YOUR job and your father was collecting his own quarters. The penalty you guys paid was a fine for failing to live up to your responsibilities.

Lee H. Del Plane

GREAT LAKES, ILL. (FHTNC) -- Seaman Recruit Lee H. Del Plane, 19, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan H. Del Plane of 605 Ruth St., Sikeston, Mo. has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center here.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other subjects.

Richard J. Hutchison

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Richard J. Hutchison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Hutchison of 946 Crescent Road, Sikeston, Mo., was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-calibre pistol are usually stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects; hygiene; first aid and sanitation; and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join Marine combat forces.

Truck Overturns Near Benton, Ill.

A tractor trailer truck driven by a Bertrand man and owned by a Sikeston firm overturned this morning on Interstate 57 about three miles north of Benton, Ill. James Warren, Bertrand, the driver apparently fell asleep at the wheel. No one was injured, but the truck and trailer were heavily damaged.

The truck was loaded with oranges and enroute to the Chicago area from Florida.

The truck is owned by C. W. Terrell of Terrell Lime and Produce Co., 841 Linn.

The "Full Faith And Credit" Clause of The United States Constitution

Even, however, in the case of lawsuits involving only a sum of money, certain grounds for ignoring the judgment of sister State still survive, although these are few and far between. In this respect, a few vestiges of State sovereignty in the international sense of the word still remain, which would not be present if the United States were a unitary system and not a federal system. For example, a plaintiff who has lost a case in the courts of one State on the ground that he sued too late can still recover on the same claim against the defendant in the courts of another State. Likewise, there the courts of one State give a party a judgment inconsistent with a prior judgment rendered in another State, and the law of the State where the second judgment was rendered precludes enforcement of the first judgment, the second judgment will supercede the first in all States, including the one where the first judgement was rendered. And where the courts of one State have ordered a winning party in a previous lawsuit in another State not to take advantage of his prior judgment because he obtained it by fraud, all States will be bound to give effect to this latter determination.

A losing party may also resit a judgment rendered in a sister State if the original claim was "penal." A "penal" claim is based on a State law designed, not to compensate a person for a wrong done to him, but to deter someone from acting contrary to the policy of the State. Such a law must impose a liability which not merely makes good the injury done, but goes further and mulcts the defendant all out of proportion to such injury to make certain that the offense is not repeated, primarily as a public punishment, and not a civil remedy to the injured party. In respect to international law, Chief Justice Marshall succinctly declared: "The courts of no country execute the penal laws of another." This rule still survives between the States as a vestige of sovereignty which was possessed by them as independent States before joining the union.

Claims, even when made by the States themselves, of a non - penal character are enforced by other States in their courts if first reduced to judgment. Thus tax judgments one State will be enforced elsewhere pursuant to the full faith and credit clause. The rule as to administrative assessments of unpaid tax claims is still undertain, however, and the scope of the full faith and credit clause in this area has not been finally adjudicated upon.

The POWER of FAITH

The many fine credits in Louis DiValentin's biography attest to his standing as an artist. And the many cathedrals, churches and religious institutions that have his paintings and sculpture, among them the National Cathedral and St. Matthews in Washington, D. C., attest to his own deeper spiritual impulses. He feels that painting on religious themes is a statement of faith in the midst of contemporary chaos and confusion.

Born in Venice, home of many of the masters, DiValentin has followed the great renaissance tradition of painting and sculpturing. As a boy during World War I in war torn Italy, he knew hunger and privation and learned the meaning of faith. He expresses it in his art today. Whenever he exhibits he always includes some of his religious works. His prize winning, "Neither Yet Have You Faith," sketched in the picture above, has inspired thousands.

"The instability of our mechanical and scientific age, the inability of men to live in peace, the lack of faith in anything, necessitate a restating of basic truths," says DiValentin.

Much of State Snow Covered

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The big snowstorm moved out of Missouri today, leaving a heavy accumulation of snow and ice and lots of troubles for employes of the highway departments and utility companies.

Skies were clear over most of the state and the weatherman said there will be a slow warming trend.

Hannibal reported 14 inches of snow.

Macon and Kirksville had 11 inches each; Trenton 10; Farmington 9; Kansas City and Edina 8; St. Joseph 6, Mexico 5 and Maryville 3.

An inch of snow was reported in the southwest at Neosho and Springfield.

In many areas there were thick layers of ice under the snow, leading to troubles in clearing streets and highways.

The ice caused extensive damage to utility lines. Kansas City had abour 4,000 families without electric service during the night. The Kansas City Power & Light Co. had a crew of 700 workmen repairing lines broken by ice and ice-laden tree limbs.

The Missouri Public Service Co. reported about 1,000 families without service in Jackson and Cass counties.

In the eastern part of the state boonville had four inches of snow and St. Louis received an inch.

Adding to the trouble were the low temperatures this morning. They ranged from 3 above at Maryville to 28 at Cape Girardeau. St. Joseph had 7, Kirksville 11 and Kansas City and Joplin 12.

Temperatures tonight will be near zero in the northwest, 10 to 15 in the northwest and in the teens in the extreme southeast.

Saturday's highs will be in the 30s in the northwest, around 30 northeast and near 40 in the southwest.

The five-day forecast says little or no precipitation is expected and adds that temperatures will average near normal in the southeast and 4 to 8 degrees above normal elsewhere.

smaller communities had comparable conditions.

Gary, Ind., the big steel-making center, reported it was paralyzed. Indiana State Police called for all outside equipment to work at opening roads in the state's northwest corner.

"Somebody is going to have to start digging from the outside to reach us," said Sgt. Edward Moody, commander of the post at Schererville, Ind. He said every state police car in Lake County was drift-mired.

In northwestern Ohio, a severe ice storm knocked out power, crippled communications and closed schools. Van Wert was cut off from the world except for radio communications. The telephones weren't working. Other towns in the area had no electric power because of ice-snapped lines.

In Michigan, Kalamazoo had 17 inches of drifted snow; Lansing, the state capital, 16 inches and Flint 15. Kalamazoo, with 90,000 persons, one resident said, "has never been so staggered."

Interstate 94, southern Michigan's main east-west highway, was blocked by three major jams, state police said. Other main roads in southern Michigan were called impassable.

The storm dumped a foot of snow across northern Missouri and Kansas before it hit the Great Lakes region. It was paralleled by a strip of freezing rain and ice across central Missouri, central Illinois, north-central Indiana and northwestern Ohio.

In this band, the major problems were glassy highway coatings of ice, and sheaths of ice which collected on power and telephone wires, many of the lines breaking when brisk winds put extra strain on them.

Many Chicago motorists were unable to drive their cars home from their jobs Thursday night, and bunked with friends. Travelers marooned by suspension of air service jammed the Chicago hotels.

Worse was the plight of the occupants of 1,000 vehicles stranded in the snow at the southern city limits. Many of them were schoolchildren marooned in several schools buses. About 1,000 persons were put up overnight in four school gymnasiums.

Forty prisoners of the snow became overnight "prisoners" in Cook County Jail when they couldn't leave the Criminal Courts building. Warden Jack Johnson sent around an evening meal of hamburgers for the "inmates," who included judges and lawyers.

Downtown hotels were filled to capacity. Traffic at O'Hare International Airport was halted. All the major taxi companies pronounced the roads too hazardous and took their cabs off the streets, except for emergency calls.

Some 2,500 city workers were salting, plowing and clearing — but winds sometimes stronger than 60 m.p.h. clogged streets almost as soon as they were cleared.

From all reports, the only reliable way of getting around the city was the elevated-subway system.

At least two persons died in auto accidents on the snowy streets. Two Chicago residents died, apparently of heart attacks, while shovelling snow. Another was struck and killed by a commuter train. Two other men, one in Chicago and the other in Elgin, suffered fatal heart attacks after pushing autos out of snowdrifts.

Snow piled up on building roofs and some collapsed. The roof of the high school athletic building in Crete, south of Chicago, came crashing down only an hour after the students had left school. There were no injuries.

Downstate, television and radio station towers tumbled to the ground before a howling wind that accompanied one of the worst ice storms on record.

Hundreds of communities were without telephones or lights.

Power and phone service was cut as the ice-brittle wires snapped in high winds.

In Warrenton, Mo., striking Missouri - Edison Co. workers voluntarily returned to their jobs after an ice storm knocked out power in three eastern Missouri counties.

The storm covered Gary, Ind., with a foot of snow. Drifts mounted to five feet. Police closed the Tri-State expressway and U.S. 12-20, major east-west routes through northern Indiana.

Many Gary area schools were closed. Police said almost every Indiana road around Lake Michigan's southern tip was impassable. They said some 2,000 persons were stranded in two counties along U. S. 41.

South of the snow belt, the ice storm shut down electric and telephone facilities from one end of Indiana to the other.

In Michigan, stranded motorists stayed in motels, gas stations, a school building and even a Western Michigan University fraternity house.

A one-story factory building's roof collapsed in St. Joseph, injuring three of the 32 persons inside.

At Benton Harbor near the Indiana line there were 12 to 14 inches of snow.

A. D. Martin. Martin said: "As far as being 100 per cent sure as to what we are going to do about Lincoln School, we do not know all the answers.

"The issue of importance here is integration. It is not for us to decide. The law is on the books. And now it is up to us as parents and taxpayers to abide by it.

"What we're going to do about Lincoln School would not come up if it were not for the integration law. Since it has we want to do what is best for our children."

Twitty explained that the reason complete integration of the schools is required is that the supreme court decision of 1954, and subsequent civil rights legislation is coming to a culmination. If the schools do not comply and effect complete integration federal funds to the school system will be stopped, he stated.

If any group is obligated to set the example and obey the law it should be the schools, Twitty said.

"It isn't important that we like it, if it's what is good for the kids," he continued.

The aim, he said, is to provide as good an education as possible, so that someday we can look at people not as black or white, but on the basis of what they can do.

Twitty stated that the proposed plans for the Lincoln School do not yet represent a final decision of the school board.

But what is being considered is this:

Busing the children now attending Lincoln school and distributing them to the five other elementary schools in Sikeston. Using the Lincoln school facility to teach vocational education classes, promoting a recreation center at the facility for the neighborhood children and continuing an after-school tutoring center there. He also expressed hopes that the city might establish a branch library at the school.

Then came the questions. They took several angles, but the heart of the matter was why?

Why do we have to separate the children from this community? Why not keep a few grades here and bus white children to this school? Why just cut this school out as far as elementary children are concerned?

Twitty, clearly, had a problem on his hands. He explained that under the federal requirements the most favorable ratio that must be met in this community is 17 per cent Negro and 83 per cent Caucasian in the schools.

If Lincoln were integrated and kept as an elementary school, only about 60 Negro pupils would be permitted to attend, he said.

"We sincerely feel that by moving the children to the others schools, all the kids-ours and yours - will benefit. Children learn from each other," Twitty said.

When the question kept coming, about busing whites to the Lincoln, Twitty said he had hoped he would not have to say this, but "to be brutally frank, we have found on the basis of standardized achievement tests administered when children enter the middle school, those Negro children who have attended the predominately white elementary schools come into the seventh grade at a higher achievement level of learning."

The children who come in directly from Lincoln school, on the average, come in anywhere from one month to one year behind the others at the seventh grade level, Twitty explained.

"Are you saying that the Lincoln School staff is not good?" one member of the audience asked.

No, the teachers are good. And they will be employed in the other schools if and when the move is made, Twitty said. The Lincoln School uses the same textbooks, it receives the same services, the same nursing and the same speech correctionists, he continued.

Twitty then mentioned that by bringing a vocational facility to the community, more money would be brought into the community. The audience wasn't too interested.

One woman said: "When you talk about our children you are talking about what we are most concerned about. You never get closer, than when you deal with our babies."

Another woman expressed fears as to what would happen to her small children in a classroom with white children and a white teacher. She said by the time the child was in seventh grade, he could fend for himself, but as a six-year-old she was concerned.

Another mother of elementary age children expressed worries about how the children would be accepted in the white school, if they would be fed.

Another was worried about the small children standing in freezing weather waiting for a bus.

But the economic aspects of the question of moving the children from Lincoln School were only incidental. The parents at the meeting last night were most concerned about the identity of the school with the community of Sunset.

One of the most vocal mothers said, "I don't care if you send all white children to the school. But it just wouldn't seem the same to come home from work and not see children around coming home from school. Please don't take our school."

The Rev. Kater Crump, an elderly Negro sat in the front row and remained silent for most of the night, said:

"The question has been asked a dozen times tonight, and you still haven't told us -- why? Why do the children have to be moved from the school."

Twitty said he thought he had answered it.

Twitty continually answered the questions with the same answers. Basically, he said, the planned more is for two reasons: The law requires it and it is what is best for the children.

One member of the audience said the law requires integration of the schools, it doesn't state that the Negroes have to be taken into the white schools, instead of bringing the white children to a Negro school.

An uproar of response from the audience was heard after one Negro stated his opinion.

He said he thought the real reason the school officials want to move the operation of the elementary school is because the 83 per cent of whites who would have to be moved into Lincoln School, if it were maintained as an elementary site, would be against sending their children here.

Twitty did a little fumbling for words and said: "I think that's about as lucid an explanation of the problem as we have heard."

Finally, the Rev. Mr. Gwinn called the meeting to a close and thanked everyone for coming. He also said just before closing that he hoped they were satisfied with the answers.

"A resounding answer was heard in a chorus of low "noes."

smaller communities had comparable conditions.

Gary, Ind., the big steel-making center, reported it was paralyzed. Indiana State Police called for all outside equipment to work at opening roads in the state's northwest corner.

"Somebody is going to have to start digging from the outside to reach us," said Sgt. Edward Moody, commander of the post at Schererville, Ind. He said every state police car in Lake County was drift-mired.

In northwestern Ohio, a severe ice storm knocked out power, crippled communications and closed schools. Van Wert was cut off from the world except for radio communications. The telephones weren't working. Other towns in the area had no electric power because of ice-snapped lines.

In Michigan, Kalamazoo had 17 inches of drifted snow; Lansing, the state capital, 16 inches and Flint 15. Kalamazoo, with 90,000 persons, one resident said, "has never been so staggered."

Interstate 94, southern Michigan's main east-west highway, was blocked by three major jams, state police said. Other main roads in southern Michigan were called impassable.

The storm dumped a foot of snow across northern Missouri and Kansas before it hit the Great Lakes region. It was paralleled by a strip of freezing rain and ice across central Missouri, central Illinois, northcentral Indiana and northwestern Ohio.

In this band, the major problems were glassy highway coatings of ice, and sheaths of ice which collected on power and telephone wires, many of the lines breaking when brisk winds put extra strain on them.

Many Chicago motorists were unable to drive their cars home from their jobs Thursday night, and bunked with friends. Travelers marooned by suspension of air service jammed the Chicago hotels.

Worse was the plight of the occupants of 1,000 vehicles stranded in the snow at the southern city limits. Many of them were schoolchildren marooned in several schools buses. About 1,000 persons were put up overnight in four school gymnasiums.

Forty prisoners of the snow became overnight "prisoners" in Cook County Jail when they couldn't leave the Criminal Courts building. Warden Jack Johnson sent around an evening meal of hamburgers for the "inmates," who included judges and lawyers.

Downtown hotels were filled to capacity. Traffic at O'Hare International Airport was halted. All the major taxi companies pronounced the roads too hazardous and took their cabs off the streets, except for emergency calls.

Some 2,500 city workers were salting, plowing and clearing — but winds sometimes stronger than 60 m.p.h. clogged streets almost as soon as they were cleared.

From all reports, the only reliable way of getting around the city was the elevated-subway system.

At least two persons died in auto accidents on the snowy streets. Two Chicago residents died, apparently of heart attacks, while shovelling snow. Another was struck and killed by a commuter train. Two other men, one in Chicago and the other in Elgin, suffered fatal heart attacks after pushing autos out of snowdrifts.

Snow piled up on building roofs and some collapsed. The roof of the high school athletic building in Crete, south of Chicago, came crashing down only an hour after the students had left school. There were no injuries.

Downstate, television and radio station towers tumbled to the ground before a howling wind that accompanied one of the worst ice storms on record.

Hundreds of communities were without telephones or lights.

Power and phone service was cut as the ice-brittle wires snapped in high winds.

In Warrenton, Mo., striking Missouri - Edison Co. workers voluntarily returned to their jobs after an ice storm knocked out power in three eastern Missouri counties.

The storm covered Gary, Ind., with a foot of snow. Drifts mounted to five feet. Police closed the Tri-State expressway and U.S. 12-20, major east-west routes through northern Indiana.

Many Gary area schools were closed. Police said almost every Indiana road around Lake Michigan's southern tip was impassable. They said some 2,000 persons were stranded in two counties along U. S. 41.

South of the snow belt, the ice storm shut down electric and telephone facilities from one end of Indiana to the other.

In Michigan, stranded motorists stayed in motels, gas stations, a school building and even a Western Michigan University fraternity house.

A one-story factory building's roof collapsed in St. Joseph, injuring three of the 32 persons inside.

At Benton Harbor near the Indiana line there were 12 to 14 inches of snow.

A. D. Martin. Martin said: "As far as being 100 per cent sure as to what we are going to do about Lincoln School, we do not know all the answers.

"The issue of importance here is integration. It is not for us to decide. The law is on the books. And now it is up to us as parents and taxpayers to abide by it.

"What we're going to do about Lincoln School would not come up if it were not for the integration law. Since it has we want to do what is best for our children."

Twitty explained that the reason complete integration of the schools is required is that the supreme court decision of 1954, and subsequent civil rights legislation is coming to a culmination. If the schools do not comply and effect complete integration federal funds to the school system will be stopped, he stated.

If any group is obligated to set the example and obey the law it should be the schools, Twitty said.

"It isn't important that we like it, if it's what is good for the kids," he continued.

The aim, he said, is to provide as good an education as possible, so that someday we can look at people not as black or white, but on the basis of what they can do.

Twitty stated that the proposed plans for the Lincoln School do not yet represent a final decision of the school board.

But what is being considered is this:

Busing the children now attending Lincoln school and distributing them to the five other elementary schools in Sikeston. Using the Lincoln school facility to teach vocational education classes, promoting a recreation center at the facility for the neighborhood children and continuing an after-school tutoring center there. He also expressed hopes that the city might establish a branch library at the school.

Then came the questions. They took several angles, but the heart of the matter was why?

Why do we have to separate the children from this community? Why not keep a few grades here and bus white children to this school? Why just cut this school out as far as elementary children are concerned?

Twitty, clearly, had a problem on his hands. He explained that under the federal requirements the most favorable ratio that must be met in this community is 17 per cent Negro and 83 per cent Caucasian in the schools.

If Lincoln were integrated and kept as an elementary school, only about 60 Negro pupils would be permitted to attend, he said.

"We sincerely feel that by moving the children to the others schools, all the kids-ours and yours - will benefit. Children learn from each other," Twitty said.

When the question kept coming, about busing whites to the Lincoln, Twitty said he had hoped he would not have to say this, but "to be brutally frank, we have found on the basis of standardized achievement tests administered when children enter the middle school, those Negro children who have attended the predominately white elementary schools come into the seventh grade at a higher achievement level of learning."

The children who come in directly from Lincoln school, on the average, come in anywhere from one month to one year behind the others at the seventh grade level, Twitty explained.

"Are you saying that the Lincoln School staff is not good?" one member of the audience asked.

No, the teachers are good. And they will be employed in the other schools if and when the move is made, Twitty said. The Lincoln School uses the same textbooks, it receives the same services, the same nursing and the same speech correctionists, he continued.

Twitty then mentioned that by bringing a vocational facility to the community, more money would be brought into the community. The audience wasn't too interested.

One woman said: "When you talk about our children you are talking about what we are most concerned about. You never get closer, than when you deal with our babies."

Another woman expressed fears as to what would happen to her small children in a classroom with white children and a white teacher. She said by the time the child was in seventh grade, he could fend for himself, but as a six-year-old she was concerned.

Another mother of elementary age children expressed worries about how the children would be accepted in the white school, if they would be fed.

Another was worried about the small children standing in freezing weather waiting for a bus.

But the economic aspects of the question of moving the children from Lincoln School were only incidental. The parents at the meeting last night were most concerned about the identity of the school with the community of Sunset.

One of the most vocal mothers said, "I don't care if you send all white children to the school. But it just wouldn't seem the same to come home from work and not see children around coming home from school. Please don't take our school."

The Rev. Kater Crump, an elderly Negro sat in the front row and remained silent for most of the night, said:

"The question has been asked a dozen times tonight, and you still haven't told us -- why? Why do the children have to be moved from the school."

Twitty said he thought he had answered it.

Twitty continually answered the questions with the same answers. Basically, he said, the planned more is for two reasons: The law requires it and it is what is best for the children.

One member of the audience said the law requires integration of the schools, it doesn't state that the Negroes have to be taken into the white schools, instead of bringing the white children to a Negro school.

An uproar of response from the audience was heard after one Negro stated his opinion.

He said he thought the real reason the school officials want to move the operation of the elementary school is because the 83 per cent of whites who would have to be moved into Lincoln School, if it were maintained as an elementary site, would be against sending their children here.

Twitty did a little fumbling for words and said: "I think that's about as lucid an explanation of the problem as we have heard."

Finally, the Rev. Mr. Gwinn called the meeting to a close and thanked everyone for coming. He also said just before closing that he hoped they were satisfied with the answers.

"A resounding answer was heard in a chorus of low "noes."
